MAYOR WALKER FILES DEFENSE WITH GOVERNOR

Speaks His Piece in 20,000 Words.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., July 28.—[Special.]—Mayor James J. Walker of New York City spoke his piece today in 20,000 words and upon that he rested his hopes of staving off removal from office.

The mayor's answer to charges of corruption made against him by Samuel Seabury was presented to Gov. Roosevelt and the question of whether Walker shall remain as mayor of America's first city or be dismissed now awaits the decision of the governor.

Seabury Is Attacked.

Mayor Jimmy spent at least several thousand words "convicting" Mr. Seabury. He said the Seabury inquiry was "conceived, born and fostered in politics."

The defense statement is peppered with Walker's assertions that Seabury yielded to hypocrisy, malice, slander, intimidation of witnesses, star chamber sessions, "dragnets," "man hunts" in the effort to blacken the mayor of New York.

The presentation of the charges was carefully timed, the mayor declared, to be published just prior to the Democratic national convention in Chicago.

Made "Political Football."

"The jaundiced views contained in them," said Walker, "were not presented until such a time as would tend to make me a political football in the affairs of Samuel Seabury and others like named. The purpose was obvious."

The mayor characteristically made no defense of his personal life.

"Since the day of my birth," he said, "I have lived my life in the open. Whatever shortcomings I have are known to every one. But disloyalty to my native city, official dishonesty, or corruption forms no part of these shortcomings."

Sums Up His Defense.

Walker made a categorical denial of the charges made by the Seabury committee. Walker himself summed up his defense, in a dramatic way that attests his appreciation of strategical showmanship, as follows:

"Mr. Seabury declares that I acted as sponsor and caused to be enacted legislation limiting the number of taxicabs operating in the city of New York. At no time did I ever sponsor any legislation to limit the number of taxicabs, nor did any one else. No such legislation was ever enacted. No 'conclusion' or 'analysis' can change that fact."

The mayor also denied that he had used his influence to procure an award of a bus franchise to the Equitable Coach company.

Explains Letter of Credit.

In reference to a $10,000 letter of credit the mayor was supposed to have received from a friend interested in the Equitable Coach company and which he used to defray the expenses of a trip to Europe, the mayor repeated his explanation given at the inquiry that the fund had been raised by contributions by himself, State Senator Bernard Downing, a city commissioner, and others when it became necessary for him to take a vacation for the benefit of his health. He said:

"I assert most emphatically that in no manner, shape, or form did J. Allan Smith (one of the promoters of the Equitable Coach company project who was alleged to have drawn the letter of credit), directly or indirectly, contribute to the letter of credit or to the purchase price thereof for the use and benefit of Mrs. Walker or myself. Mr. Smith merely transmitted the cash that was delivered to him to purchase the letter of credit."

Answers Bond Charge.

Referring to the charge that he "was the owner of ten $1,000 debenture bonds of Reliance Bronze and Steel corporation, convertible into stock of the corporation at the election of the holder thereof, with which corporation the city of New York, on or about Feb. 3, 1931, entered into a contract for the purchase of 104 traffic light standards at a purchase price of approximately $43,000," he declared that "the charge that I violated the charter, either in fact or in law,

SCHOOL WAGES DELAYED; CITY WILL PAY TODAY

Funds Held Up by Court Decision.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The city administration announced yesterday that the $2,245,000 pay day which had been promised for the school employés today had been postponed. The promise of the payment, to cover half a month's back salaries for the school employés, was made after Mayor Cermak had conferred with bankers on Monday.

The question of when the school employés will be paid is now undetermined. It was said that the pay day probably would be postponed until after the meeting of the city council next Thursday.

Employés of the city proper, the public library, and the tuberculosis sanitarium, however, will be paid today for the first half of May. The city has credit and has been able to borrow the $1,900,000 needed for these salary payments.

Explains Pay Day Delay.

Several reasons were given for the delay in paying the teachers and other school employés. In the absence of City Controller M. S. Szymczak, who has gone to New York in an effort to sell school tax anticipation warrants, Deputy Controller Victor Peterson said:

"The state Supreme court decision upholding issuance of 'N. S. F.' checks has not been sufficiently analyzed by the law department for us to determine whether it creates any hazard to tax anticipation warrants. Also, valid 1932 tax anticipation warrants cannot be issued until the tax levy ordinance becomes effective.

"In addition, if the obtaining of $2,245,000 for the schools involves a further drain upon the city's aggregate of funds, I shall desire to examine the plan carefully before attempting to execute it."

Sees Peril to Warrants.

In the opinion of Harry E. Cutler of the law firm of Chapman & Cutler, security experts, the Supreme court decision upholding the payment of school employés with "N. S. F." checks created a serious hazard for tax anticipation warrants of the school board's educational fund. Without the approval of this law firm such warrants are not marketable to Chicago bankers and investment houses. Regarding them, Mr. Cutler said yesterday:

"As a result of this decision and under existing legislation we know of no way by which the purchasers of 1932 school educational tax anticipation warrants may be protected against the possibility that the taxes so anticipated may be paid in teachers' orders ["N. S. F." checks] in lieu of money and to that extent deplete the source of payment of such tax anticipation warrants."

Expects Banks to Refuse.

With such a view expressed by Chapman & Cutler, the banks and investment houses are expected to refuse to buy educational tax anticipation warrants of the school board. If unacceptable to them, acting Controller Petterson and City Treasurer Kearns must decide whether it is prudent to invest the city's aggregate of funds in such warrants. It is believed that Mr. Petterson had this in mind when making his statement. His second criticism was partly disposed of yesterday by the city council.

The council passed the school board's reduced tax levy for 1932. It totals only $61,163,364, a reduction of 28.27 per cent from its 1931 levy of $85,263,807. It is a reduction of $15,000,000 from the board's previous 1932 levy proposal. It also passed an ordinance authorizing the board, at its request, to issue 1932 tax anticipation warrants.

Wait on Ordinance.

Such warrants cannot be issued until the tax levy ordinance becomes effective. It must either be signed by the mayor, who is now at sea on his way to Europe, or become effective by lapse of time without mayoral disapproval. If it is neither signed nor vetoed it becomes operative at the next regular meeting of the city council, if it is held five days after the preceding meeting. Therefore, both the tax levy ordinance and the ordinance authorizing the school board to issue 1932 tax warrants will become effective next Thursday.

Another Stumbling Block.

Still another unexplained difficulty remains. The plan of getting the $2,245,000 for the banks to buy city corporate

TAXES FORCE DUCHESS OF YORK'S FATHER TO CLOSE GLAMIS CASTLE

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, July 28.—Glamis castle, world famed Scottish home of the earl of Strathmore and Kinghorn and the birthplace of his daughter, the duchess of York, is to be closed. The earl announced tonight that, owing to present taxation burdens, it is "impossible to go on."

The earl said he is being taxed on land at nearly twenty shillings in the pound, and that eighty pounds out of every hundred he receives goes to the state. Accordingly, only a small number of rooms in the great structure, which was first mentioned in history about 1034 and has been the home of the Strathmores for generations, will be opened when he pays infrequent visits there.

OAK PARK SCANS BEHAVIOR OF FIVE (OR IS IT 25?) CATS

Dudley C. Meyers, commissioner of public works of Oak Park, admitted yesterday that he is investigating complaints of the misbehavior of from five to twenty-five cats which make their home with Mrs. George Menger, 946 North Hayes avenue.

The figure five is that given by Mrs. Menger. The twenty-five comes from neighbors, who allege that if there are less it doesn't matter; they sound like more when they sing at the moon. Besides, Mrs. Ralph Harrison, 936 North Hayes avenue, declared that Henrietta Zander, a fan tail goldfish, had disappeared from her lily pool.

"It is my opinion that Henrietta became catfish," she remarked significantly.

Mrs. Richard Roberts, 930 North Hayes avenue, announced she was keeping a close watch over her lily pool and its goldfish since the end of Henrietta. But Mrs. Menger is indignant about aspersions on her cats' characters.

"I have five," she averred. "They are well behaved. I have a 9 foot wire fence to keep them in, but it isn't necessary. They always stay in after dark. They don't yell at nights, either—not much."

Drive to Bring Back a Kaiser Opens in Reich

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 28.—The Nationalist cry for "kaiserism" rang out tonight as Germany's reichstag election campaign, which comes to an end on Sunday, raged into its final stages.

DR. ALFRED HUGENBERG. [Acme Photo.]

The appeal for the old régime was voiced by Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, leader of the Nationalist party, in a campaign address at Koenigsberg. Hugenberg was a privy councilor under former Kaiser Wilhelm, and has since remained his devoted henchman.

"The safest guarantee for a clean, strong and just state for Germany lies in kaiserism," he declared.

Boosts Military Training.

Attacking the previous government, Hugenberg described his party as a bulwark protecting Germany from bolshevism. He went on to assert that the universal military training, which the treaty of Versailles abolished, must be reëstablished.

"German manhood can never attain its true stature without compulsory military training," he stated. "Such training always has been the best school for the German man. German youth demands leadership and discipline.

"Thanks to our Nationalist movement, there have arisen again moral forces which are willing to create the Germany of tomorrow from the wreckage of today. Let us see that this reawakened spirit is not destroyed by materialism, pacifism, and Godlessness."

Although a more or less elastic alliance exists between the Nationalists and Adolf Hitler's National Socialists, growing from their common enmity to republican elements, Hugenberg did not hesitate tonight to thrust a barbed statement in the direction of the Fascist adaptations of his allies.

"Let Us Not Imitate."

"Let us not imitate other countries," he said. "That goes also for outward things like uniforms and salutes. The simple field gray and the military salute of the old army are closer to our hearts."

Hugenberg concluded, however, by including the Hitlerites in his plea for votes in order "to solve Germany's problems."

Hugenberg's fiery address followed on the heels of another equally spectacular outburst against the republic by Hitler last night, in which he declared that the election Sunday must mean the end of the republic's "thirteen years of decadence."

"The rule of democracy and Marxism must be removed from Germany on Sunday, July 31," he said. "A régime of discipline, national conscience, honor, and power must be restored. We aim to sweep the many political parties out of the country. We must be a united people."

Meanwhile groups of Hitler's party, which favor seizing power the night after the election, have grown extremely restless. German newspapers report that small detachments and truckloads of Hitler's "brown shirt" army are assembling at strategic centers throughout the reich.

All Police Mobilized.

The republican press urges authorities to send the invaders home before election day. The reichswehr (army), police, and Hitlerite leaders, however, declare that they are following the movements of the men closely and that there is no danger of "unexpected dangerous action."

Beginning Saturday the entire police force of Germany will be mobilized to prevent election clashes. The reichswehr is, too, ready for action, although the government is convinced that it will not be needed.

Truckloads of Hitlerite troops from six small towns of Pomerania are en route to Berlin, according to Berliner Tageblatt. It told of "youths departing from the villages and saying farewell to their parents as if they faced great action."

Co-ed Slapped and Robbed of Her Auto by Armed Pair

Miss Helen Applegate of Superior, Wis., a University of Chicago student, was driving her automobile slowly at 57th street and Woodlawn avenue early today when two armed men jumped on the running board, forced her to halt, and demanded the car. When she protested one of the robbers slapped her face and pushed her out. They then drove away. Miss Applegate told the police she was driving home alone after a trip to Miami, Fla.

HOOVER CALLS REGULARS; BURN CAPITAL BONUS SITE

Chicagoan Killed by Police; Nearly 50 Hurt in Battles.

BONUS BATTLE PICTURES.

Graphic pictures of the battle between police and rioters, and the advance of troops against the bonus army are published on the back page. The pictures were telephoned from Washington, D. C., last night.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., July 28.—[Special.]—Regular army troops at the direction of Commander in Chief Hoover routed and dispersed more than 5,000 bonus marchers and burned their camps to the ground tonight after a day of rioting in which one veteran was killed and nearly fifty veterans and policemen were wounded.

The dead veteran was William Hushka of 2316 West 23d place, Chicago.

The order that brought 3,000 cavalrymen, infantrymen, and tank units to the scene was issued by the President shortly before 3 p. m. when the District of Columbia commissioners, after the most serious riot, formally advised the White House that they could not preserve order and asked for aid.

Another 2,000 troops were mobilized in the Washington area awaiting possible call to action.

Troops Rout 3,000 Vets.

Supported by the United States cavalry, the infantrymen, wearing gas masks and hurling tear gas bombs, drove more than 3,000 veterans from the area at the foot of Capitol Hill on Pennsylvania avenue where they had gathered to aid several hundred other bonus marchers in resisting eviction from the old buildings to be razed in preparation for the erection of new government structures.

As the troops drove the veterans before them they set fire to the shacks which had sheltered the bonus marchers. Camp after camp was thus destroyed after its occupants had been driven out by tear gas. The communists deserted their camp well in advance of the arrival of the troops without putting up any semblance of resistance.

Main Camp Attacked.

By dark the veterans had been driven across the eastern branch of the Potomac into their principal camp at Anacostia which Gen. Douglas Mac Arthur, army chief of staff, who personally directed the operations, ordered them to evacuate with dispatch. After some resistance the leaders of the veterans, including W. W. Waters, agreed to evacuate the 380 women and 488 children at once. This was accomplished within two hours, the women and children and huge quantities of bedding and other effects being carried out in automobiles and trucks.

With the women and children gone the troops advanced across the Anacostia bridge and moved upon the camp. The infantry hurled tear gas bombs and drove the veterans from the shacks which were immediately set on fire. Shortly thereafter other infantry units began similar operations at the other end of the camp.

Veterans Sing War Songs.

The veterans, offering no resistance, gathered in the center of the camp singing war songs. They were suffering steady defections, 500 of the men having gone shortly after the women.

Soon the sky was illuminated with flames from a ring of burning shacks, while the infantry, wearing their gas masks and hurling their tear gas bombs, were closing in upon the veterans in the center.

Finally the veterans fired their own shacks in the center of the camp and retreated before the oncoming troops. At 11:20 o'clock the troops were in full possession of the camp, which was in flames, and the bonus marchers were streaming through Anacostia.

"On to Johnstown" was the shout that went up from their ranks as they retreated.

Invited to Pennsylvania.

Early in the evening Waters had made a speech to the veterans in which he urged them to offer only passive resistance and announced that if they should be driven out the new headquarters of the bonus expeditionary forces would be established at Johnstown, Pa., in response to an invitation from Mayor McCloskey of that city.

"We'll be back next winter," chorused the departing veterans. "Yes, and not so peaceful next time," came the refrain from other throats.

The evicted veterans scattered through Anacostia and Washington proper, preparing to spend the sultry night on park benches and along roadsides.

The women and children, numbering nearly 1,000, had been evacuated before the troops reached Camp Marks. They spent the early part of the night on the banks of the eastern branch, but at midnight were taken to the billets at Camp Bartlett, on the outskirts of Anacostia.

No Major Casualty.

The entire operations of the troops were carried to a successful conclusion without any major casualties. It was not necessary to proclaim martial law, it was explained, in order to employ the army on this mission in the District of Columbia, in which the federal government is supreme.

The last time the troops were called out was to quell the race riots in 1919. Martial law was not proclaimed at that time.

Actually the march on Anacostia began the moment the Pennsylvania avenue properties had been cleared out. Spread out in a great fan the combined infantry, cavalry and engineer forces swept rapidly toward the Potomac until they had cleared the entire triangle on which the government is constructing its 350 million

PRESIDENT GIVES REASONS FOR THE USE OF SOLDIERS

Washington, D. C., July 28.—(AP)—President Hoover late today issued a statement as follows:

"For some days police authorities and treasury officials have been endeavoring to persuade the so-called bonus marchers to evacuate certain buildings which they were occupying without permission.

"These buildings are on sites where government construction is in progress and their demolition was necessary in order to extend employment in the district and to carry forward the government's construction program.

Veterans Evacuate.

"This morning the occupants of these buildings were notified to evacuate and at the request of the police did evacuate the buildings concernd.

"Thereafter, however, several thousand men from different camps marched in and attacked the police with brickbats and otherwise, injuring several policemen, one probably fatally.

"I have received the attached letter from the commissioners of the District of Columbia stating that they can no longer preserve law and order in the District.

"In order to put an end to this rioting and defiance of civil authority, I have asked the army to assist the District authorities to restore order.

Provision Made for Return.

"Congress made provision for the return home of the so-called bonus marchers who have for many weeks been given every opportunity of free assembly, free speech, and free petition to the congress.

"Some 5,000 took advantage of this arrangement and have returned to their homes. An examination of a large number of names discloses the fact that a considerable part of those remaining are not veterans; many are communists and persons with criminal records.

"The veterans amongst these numbers are no doubt unaware of the character of their companions and are being led into violence which no government can tolerate.

"I have asked the attorney general to investigate the whole incident and to coöperate with the District civil authorities in such measures against leaders and rioters as may be necessary."

dollar group of buildings. Before the movement concluded the communist bonus camp had been burned to the ground and the entire area bounded by Pennsylvania avenue, and E street southwest, between 3d and 14th streets, was under military control.

In taking over this district the cavalrymen at times rode roughshod through the stubborn massed bonus marchers, wearing them down by rapid movement and physical violence. The infantrymen left a trail of gas behind them. At times the federal troops chased the fleeing bonus veterans through private property, brushing private citizens aside or sending them scurrying to escape the fumes.

As the cavalry moved forward on the Maryland avenue camp of the bonus marchers they rode horse to horse. Behind them came the infantry and behind the infantry crawled the tanks. One group took the right flank of the objective, another the left. Within a few moments the Maryland avenue camp was burned and the troops were on their way to Anacostia.

Hurley Orders Troops Out.

It was 2:55 in the afternoon when Secretary of War Hurley summoned Gen. MacArthur, his chief of staff, and ordered him to take steps at once to clear the bonus camps. Five minutes later commanding officers at Fort Myer, the Third corps headquarters at Baltimore, Fort Washington, Fort Humphries, and Fort Meade had been ordered to send troops to the capital equipped to use all force necessary to drive the bonus army from the government property.

Within an hour a squadron of the Third cavalry from Fort Myer were drawn up on the Mall directly back of the White House. It was 5:25, however, before a roar from the bonus army signaled the arrival of the cavalrymen. For more than an hour the government forces had been deploying, preparatory to closing in from all sides on the square where the veterans were entrenched.

Clear Pennsylvania Avenue.

The cavalrymen entered the area riding two deep. Ahead of them rode Maj. A. D. Surles and his staff. The red and white guidon of the leading company fluttered bravely as the cavalrymen with sabers drawn moved slowly down Pennsylvania avenue past the massed bonus marchers and spectators.

All traffic, including street cars, was immediately diverted off the avenue and the customary rumble was stilled. The bonus army leaned forward tensely, the late afternoon sun beating upon their bronzed faces. Across Pennsylvania avenue the crowd of spectators pushed forward.

The cavalrymen moved along until the van had reached Third street. Then they wheeled and took position. Behind them came the horses carrying machine guns and five light wartime tanks. The veterans booed the tanks. More cavalry came on and took position at Fourth street and the avenue.

Soldiers Wait Quietly.

The successors of the men who had served in the army during the world war lounged on their horses, undisturbed but on the alert. Veterans on the curbs became increasingly boisterous.

"To hell with Hoover!" sang out an anonymous voice in the crowd.

Machine gunners hurriedly began to mount guns. They had hardly started before a curt military voice ordered them to halt.

By this time Pennsylvania avenue, between Third and Fourth streets, was a great oblong square filled with cavalrymen and policemen, flanked by the bonus army on one side and a great crowd of spectators on the other. On the river side of the avenue veterans were massed at the curb. Others clung to windows in the half torn down three and four story structures awaiting only the evacuation of the bonus army before they were to be razed.

Across the avenue the block stretching back for 150 yards was black and white with sweating humanity. Ambulances, police and army, stood waiting. The police began industriously but ineffectually to push the spectator crowd back. It continued to overflow.

Cavalry Makes First Move.

Suddenly a man in the crowd began to harangue the troopers. A cavalry captain wheeled his horse on to the sidewalk. The veterans scattered.

It was the first move of the military against the veterans.

"Get the hell out of here!" the captain shouted.

Six troopers joined him and they cleared the sidewalk. At a signal the cavalry began to carry out its mission of clearing the street, so the infantry could carry out the main objective—that of driving the bonus marchers from the government sites, where new buildings are to be constructed.

Infantry Closes In.

The troop of cavalry at 3d street suddenly moved forward, eighteen abreast, with sabers drawn. They broke ranks, and, swinging their sabers, cleared the street. Slowly the crowd moved back, but the bonus veterans clung firmly to their posts.

Then suddenly a line of infantrymen closed in on the bonus army. Their bayonets, bright in the sun, the doughboys pressed against the massed bonus lines. It began to break. A moment later, however, the crowd in the rear stiffened and the khaki line halted. By this time other infantrymen had closed in on the 4th street and Pennsylvania side.

For a second the khaki line halted. The bonus army began to jeer. Some officer barked out a sharp command. Three soldiers leaped up on a half torn down building. A second later there was a sharp plop.

"It's gas," a spectator shouted, and the whole street took it up.

The wisps of smoke dissolved rapidly and spread throughout the disputed property and rode the wind across the avenue. The soldiers in gas masks moved forward. The veterans scattered in disorder. Spectators and sympathizers dissolved as the fumes spread.

Methodically the soldiers of the 12th infantry went about the task of clearing out the buildings. Some of the more bold members of the bonus army began to toss bricks. A few picked up gas bombs and tossed them back, but most of them fled. As they ran the troops set fire to the dilapidated structures in which they had lived and the die hards joined the others in flight.

Police Slay Chicagoan.

Earlier in the day had come the clash with the police attempting to drive out the veterans, which had resulted in the fatal shooting and the request for troops.

Hushka, the dead Chicago veteran, was shot by Private George Shinault of the First precinct, according to Inspector Davis. One bullet went through his heart.

According to Davis, the patrolman said he fired one shot when veterans attempted to throw him off a building.

DEAD VET A FATHER

William Hushka, 35 years old, the Chicago bonus veteran slain at Washington yesterday, left his home at 2316 West 23d place to go to Washington a month ago, according to his brother, Charles, with whom he lived.

"William was a butcher by trade," said his brother last night. "In the last five years he could get work only once in a great while. When the big gang of bonus veterans came through about a month ago he joined up with them, saying he couldn't be any worse off down in Washington than here.

"I had a letter from him a week ago. He said he was trying to get his war insurance changed to make me the beneficiary instead of his divorced wife, who has married again. He had one daughter, Laura, 12 years old, who lives with her mother."

The brother said that Hushka did not get overseas during the war. He served nearly two years at Camp Funston, Kas., and was discharged after the armistice.

Hushka came to this country in 1913 from Lithuania. Although he had not yet been naturalized when the United States entered the war, Hushka enlisted in the army, according to his brother, and was naturalized at a ceremony in Camp Funston, July 4, 1918.

Washington, D. C., July 28.—[Special.]—In response to the President's direction, Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley sent the following order to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, army chief of staff:

"The President has just informed me the civil government of the District has reported to him that it is unable to maintain law and order in the District.

"You will have United States troops proceed immediately to the scene of disorder. Cooperate fully with the District of Columbia police force, which is now in charge, surround the affected area and clear it without delay. Turn over all prisoners to the civil authorities. In your orders insist that any women and children who may be in the affected area be accorded every consideration and kindness. Use all humanity consistent with the due execution of this order PATRICK J. HURLEY,
"Secretary of War."

A New Bonus Army from West Is Washington Bound

Denver, Colo., July 28.—(AP)—Some 500 bonus marchers encamped here began leaving for Washington by motor cars late today upon word that a section of the bonus army there had been ousted by troops.

"Colonel" Joe Maida, commander, said:

"We are not seeking to create disorder in the capital. We are going to Washington to impress authorities with the importance of supplying the bonus and jobs to men who upheld the principle of democracy in the world war."

PEASANT LEADER SPLITS WITH KING OVER A BEAUTY

Rejects Carol's Offer to Become Premier.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 28.—Juliu Maniu, hardy country lawyer from Transylvania, frequently called the Abraham Lincoln of Rumania, definitely withdrew from public life tonight. He refused to head the king's government because he and the impetuous Carol could not compose their differences, the chief of which involved the red headed beauty who has played such a leading rôle in this Balkan land—Magda Lupescu, Carol's sweetheart in exile and at home.

Maniu listened to the pleas of the National Peasant party, which he built up to overthrow the corrupt régime of the Bratianus three years ago, all day long. The party begged him to remain at its head and lead the country to peace again as prime minister. Tonight he gave his definite "No," and told the peasants, who have just captured a parliamentary majority, to find another leader.

The story behind his refusal to assume power leaked out.

Last night Maniu was closeted with Carol for three hours at the royal palace. Carol not only offered, but, it is reported, begged Maniu to take over the government. Maniu consented, but on terms that Carol could not accept. They involved Mme. Lupescu, over whom Maniu and Carol quarreled last year when the peasant leader demanded that the king give her up. Then Carol answered by firing his premier.

Last night, it was learned, Mme. Lupescu was not mentioned directly.

Maniu simply demanded that the king's private secretary, Constantine Dumitrescu, be relieved of his job and sent away as minister to Portugal. Dumitrescu is a thorn in Rumanian politics. He is the husband of Mme. Lupescu's closest girl friend. He leads the court camarilla and through him Magda is believed to wield considerable power.

Hence Maniu's demand that he be removed from the country and with him Mme. Lupescu. But Carol refused.

CHARLOTTE FIXEL RECOGNIZED AS ERLANGER WIFE

[Copyright: 1932: By the News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—Charlotte Fixel, who once danced in the chorus and later lived with A. L. Erlanger, has been recognized as the common law wife of the dead theatrical magnate and the lawful owner of one-third of his estate, once evaluated at $75,000,000. The decision, handed down by Surrogate John P. O'Brien, but not heretofore made public, was learned today.

Although the surrogate's conclusion automatically gives Miss Fixel, now a middle-aged woman, the legal widow's portion in his vast fortune, her legal maneuvers are far from finished. It is expected she will at once investigate the "shrinkage" of Erlanger's great holdings, which last May appeared to total a mere $124.50. That was the amount left to the estate's credit in a preliminary survey made then by Saul J. Baron, temporary administrator.

U. S. Pays Vets 350 Millions Annually for Post-War Ills

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 28.—Special.]—For world war veterans this year congress appropriated approximately 700 million dollars, of which about 350 millions will be paid out in connection with disabilities not actually incurred in war service.

More than 800,000 claims have been filed and $83,785,230 already paid out in disability allowances to 392,759 world war veterans under the act of July 30, 1930, providing monthly cash payments to any ex-service man who served 90 days or more and "who is or may hereafter be suffering from a 25 per centum or more permanent disability—not the result of his own willful misconduct—which was not acquired in the service during the world war or for which compensation is not payable." It is estimated that by the end of this fiscal year there will be 561,863 of these beneficiaries of non-service connected allowances aggregating $104,277,554.

Age Qualifies Most.

Inasmuch as "most men in their forties and fifties can qualify for at least 25 per cent disability under a system devoid, as is this system, of any scientific and sound medical basis for its ratings," it will not be long, unless this law is repealed, says the National Economy league, before the allowances for the 4,300,000 veterans now living at an average age of 39 years "will reach fantastic heights."

As the result of its investigation the league concluded that of the $204,641,848 being paid out this year in disability compensation not less than 125 millions could be eliminated without doing an injustice to any veteran whose disability is in fact attributable to his war service.

Although those wounded in the world war numbered 220,118 there are 325,146 veterans now receiving disability compensation, a circumstance convincing the league that such benefit "is not restricted to men who in fact suffered disability in war service, and that the numbers have been swelled in some other way."

It found the legislation in the provision of the law that any ex-service man who prior to Jan. 1, 1925, had certain diseases such as neuropsychiatric disease, spinal meningitis and tuberculosis, "developing a 10 per centum degree of disability or more, shall be presumed to have acquired his disability in such service between April 6, 1917, and July 2, 1921, or to have suffered an aggravation of a pre-existing" condition of such disease. In the case of spinal meningitis and tuberculosis this presumption is made conclusive, and in the other cases rebuttable, but only "by clear and convincing evidence."

Report of Medical Body.

Concerning the results of this legislation the committee on public health relations of the New York Academy of Medicine reported on May 16 last:

"It is important to emphasize the fact that in many instances the terms 'disability' and 'disabled veteran' are being applied to ex-soldiers who are now well and who are engaged in their normal civilian occupations. The compensation which they receive monthly from the government is a gift, continued during their lives, and having no relationship to their needs or to the fact their earning power remains unimpaired.

"There are many veterans who are receiving compensation for 10 per cent or 30 per cent disability or for total disability, although they are engaged in their normal civilian occupations. Some are even employed by the government. There is obviously no sound medical basis for the present legislation. It is so worded as to tempt the medical examiner to assume a complacent attitude or even to connive in aiding the veteran to secure compensation unfairly.

"Such legislation and such practices are a perversion of medical science."

Question Retired Pay.

An additional 77 millions might be saved, the league found, by tightening up the law under which 6,448 emergency officers, having a 30 per cent disability rating, are receiving $11,036,040 as 75 per cent of their pay when discharged from service.

It is costing $115,528,795 to administer the system of veterans' benefits this fiscal year. Of this amount $60,129,270 is for the salaries of the 40,346 employés of the veterans' administration.

"It is estimated," said the league, "that about 95 per cent of this charge for salaries of employés is required in order to carry out the laws creating the system of direct and indirect benefits to veterans of the world war and Spanish-American war. By the elimination of [1] the payments to or for veterans whose disabilities are not in fact connected with war service in those two wars, and [2] of hospitalization, domiciliary care and medical treatment of such veterans, there is no question but that a saving of at least half of this salary item—$30,000,000—could be effected."

WHAT'LL I WEAR? WORRIES WIFE, 26, WHO SLEW MATE

Question Dorothy Pollak's Story of Shooting.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The chief worry of Mrs. Dorothy Pollak, 26 years old, as she sat in the women's quarters of the Hyde Park police station late yesterday, booked for the murder of her 49 year old husband, Joseph, was that she could not get a wave in her hair.

An inquest held earlier in the day in the South Town hospital was continued to Aug. 6 to give the police and Assistant State's Attorney Michael V. Ostrowski time to investigate alleged discrepancies in the story Mrs. Pollak told of the shooting of her husband, which occurred Wednesday evening in their apartment at 1936 West Garfield boulevard. Pollak was struck in the eye by a bullet from his wife's small automatic pistol.

That Little Crêpe Dress.

"They may take me out to 26th street (the county jail) in the morning, and I don't know just what to wear," the blue eyed, dark haired Mrs. Pollak said as she sat on a cot in the station. "I think I'll get my sister to bring over my little black and white crêpe dress with short sleeves. I hate this dress she brought me this morning, but then, you know, this was a little unexpected. I wish I had more black dresses."

During the afternoon Mrs. Pollak was taken under guard to the undertaking establishment of John F. Eudeikis, 4605 South Hermitage avenue, where she chose a coffin in which the slain husband is to be laid to rest. It is a metal box that cost $1,500, and she made financial arrangements satisfactory to Eudeikis.

Hopes to Attend Funeral.

"I hope to get out on bond," said the self-made widow, "so I can attend the funeral. If that can't be arranged my attorneys will ask that I go under guard."

The funeral will be held Monday at 2 p. m. from the Eudeikis establishment to the Bohemian National cemetery. After making arrangements Mrs. Pollak was taken to the station in a patrol wagon.

She said she knew that Pollak was a wholesale alcohol vender, but that "he never talked much about business and I didn't know the details." At the inquest she had testified that her husband had a real estate office at 4601 South Ashland avenue.

Two developments caused the investigators to ask for a continuance of the inquest. One was the failure to find a knife which, Mrs. Pollak said, her husband used in attacking her when she shot him. The second was a statement from his relatives, who asserted that Pollak had deposited large sums of money under his wife's maiden name, Mysza.

Displays Carving Knife.

It was shown in testimony that Mrs. Victoria Schultz, a cousin of the woman held for murder and a witness to the shooting, had reported to the police that the knife that Pollak held had been tossed by her into the kitchen sink of his home. Mrs. Pollak had told of a small paring knife, but when Mrs. Schultz led a search party for this weapon she displayed a large carving knife found in a table drawer.

Prosecutor Ostrowski said last night that he would go before Judge Sbarbaro today and ask a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Schultz, who lives at 4517 South Justine street, as an accessory to murder.

"All evidence I have tends to show that Pollak walked directly to his bedroom when he entered the house; that he did not halt in the kitchen for a knife," Mr. Ostrowski asserted.

Simon Mysza, 50 years old, father of Mrs. Pollak, was held in the New City police station yesterday, charged with being an accessory after the fact. Prosecutor Ostrowski said that police learned he had witnessed the shooting and that his story varied from his daughter's in some details.

Mrs. Pollak said the fatal quarrel began when she accused her husband of being with Mrs. Frank Cepulski, wife of a man "who worked for my husband." Cepulski, who lives at 47th and Laflin streets, had told Mrs. Pollak before the shooting that his wife was "out with Joe," she said.

"I wouldn't have cared if Mrs. Cepulski were pretty," Mrs. Pollak told a reporter, "but she wasn't."

WOMAN WHO KILLED HUSBAND PLEADS SELF-DEFENSE

Three pictures of Mrs. Dorothy Pollak, 26 year old husband slayer, as she passed from defiance to tears while testifying at the inquest. The inquiry was continued to allow the police to find the knife with which, she said, her husband had threatened her. The knife was found, but not where she said it was.

HEAD OF BUILDING CONCERN FALLS 8 FLOORS TO DEATH

Gustav H. Gottschalk, 64 years old, president of G. H. Gottschalk & Co., building contractors, was killed early last evening when he fell to the ground from a window of his home on the ninth floor at 5490 South Shore drive.

G. H. GOTTSCHALK.

Other members of the family in the apartment at the time were his wife, Mrs. Aimee Gottschalk; their sons, Howard and Robert, and a daughter, Lucille Gottschalk. They asserted that the fall was accidental.

Gottschalk, they declared, was carrying a thermometer when he returned home from his office at 105 West Madison street, and remarked that he was going to hang it outside his bedroom window. He entered the room. A little later neighbors notified them of the finding of the body in a yard west of the building.

According to his family, Gottschalk had no worries and had been in his usual good spirits. He was, they added, subject to spells of dizziness. To this they attributed his fall. The Gottschalk concern built the Belden-Stratford, Webster, Parkway, and Shoreland hotels and a number of large apartment buildings in Chicago.

High Tension Wire Knocks Boy Off Pole; Only Bruised

John Nye, 14 years old, 634 West 59th street, climbed an electric light pole at Wallace and 60th streets last night. He touched a high tension wire, was shocked into unconsciousness and fell twenty feet to the street. A rescue squad under Capt. John Moynihan revived him and took him to the Englewood hospital. Except for bruises the boy was uninjured.

NEW RESIDENT VISITS SUBURBAN BARS; THEN LEADS RAIDS ON EIGHT

"Frank Moore" moved into Homewood, a southern Cook county suburb, several weeks ago. He speedily made friends with several neighbors and invited them to show him where he could get something to drink. Obliged in this request, he demonstrated that he was a two elbowed drinker who didn't let the left elbow know what the right was doing.

A week ago he was evicted from the Palm Gardens near Lansing for being intoxicated and insulting to other patrons. On Wednesday he returned, but not as drinker. He was at the head of a band of federal prohibition agents. Jim Hantzos, owner of the Palm Gardens, was arrested. Then Moore led raids on seven other places which he had persuaded his Homewood friends to introduce him. Arrests and seizures of strong beverages were made in each place.

These resorts were Harry Snodgrass' Homewood hotel, 2009 Ridge road; Julius Schneider's roadhouse near the Palm Gardens; Amalfi Gardens, at 175th street and the Dixie highway; Leo Staruska's inn, at 183d street and Western avenue; Helen Bybich's saloon in Hazelcrest; Mother O'Toole's restaurant in Homewood, and the Boulevard restaurant, at 150th street and the Dixie highway.

Those arrested were arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Walker. Four were held to the grand jury; the cases of the others were continued.

Sales Scheme Promoter Seized for Mail Fraud

Nelson W. Hunt, 63 years old, 8135 South Ada street, a former painter and decorator, yesterday was arrested by postal inspectors on the charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud. Hunt placed newspaper advertisements offering jobs to women selling cookies. When applicants appeared, it was charged, they were told they would have to purchase a special apron before they returned for work. When they returned no jobs were available, according to the inspectors.

JOS. E. LEE FOUND DEAD IN GARAGE FROM AUTO GAS

Joseph Edgar Lee, 55 years old, president of the Currier-Lee Warehouse company, was found dead early this morning in a garage in the rear of his home at 911 Sheridan road, Evanston. The doors were closed and the engine of Mr. Lee's car was running, indicating that death may have been caused by carbon monoxide gas.

However, there was a gash on his head, suggesting the possibility that he may have fallen during a heart attack. Members of his family said Mr. Lee had played golf during the afternoon and complained afterward of feeling ill.

Mr. Lee was a native of Hamilton, Ont. He organized the Currier-Lee company, which has its quarters at 427 West Erie street, in 1914. He had other warehouse interests in Chicago and in Tampa, Fla. He is survived by his widow, a son, and a daughter. He was a member of the Evanston Golf, Hamilton, and Chicago Yacht clubs.

TERRY DRUGGAN'S FURNITURE SALE BRINGS $6,000

The furnishings of Terry Druggan's apartment at 7064 Greenview avenue, which were auctioned to satisfy a $16,000 claim by the receiver of the West Central State bank where the beer purveyor had been a frequent borrower, brought $6,000. The Chicago Title and Trust company, appointed receiver for the apartment furnishings after Druggan told Judge Michael Feinberg he was broke last fall, took the money into court yesterday. Judge Feinberg ordered $4,000 to be applied against the debt reducing it to $12,000. The remainder was held for expenses and receiver's fees. Druggan is serving two and a half years at Leavenworth penitentiary for evasion of income tax payments.

STOCK PRICES SOAR UPWARD IN MOST ACTIVE DAY OF YEAR

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—In the broadest and most active market of the year securities advanced sharply on the New York Stock exchange today, carrying many prices to their best levels since the late spring.

Industrial shares, railroads and utilities all joined in the advance. Many of the gains were more than four points. American Telephone was an outstanding leader with a gain of more than five points, while such railroad issues as Santa Fe and Union Pacific were up more than four points.

Near the close a number of these gains were partly wiped out, but the list as a whole showed a considerable advance for the day.

Sales for the day approximated 2,800,000 shares. The heaviest trading heretofore in 1932 was on Jan. 14, when 2,647,000 shares changed hands.

Continued strength in the commodity exchanges and the declaration of a number of regular dividends by important industrial and utility companies formed the basis for a revival in confidence wider in scope than any the financial community has enjoyed for some time.

Reports He Was Shot and Robbed on Country Road

Raymond E. Bade, 23 years old, 2169 North Rockwell street, reported to the county highway police early today that he was robbed of $6 and shot in the right arm by the robbers at Harlem and Montrose avenues, west of the city limits on the northwest side. He said he was sitting in his car with Miss Anne De Lauret, 2546 New England avenue, when the bandits seized him. No attempt was made to take the car from him. His wound, not serious, was treated at the Des Plaines hospital.

A HOLDUP VICTIM DISCOVERS HIGH COST OF 'JUSTICE'

25 Court Appearances Wear Him Out.

J. D. MacLaughlan, head of a patrol service, and his daughter, Marie, 17 years old, sat in their small restaurant at 9137 South Western avenue yesterday afternoon and discussed with some bewilderment their experiences in the courts since they were held up last May 3 by three young bandits, one of them armed.

Chief Justice Fisher of the Criminal court on Wednesday placed two of the robbers, Alex Johnston, 18 years old, and Allen Reynolds, also 18, on probation. MacLaughlan and his daughter agreed to the probation because they were worn out after 25 appearances in court, they said yesterday. The third bandit, Charles Harrington, 16 years old, was ordered held for commitment to the reformatory at St. Charles last Tuesday by Referee Frank Matousek in the Juvenile court.

The Task of Prosecuting.

"It's been an instructive experience," said MacLaughlan. "If we had known what we were getting into when we decided to prosecute the bandits, we'd have handed over the contents of the cash box and told them they were welcome to take what they could. Apparently, being held up in Chicago is much safer than trying to prosecute a robber."

Marie, whose dexterity with a pistol resulted in the immediate capture of one of the robbers and the later arrest of the other two, nodded agreement as her father talked. When Harrington pointed a revolver at her on the night of the holdup she seized a gun from beneath the counter and shot Harrington in the hip. Harrington fired back, his bullet grazing her arm.

Represented by Alderman.

"I guess it's better not to capture a robber," she remarked. "Then you don't have the bother of going to court."

MacLaughlan said that Harrington was represented on the various appearances in court by Ald. Walter W. Morris of the 18th ward. Harrington's aunt, Mrs. Winifred Harrington, is Ald. Morris' sister.

"I was satisfied when Harrington was sent to a reformatory by the Juvenile court," said MacLaughlan. "It seemed for a while that going to court 25 times had been worth the time and effort. But I thought it meant that Harrington would stay in the reformatory until he was 21 years old. I learn now that he can get out in a year and a half. He's a thoroughly bad actor. I would never have agreed to probation for the other two if I had known that he could get out so soon."

Long Street Car Ride.

"Going to court 25 times was no joke for us. We had to get somebody to take care of the store while we were gone each time. It's a long street car ride from 91st and Western to the Criminal courts building and the Juvenile court.

"We were intent upon seeing that justice was done at first. A robber who will fire a revolver at a young girl deserves punishment. But we were gradually worn down. Continuance after continuance was granted. Harrington got out on bond and would drive past the restaurant, tooting his horn and laughing at us.

"So on Wednesday we decided that we'd had enough of going to court. It seemed that if we insisted upon trial of the defendants, we would have to keep coming to court forever.

"The next time we're held up there'll be no capture of bandits. Either my daughter will have a better aim and there'll be no live bandit to prosecute or they can take the money and walk out the door. We've had enough of going to court for a time."

REOPEN FIGHT IN COUNCIL FOR LOOP PARKING

Ald. John Coughlin [1st] yesterday reopened the fight to permit limited parking in the loop when he introduced an ordinance in the city council to allow half hour parking during business hours, as an experimental measure.

Last week, following public hearings before the committee on traffic and public safety, the council refused to permit one hour parking in business hours. The relaxation of the parking ban is urged by downtown merchants, who assert that it would bring trade into the loop which is now kept away by lack of parking facilities.

Ald. Coughlin's ordinance was sent to the traffic committee, with instructions to report on it at the next meeting of the council.

2 GUNMEN HELD FOR SHOOTING OF POLICEMAN

Lawrence Hogan, 22 years old, and Donald Jamieson, 21 years old, both living at 3825 Pine Grove avenue, were held to the grand jury in bonds of $22,000 each yesterday by Justice of the Peace Albert Sengstock in Morton Grove. They were charged with assault with a deadly weapon, assault with intent to kill, and robbery.

County Highway Policeman Philip Romano was shot and severely wounded when he stopped the auto occupied by Hogan and Jamieson at Rand and Wolf roads on July 20. The two men, with a young woman, Frieda Willet, 21 years old, 745 North Michigan avenue, were speeding when they were stopped.

A chase followed and the men were eventually captured at Austin and Ogden avenues after an exchange of shots in which Hogan was wounded.

BOYS OF ENGLAND CALLED SNOBS, LIARS, COWARDS

Can't Even Saddle Horse, Educator Bemoans.

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 28.—Untruthful, dishonest, timid, cowardly, easily bored—and vain! That is what the modern English public school boys are, according to Cuthbert Blakiston, widely known educator and headmaster of the fashionable Lancing school. Mr. Blakiston denounced the boys in a speech before the British Medical association today.

"There is no comparison between the boys of today and those of 30 years ago," he said. "The boys today are indifferent to the traditional interests of gentlemen represented by horses, and above all cricket. Worse still, they are destroying the old boast that an Englishman's word is his bond.

"Boy Fears to Be Alone."

"The duke of Wellington reputedly declared after Napoleon's defeat that 'Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Eton.' But the Iron Duke ought to see what is happening now.

"Above all, the boy of today fears to be alone. He fears loneliness and boredom. This state of things has to a large extent destroyed that keen adventurous outdoor sportsman of other days. It has done much to impair his power of initiative. Youths today don't know how to saddle a horse. They prefer to deck themselves out like peacocks so they will look pretty. Nowadays boys of 18 or 19 are unwilling to go abroad and seek their fortunes.

"I do not believe it is the mother's fault. The war had a definite effect on those who were infants or were born during the war. Another consequence of the war is a real sense of fear generated in the minds of children, today.

Bemoans Lack of Principle.

"In giving corporal punishment one is bound to notice the fear of physical pain which the modern boy takes no pains to conceal.

"Also there is a real lack of principle. A great deal of the difficulty in administering a school today arises from the presence of untruthfulness. Stealing books and gramophone records is regarded as an extended form of borrowing, as well as the impulse expressing itself in 'pinching' anything which will adorn their person such as sox and ties. It is peacockery. The generation of today is suffering from instability."

The educator's talk caused a sensation, for England for centuries has been proud of her schoolboys. Many historians have described them as the rocks on which the great empire was founded.

UPSHAW CLAIMS VICTORY IF ALL VOTE "HONESTLY"

"If all honest drys who are dissatisfied with the Republican and Democratic planks on prohibition will be brave enough to vote their honest convictions I will be elected in November."

So declared William D. Upshaw, former Georgia congressman who is the presidential nominee of the Prohibition party, following a conference with his western campaign manager, Edward E. Blake of Wheaton, at the Hotel La Salle yesterday.

Mr. Upshaw left for Madison, Wis., last evening, to address the state convention of the Wisconsin Prohibition party there today. The candidate expects to return here next week, he said, and challenge such outstanding wets as Senator James Hamilton Lewis, State Representative Michael L. Igoe, and Judge Henry Horner to debate the prohibition question with him.

"I believe the majority of the voters of the country are disgusted with the total depravity of the Democratic plank on prohibition and with the pitiful evasion and moral cowardice of the Republican plank," Mr. Upshaw said. "On that basis I am bidding for support."

COUNCIL URGES COL. SPRAGUE TO KEEP HIS JOB

The city council took a hand in the controversy surrounding the reported resignation, since denied, of Col. A. A. Sprague as commissioner of public works, when it passed a resolution yesterday urging him to keep the post.

The resolution, introduced by Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady (14th), praised Col. Sprague's record of public service and said: "Public servants of his high character were never more badly needed in the nation, states and cities, and Chicago in particular owes him gratitude."

Mayor Cermak, while on a train bound for New York and a European vacation, was reported to have announced on Tuesday night that Col. Sprague had tendered his resignation to take effect upon the mayor's return to Chicago.

Col. Sprague, after holding a telephone conversation with the mayor in New York the next day, denied that he had resigned or intended to resign. Mayor Cermak said before he sailed at midnight Wednesday on the S. S. Bremen that his remarks had been misinterpreted.

ENDS LIFE WITH POISON.

Joseph De Cicco, 32 years old, 4321 Armitage avenue, committed suicide yesterday by drinking poison in a prairie near the yards of the Chicago and North Western railroad at Cortland street.

SCHOOL WAGES DELAYED; CITY TO PAY TODAY

Court Decision Holds Up Funds.

warrants, and hand the money over to the city. Ald. John S. Clark, chairman of the finance committee told the council that the money can legally be used only for city corporate purposes. He added: "It cannot be handed to the board of education. It must be used for city employés, not school employés."

The next step in the plan was for the city to use the money it obtained from the bankers to buy board of education tax anticipation warrants. That plan is objectionable to the aldermen.

The council finance committee yesterday recommended for passage the resolution of Ald. Walter Orlikoski, which would prohibit the use of the city's aggregate of funds to finance the board of education. There is a strong indication that it will be adopted next Thursday.

However, the council also authorized the city to return $3,400,000 of 1931 tax anticipation warrants of the school board which had been purchased by the aggregate of funds to provide funds for 1932 salaries. For the 1931 warrants returned the school board is to substitute 1932 tax anticipation warrants. To that extent the council approved the 1932 educational warrants as an investment for city funds.

Opinions of Teachers.

The action of the school board in trimming its levy places the teachers' pay situation in the hands of the bankers, according to leaders of teachers' organizations.

"I suppose the school board did all it could," asserted C. L. Vestal, president of the Men Teachers' union, "but I feel that it was more or less at the point of a gun. Now the banks will have to put up or shut up."

"They have made the reduction," said Aaron Kline, president of the Principals' club. "Now when will we get paid?" Robert Keenan of the south side teachers' group spoke in a similar vein.

Miss Agnes Clohesy, president of the Elementary Teachers' union, announced that the joint board of teachers' unions, of which she is chairman, would meet on Monday to discuss the situation.

Superintendent of Schools Bogan yesterday reported receipt of $214,933 from the state treasurer. The money is given by the state and federal governments to aid in paying salaries of vocational instructors.

FRANCE WARNS GERMANY ON THREATS TO ARM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 28.—Premier Edouard Herriot delivered an official French protest against the attacks on the Versailles treaty by Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, German minister of war, and Chancellor Franz von Papen to the German ambassador, Leopold von Hoesch, today.

Herriot is understood to have instructed Von Hoesch to inform his government that France will not tolerate threats such as were issued by Gen. von Schleicher to increase armaments unless other powers disarm to the German level.

No World Flight

MONTREAL, Que., July 28.—(AP)—Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, German aviator, who has just completed his third flight across the Atlantic, today denied that he and his crew of three would continue westward around the world. He said he knew nothing of refueling depots reported to have been placed for him on the northwestern route to Japan. He planned to take off for Chicago Saturday. After reaching the Pacific coast, he said, he might go down to Hollywood to see how the movies are made and to see the Olympic games at Los Angeles.

CUT WORK TIME OF CONDUCTORS TO SPREAD JOBS

S. N. Berry, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, and Alexander F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, reached an agreement yesterday, after two weeks of negotiation, whereby part time conductors in passenger service will be limited to a total run of 5,500 miles each month and in freight service to 3,500 miles, while yard service will be limited to 26 days a month. The agreement, according to Mr. Whitney, will provide employment for nearly 6,000 trainmen now unemployed.

Officers of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen have been seeking a similar agreement with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, but without success. Fred Lewis of Heavener, Okla., vice president of the firemen, is in Chicago this week seeking to have railroad managers enforce a limitation of working time on the engineers. If the railroad executives fail to do this the firemen will appeal to state governors, unemployment relief heads, and to congress, Mr. Lewis said.

David B. Robertson, head of the firemen's brotherhood and chairman of the railway labor executives' committee, yesterday denied a recent report from Cleveland that he had backed Alvanley Johnston, grand chief of the engineers, in seeking a $5,000,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation for the closed Standard Trust bank of Cleveland, in which the engineers were heavily interested. In a letter from Cleveland, Mr. Johnston corroborated Mr. Robertson's statement.

EIGHT YEAR OLD MUST LIVE THIS YEAR ON $55,250

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—George W. Wickersham, guardian of the estate of Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, 8 years old, was authorized by Surrogate Foley today to spend $55,250 for her needs this year out of her income of $113,000.

In addition to her regular allowance of $4,000 a month, the surrogate allowed $7,250 for her support and education because, as her guardian explained, Gloria has not been in good health and as a consequence has contracted large medical expenses.

Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt, the girl's mother, has contracted for a new home here and Surrogate Foley made an allowance of $2,700 for moving household effects from Paris, where they have been living.

POLAND CHARGED WITH VIOLATION OF DANZIG PACT

Trade Interests Ask Government Action.

DANZIG, Dansig Free State, July 28.—(AP)—Danzig commercial, industrial and agricultural organizations adopted a joint resolution today charging Poland with increasing daily abuses of the existing customs and economic union.

A systematic discrimination against Danzig's products is being carried out, the resolution said, at the same time that Danzig is helpless against dumping of Polish merchandise.

Warn of Catastrophe.

They declared this free city is nearing a catastrophe because its foreign trade is "throttled" by Polish duties and embargoes. If Poland cannot be compelled to observe its obligations under the treaty of 1921, the local merchants demanded that the government complain to the league of nations.

Last spring the first proposal was made to take Danzig's troubles to the league. Under the Warsaw convention of Oct. 21, 1921, Polish raw materials were permitted to pass duty free into Danzig to be turned into finished articles which were then to be admitted duty free into Poland.

Flaw Detected by Poles.

The system seemed to work well for ten years until the Poles claimed they discovered all sorts of goods, mostly of German origin, passing duty free into Poland as Danzig made. As a result Poland placed an embargo on all such goods and scores of bona fide Danzig plants had to close down.

DUBLIN'S DOCKS IN CHAOS; BRITISH GOODS PILED HIGH

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

DUBLIN, July 28.—Dublin docks are packed to the roofs with mountain of boxes, crates, cases, bags, and barrels. The chaos is caused by British dumping. Until late Monday none knew what commodities would be affected by the Irish Free State's retaliatory tariffs and all sorts of goods were hurriedly dumped. Port officials said tonight there has been nothing like the chaos for the last thirty years, and that it will be weeks before the docks are cleared.

Docksheds are filled with timber, steel rails, bricks, piping, gas engines, barbed wire, and asphalt. Every effort is being made to save the perishable goods.

Cargoes of British coal continue arriving. The famous Dublin horse show opens Tuesday under circumstances eased by customs concessions arranged today. It was feared that the British 20 per cent import duty on Irish live stock would bar British buyers of blooded stock, but it is now announced that horses from northern Ireland intended for the horse show sale ring will be allowed to enter and leave the Free State free of duty. This also applies to English army horses entered in the horse show.

INVADES JUVENILE HOME; FINED.

Walter Kosack, 38 years old, was fined $25 yesterday by Judge Edgar A. Jonas for invading the Juvenile home in an intoxicated condition. He said that he had deserted the bonus army in Washington.

BRITAIN DEMANDS TO SEE CARDS OF HER DOMINIONS

Baldwin States Position in Trade Parley.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., July 28.—The imperial conference got down to business today. Stanley Baldwin, chief of the British delegation, set forth Great Britain's position, told how Britain had befriended her dominions, and in courteous terms demanded a showdown by those dominions.

STANLEY BALDWIN

He requested them to state what they are prepared to do for the mother country in return for the "generous concessions" she proposes to make to them.

Baldwin's statement, much of which was statistical, packed its real wallop toward the end.

"The United Kingdom's representatives have put frankly and fully to the dominions the articles on which they desire to obtain further advantages in dominion markets," he said. "They will welcome from the dominions an equally full statement of the corresponding advantages they seek in the markets of Great Britain."

The Canadian cabinet met tonight to consider submission of trade proposals in response to the British request.

Revives Wheat Tariff Demand.

Under pressure from western farmers Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada today revived his demand for a tariff on foreign wheat imported into Britain which had been dropped when the Canadian grain traders and shippers announced that it would be of no use to them and would only cause confusion.

It is known that Bennett has been flooded with letters, telegrams, and telephone calls insisting that he get something for the farmers or risk defeat at the next election. He has now reopened negotiations with the British, offering to drop his demand for the exclusion of soviet goods from Britain in return for a duty of 5 per cent on foreign wheat with free entry of dominion grain.

Baldwin's document today was an argument for more trade for Britain with the dominions. In a series of tables Baldwin showed the existing position and pointed out that there is room for much interimperial trade to replace that now done with foreign countries. For instance, he explained, the table dealing with the imports into the United Kingdom for 1930 shows that Britain's total imports from the dominions amounted to about 1,300 million dollars, while from foreign countries Britain's imports were nearly 3,500 million dollars.

Foreign Trade Larger.

Further figures showed the imports by the dominions in 1930. About 1,635 million dollars' worth of goods was imported by the dominions from Britain and each other, 1,300 million dollars' worth of this coming from Britain, while the dominions imported about 1,730 million dollars' worth of goods from foreign countries.

Another table showed that the total trade balance in favor of the dominions is nearly 500 million dollars.

Baldwin called attention to the danger of arbitrary changes by the customs administration which might nullify all the good effect of a low tariff. The practice of leaving it to the executive to fix tariffs from time to time and vary them was also condemned as making regular business impossible.

Need Foreign Markets.

He emphasized the fact that Britain is so highly industrialized that it is vital to the physical existence of her people to find markets abroad. He declared that more than half her exports are taken by foreign countries, making the point that Britain cannot offend her foreign customers without a substantial quid pro quo.

Baldwin pointed out that Britain now takes from her dominions a large porportion of their produce for which there seems to be no other market. He also mentioned the aid given by Britain in financing developments in the dominions. Before the war one-half of the 19 billion dollars of British capital invested abroad was placed in empire countries, he said, while out of a total of 7,500 million dollars invested by Britain between 1919 and 1930 no less than 4,240 million dollars was empire investment.

Canada Eyes Cattle Trade.

Canada has started a drive to capture the live cattle trade with Britain, which until the present tariff war had been a monopoly of the Irish Free State, amounting to 1,000,000 animals a year. Several years ago Canada tried to horn into this trade, but found it unprofitable on account of British quarantine regulations, which require Canadian cattle to be killed in bond within a few days of landing and preclude fattening in Britain.

Today a statement was issued by the British agricultural advisers that they saw no reason why these regulations should not be relaxed in favor of Canada, whose cattle are of as high quality and as free from disease as Irish cattle, which have never been subject to these restrictions. If these rules are relaxed the 20 per cent tariff on Irish cattle recently imposed by Britain will enable Canada to ship hundreds of thousands of beasts to Britain every year.

SPURT OF CANADIAN BONDS ATTRIBUTED TO EMPIRE MEETING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., July 28.—Federal and provincial government Canadian bonds, as well as some of Canada's leading industrials, have taken upward bounds on the markets during the last day or two and British trade conference optimists are attributing it to confidence inspired by conference deliberations.

The maximum climb of dominion government bonds has been 6¾ points to $95.25. Manitoba, British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Ontario provincial bonds have jumped nine, five, six, six, and five points, respectively, in this movement. In the industrials Canada Cement has led in the upward valuation movement with a twenty-three point increase.

All these classifications of bonds are widely held by smaller Canadian investors.

CHILDREN HOLD 'LAST RITES' FOR A HEROIC DOG

Children in the neighborhood of Lockwood avenue and Melrose street held a funeral yesterday for Terry, the terrier pet of the neighborhood, who gave his life Wednesday to save one of his young playmates from being struck by an automobile.

The dog belonged to Patsy Ann Shanahan, 4 years old, 5347 Melrose street. He had been trained to keep children out of the street, and would frequently place himself in front of a boy or girl who was about to run past the curb, or even seize the child's clothes in his teeth, said John P. Shanahan, father of Patsy Ann.

On Wednesday afternoon one of Patsy Ann's playmates ran into the path of an approaching automobile. Terry dashed after her and barked a warning. The child escaped, but the oncoming car struck the dog and left him dying in the street. The driver did not stop.

IRELAND IS NOT A BRITISH CATTLE RANCH: DEVALERA

President Issues New Defy to London.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, July 28.—President Eamon de Valera tonight dashed any hopes of early negotiations with England over the Free State's nonpayment of land annuities. The dispute has occasioned a tariff war between the two countries.

"I warn you against those persons who suggest how easy it would be to come to terms with Great Britain," he told a huge outdoor audience which filled the college green in Dublin. "For some reason I cannot understand the British government apparently wants to press this fight. When the government is prepared to do that it is the height of foolishness to say that good will on our side can prevent it.

"The only thing we can do is to take measures to defend ourselves."

Attacks English.

"It was the policy of successive generations of English statesmen to reduce this country to be on one hand a cattle ranch to supply the British people with cheap food and on the other hand a dumping ground for British manufactured goods," Mr. De Valera said.

"The policy on which we went to the country at the last election was self-sufficiency as far as possible. The home market still remained to be captured by the Irish farmer. The Free State now imports 15 million dollars' worth of foodstuffs of animal origin and 40 million dollars' worth of cereals, both of which Irish farmers could supply. We can start by producing 7½ million dollars' worth of flour, 7½ million dollars' worth of wheat, 12½ million dollars' worth of corn and corn products, and 1½ million dollars' worth of corn by-products, all of which we now import. Soon all the flour we consume can be made in the Free State."

Tells of One Year Plan.

The president added a long list of other commodities which he said could be produced at home.

"The position of weakness to which the former British policy reduced this country was clearly shown by the recent action of Great Britain in imposing penal tariffs on Free State produce. We propose to work out a policy of self-sufficiency over a number of years. A change in national economy would cause dislocation and a certain amount of hardship. The government had wished to minimize the hardship by extending the period, but the action of the British left no choice. We must act quickly and do in a year what we had hoped to do in five years."

RAID STILL IN GARAGE.

Prohibition agents yesterday raided a 100 gallon still in a garage in the rear of 2242 Blue Island avenue. Although the still was not in operation, agents found 8,000 gallons of mash.

COUNCIL REPEALS TAXI MONOPOLY ORDINANCE, 40-6

Alderman Attacks Police Vehicle Bureau.

The city council yesterday repealed the taxicab monopoly ordinance by a vote of 40 to 6. It was discovered on Wednesday that this ordinance has been resting unnoticed in the city statutes since 1929.

ALD. O'GRADY.

The repealer was voted after Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady [14th] had made a bitter attack upon the vehicle bureau of the police department and the motor vehicle license commission which licenses taxicab drivers.

He charged that the bureau, headed by Lieut. James Killackey, and the commission, of which Lieut. Killackey is a member and secretary, are dominated by the Yellow Cab company and Checker Taxi company, and have persistently refused to license independent cab owners to operate.

Threat of Investigation.

Ald. O'Grady warned that if the alleged discrimination against independents is not stopped he would demand an investigation, adding "and then some of the Christmas presents of the Yellow Cab company will be exposed on the floor of this council." He also referred to the charge made on Wednesday before a council subcommittee that a number of policemen assigned to the vehicle bureau were among incorporators of the Lake Shore Mutual Insurance company, which bonds drivers of the Checker company.

The measure repealed yesterday was adopted on Sept. 5, 1929, in the omnibus—the catchall ordinance put through at every council meeting to clean up minor matters with one vote—and did not appear in the city code until April of this year.

While the majority of the aldermen said they were unaware of the ordinance's existence, the vehicle license commission apparently knew about it and has been exercising the powers which it vested in the commission in licensing new taxicabs.

Introduces Repeal Measure.

Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th] introduced the repealer ordinance, explaining that he sought to do away with the limitation on the number of taxicabs imposed by the monopoly ordinance, and to do away with the monopoly, which he said works hardships on working men.

"A man wishing a license to operate a cab must appear before the commission with the Yellow and Checker cab representatives standing by, and prove that the license in needed," Ald. Nelson said.

There were nearly a score of seconds on his motion to suspend the rules and pass the repealer without sending it to a committee for hearing. Ald. James B. Waller [43d] and Jacob M. Arvey [24th] objected. Ald. Arvey produced a long piece of paper, the original record of the ordinance. He asserted that it had been considered in committee before the council passed it in the omnibus.

Calls Ordinance Unfair.

"Ald. Arvey has explained the great calamity of 1929," said Ald. O'Grady. "If ever there was an ordinance which should have been investigated by a subcommittee, it was this. After the passage of this ordinance I can visualize the Yellow Cab company buying the Checker and Tri-City companies, and eventually owning them all. If there ever was an outfit which got special privileges, it's the Yellow Cab company.

"Yesterday we had the testimony of an attorney that police at the vehicle bureau are bonding Checker cab drivers. A man was in my office this morning who has operated cabs for 20 years and never had an accident. He has a good cab and he knows the business, yet he can't get a license to operate because they block him in the bureau.

"Remember, your ordinance up for repeal limits the number of cabs to 5,280. The testimony has been that only 4,350 are operating in Chicago and yet a hundred men want licenses and can't get them, although there are almost a thousand additional licenses available.

"These men are prepared to operate their cabs at 15 cents a mile. It looks like the cab companies own the commission, and this is no time for special privileges to be given. It's high time it was stopped, and if it isn't, and I find one more man denied a license I'll ask an investigation."

The roll call was taken on Ald. Nelson's motion to suspend the rules which won 37 to 9. The roll follows:

Ald. John S. Clark [30th], who, as chairman of the finance committee, usually presides over the council in the absence of the mayor, was busy yesterday with negotiations for passage of the school board tax levy, and Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] presided in his place.

Police Commissioner Allman was asked yesterday if he had read of the participation by police at the vehicle bureau in bonding the taxi drivers they are assigned to regulate.

"I did," he said.

"Have you any statement to make?" he was asked.

"Not yet," he replied.

"Will you investigate the matter?" he was asked.

"I will," he said.

DEMOCRATS PICK CAMPBELL TO RUN CAMPAIGN

Springfield, Ill., July 28.—[Special.]—Bruce A. Campbell, East St. Louis, was named chairman of the managing committee of the Democratic downstate organization at a meeting here tonight. Mr. Campbell will be in personal charge of the campaign, and after Sept. 1 will devote his entire time to the work. The meeting tonight was attended by Judge Henry Horner of Chicago, Democratic nominee for governor, and other state candidates. Judge Horner was greeted by a large number of supporters from the 21st congressional district. He came to Springfield late today from Vandalia and, with other candidates, will attend the annual fish fry at Beardstown tomorrow, where he is scheduled to discuss the issues of the campaign.

$1,000,000 A YEAR PACE

James V. Conrad and his wife, who charges in divorce bill he has spent or lost $2,000,000 in last two years, much of it in night clubs.

GAY MATE SPENT $2,000,000 IN 2 YEARS, SAYS WIFE

Wilmette Couple Take Marital Woes to Court.

James V. Conrad, partner in the Cannell-Conrad Construction company of Evanston and Louisville, Ky., has lost $1,100,000 a year for the last two years, most of it in night clubs, his wife, Audrey, 27 years old, 715 Seneca road, Wilmette, charged yesterday.

Mrs. Conrad's charges were contained in a cross bill for divorce filed in the Superior court by her attorney, Michael Ryan. It was her answer to her husband's divorce suit charging cruelty which his counsel, Benjamin B. Davis, filed recently.

$3,000,000 Fortune.

Her bill relates that when they were married on May 15, 1930, at Crown Point, Ind., her husband had a fortune of $3,000,000 and that his annual income was $100,000. Lavish living, his habit of visiting night clubs at least four times a week, and his custom of presenting gifts of money to the club hostesses have reduced his holdings to $800,000 and his income to $50,000 a year.

Because she never accompanied her husband, her bill asserts, he made a practice of hiring women to telephone her from the night clubs. Usually they informed her: "I'm out with your daddy," the bill recited.

Although her husband was known as a gay spender in the night clubs, Mrs. Conrad charged he closed out her credit accounts in loop department stores and advertised in newspapers that he would not be responsible for her debts.

$200 Dog House.

The bill goes on to say that Conrad recently built a house and runway for his dog at a cost of $200, which is more money than she has received during the last two months. The wife also relates that her husband has threatened to eject her from the home where both still live, although in separate suites.

Mrs. Conrad asked that her husband be restrained from disposing of any of his securities. She also asked alimony of $1,000 a month.

CUBAN POLICE NIP ANOTHER PLOT TO KILL MACHADO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, July 28.—A new plot to assassinate President Gerardo Machado early in August was frustrated today as wholesale arrests and confiscation of arms continued.

Communists and "oppositionists" were behind the plan, police said, to dynamite the bridge across the Alemendares river, over which the president passes to his country estate.

Police also raided a communist headquarters today and seized lists of members and plans for demonstrations on Aug. 1. They arrested the secretary and president of the organization.

ELDO MITCHELL, PARK OFFICIAL, KILLED IN CRASH

Eldo Mitchell, 40 years old, 1344 Argyle street, died yesterday at Dubuque, Ia., following an automobile accident, according to word received here. Mitchell, who was controller for the Lincoln park board, suffered a fractured skull when his car struck another automobile driven by Thomas Tully of Dubuque.

Mrs. John A. Trowbridge, 60 years old, 6752 South Marshfield avenue, died at a Plymouth, Wis., hospital yesterday from injuries incurred when the auto in which she was riding struck another car. Her step-son, Albert Trowbridge, 8023 Vernon avenue, was shaken up as were three other persons.

Louis Schelp, 5412 Dakin street, his wife, and Burton Buckhauser, 4041 North Troy street, escaped from their overturned sedan yesterday after the machine skidded from the highway near Sterling, Ill., and burst into flames.

There were no auto deaths in Cook county yesterday and the 1932 toll remained 664.

W. PARK BOARD PASSES ITS TAX LEVY FOR 1932

The west park commissioners passed their 1932 tax levy at a meeting yesterday. Although the amount of the entire levy was $4,500,000, the same as for 1931, there will be a 15 per cent reduction in the corporate fund, which will be made up by the county clerk after the assessment on property in 1932 has been completed.

The cut in the corporate fund levy was approved by the board. Daniel A. Roberts, attorney for the park system, explained that the corporate fund was the only one that could be trimmed because the levies for other purposes have been fixed by law.

On the basis of evaluation of the west side property in 1930, the board can collect $2,600,000 for corporate purposes, and the 15 per cent reduction would amount to $390,000.

LEG FRACTURED BY AUTO.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 28.—[Special.]—Mrs. Clara Muckerheide, 50, 1126 South 28th street, today suffered a fractured right leg when she stepped from the curb and was struck by an automobile driven by George E. Page Jr., son of the District court judge.

Cheap soap... and another dress ruined!

Look how that color is fading—how the fabric is splitting! That's the penalty for using cheap soap. But what could you expect from a cake that is puffed up with inferior materials... loaded with free lye? Such a soap makes a stingy froth... not rich soapy suds. That's why you have to RUB so hard to get clothes clean. And all the while the strong alkali rots and fades the fabric.

It's Cheaper to Buy Good Soap Than New Clothes

Remember: when you use American Family Soap you are using pure soap. You get double the suds, for American Family was created especially for the hard water of this Great Lakes region. Dirt is set free without the strain of rubbing. Fine silks and laces wash as safely as cottons. White emerges dazzling-white. Colors stay fresh and true. No wonder 4 out of 5 Gold Coast women permit no other soap but American Family to touch their precious washables. It doubles the wear of your clothes and household fabrics. And that's economy that runs into telling figures! Use Kirk's American Family to lighten all your household tasks. It keeps your hands always smooth and white.

MAYOR WALKER FILES DEFENSE WITH GOVERNOR

He Speaks Piece to Tune of 20,000 Words.

The inquiry record dealt with stock deals by which Paul Block, the publisher, was alleged to have fattened the mayor's bank account to the extent of thousands of dollars.

Mayor Walker reaffirmed his testimony given at the inquiry that Block was an "intimate friend" of his, and added that he found it "difficult to speak of this with restraint, not merely because an insinuation is made against me, but because it seeks to reflect" on the publisher.

Takes Up Sherwood Case.

Seabury "disregards the record he made himself," the mayor said in reference to a joint brokerage account the mayor is alleged to have shared with Russell T. Sherwood, his long missing reputed business agent.

"Mr. Sherwood was never my general agent," Walker asserted. "He merely rendered special services, and was never given any discretionary powers by me."

The charge that the "mayor neglected his official duty in permitting his corporation counsel to designate in city compensation cases doctors who split their fees with the mayor's brother," was waved aside with the statement that it contains no basis for a charge against the mayor since no neglect of duty on his part was shown.

Continuing his defense, the mayor said:

"With all the power of the state of New York behind the investigation, with all of the bank and brokerage accounts of every person in the city open to Mr. Seabury, with a staff of assistants, investigators, and accountants engaged for more than a year he was unable to find or to charge that I had caused the wrongful expenditure or loss of a single dollar to the people of the city of New York out of upwards of five billions of dollars expended during my whole administration as mayor."

Roosevelt Withholds Comment.

Gov. Roosevelt received the defense statement without comment. It was delivered by Thomas F. McAndrews, the mayor's secretary, who was accompanied by Capt. Thomas O'Connor, the mayor's bodyguard, and Patrick Hogan, a confidential investigator for Walker. The governor read the statement and then authorized its release to the newspapers.

No definite date as to when the governor will settle Walker's fate can be set, but Gov. Roosevelt is known to be desirous of acting on the matter promptly. Involved in the controversy is a boiling pot of politics, for the attitude that Tammany would take in the governor's hopes of carrying New York state in the presidential campaign is at stake and Tammany has supported Walker.

On the other hand, unless Walker has acquitted himself to the satisfaction of the citizens of other states who have followed the case, these citizens might criticize Gov. Roosevelt if he retained Walker in office.

Copies Sent to Lawyers.

Copies of the mayor's answer were sent by the governor to Martin Conboy and John E. Mack, the two lawyers who have advised the governor in the legal points involved. When the governor and the lawyers have studied the answer they will meet and Roosevelt will receive the legal advice tendered by his consultants. He has indicated that he alone will decide the questions of fact presented in the petition for Walker's removal and in the answer.

"A brief review of the origin and development of the investigation conducted by Mr. Seabury will serve to throw light on the motives behind it," Mayor Walker asserted in his defense. "It was conceived, born and fostered in politics. The desperation growing out of the necessity to offset the failures of the present Republican organization, city, state and national, inspired it. Accordingly it was decided to select the strongest Democratic center in the country for attack. This partisan political committee was created and sent to New York City at great expense to the taxpayers of the state for the express purpose, by sensational charges and, if possible, by spectacular testimony, to blacken the reputation of the city administration and thus to divert public attention from those responsible for the dreadful condition of affairs throughout the nation.

"There were hundreds of private hearings. Witnesses were examined behind closed doors, and occasionally even behind locked doors, with members of the committee who were of the minority excluded.

"'Star chamber' proceedings were used as a basis for giving out daily newspaper reports. All of them were exaggerated. Many of them were without the slightest foundation. Although the counsel and his staff denied responsibility for these statements, they continued to appear, and no other source of the information or misinformation can be traced."

Leaves to Visit Brother.

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—Mayor James J. Walker left tonight for Saranac Lake after he had received a call informing him that the condition of his brother, George Walker, had taken a sudden turn for the worse.

George F. Walker, the youngest of the three Walker brothers, has been a patient at a Saranac sanitarium for several months. George is 48 years of age, married, and has two children. He is in the insurance business.

Coolidge Likely to Aid Hoover in His Drive For Re-election

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—The probability that former President Calvin Coolidge will aid President Hoover in his campaign for reelection was indicated today. Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee, said that he would visit Mr. Coolidge Saturday and Sunday at the Coolidge homestead at Plymouth Notch, Vt., and expected to discuss the political situation with him.

EVERETT SANDERS.

Mr. Sanders was secretary to Mr. Coolidge when he was President.

"I have no doubt he will take some part in the campaign," Mr. Sanders said, when asked if he expected Mr. Coolidge to make some campaign speeches for the President.

Hebert Mentioned for Post.

Mr. Sanders said there had been no selection yet of an eastern campaign manager and indicated the choice was between Senator Felix Hebert of Rhode Island and Earl S. Kinsley, national committeeman from Vermont. Should Senator Hebert not be named for this post he will be the eastern campaign manager for the Republican senatorial committee, Mr. Sanders said.

Mr. Sanders had a luncheon conference with W. Kingsland Macy, New York state Republican chairman, and earlier in the day conferred with Charles D. Hilles, national committeeman, and Henry J. Allen of Kansas, publicity director of the national committee.

State Committee in Charge.

It has been decided that the Republican state committee will be in complete charge of the campaign in this state and that there will be no Hoover campaign committee as there was in 1928.

Mr. Sanders said that the national committee and the state committee in this and every other state would work in close cooperation and that the state committees would have the responsibility of organization and getting out the vote.

Democrats Play Up Dry Issue.

Meanwhile James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, just back from a long series of conferences

A few blocks away James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, just back from a long series of conferences in Washington, was telling his assistants here the national viewpoint of congressmen on what Gov. Roosevelt must do to win.

The Republicans are trying to build up their campaign by attacking Roosevelt and Garner as unsafe. Farley is ready to combat that. Sanders and his council seek to play down the depression and prove to the country that Hoover is not to be held responsible for hard times. Farley plans to build up the depression issue and put all the responsibility on Hoover. Sanders and the Republicans are anxious to play down prohibition; Farley and the Democrats have decided to play it up for all it is worth instead of letting it be shoved into second place.

Find Money Scarce.

Both parties are worried about their finances. They haven't got the money and don't know where it is coming from. Both sides are hunting for the man who will produce the coin.

After three days in Washington spent with senators and party leaders from many states, Jim Farley is ready to report to his chief regarding important features of the campaign and will go to Albany or Hyde Park over the week-end for an extended conference. The chairman spent a part of today conferring with the big guns of Tammany Hall.

One question not decided is whether Gov. Roosevelt shall make a coast to coast speaking tour. The Washington crowd generally is against it, and has so advised Farley. The latter will so inform the governor, but Mr. Roosevelt is known to incline strongly to the old style countrywide barnstorming kind of campaign.

If he decides on the transcontinental speech making tour his managers will bow to his decision.

ROOSEVELT PUTS ECONOMY UP TO PUBLIC OPINION

In Radio Talk Says Citizens Should Decide.

Indorsed by Tammany

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—Tammany, which voted against the nomination of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for President at the Democratic national convention, tonight indorsed Roosevelt and his running mate, Speaker John N. Garner, at a meeting of the New York county Democratic committee in Tammany hall. The meeting was for the purpose of issuing the party call for the primary election on Sept. 20. The resolution of indorsement was offered by John F. Curry, leader of Tammany.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., July 28.—[Special.]—Gov. Roosevelt's position that the citizens must help to decide what economies in government shall be effected and what public services shall be curtailed was stressed tonight in an address delivered by the governor over a local radio station.

The governor is making a series of addresses, analyzing the costs of maintaining the various departments of the state government, and the views he thus espouses are taken as significant of the attitude with which he will approach national government economies if elected President.

"If we face the necessity of changing our governmental standards of living," Gov. Roosevelt said tonight, "I want the changes to be made as wisely as possible. I want them to interfere no more than necessary with vital public services, or services which the majority of citizens consider vital."

State Institutions as Text.

He used as the topic of his discussion tonight the New York department of correction, operating seven state prisons, two reformatories, two hospitals for the criminal insane, two institutions for defective delinquents, and one school for juvenile delinquents.

"Reducing prison costs is a question of administration in only a negligible degree," he said. "It is, in the largest sense, a question of social and public policy.

"Should the state, in order to save $1,800,000 a year, liberalize its commitment, sentence and parole laws so that our prison population again would be returned to approximately the 1922 level?

"As to the other cost increases: Should the state, in order to save $1,100,000 a year, return the compensation of prison employés to the 1922 level? Likewise, should it save $200,000 by doing away with the improvements in the food, clothing and housing of inmates effected since 1922?"

Gov. Rosevelt discussed the department of social welfare, whose appropriation has risen from $290,000 in 1922 to $9,100,000 this year.

"Does the state," asked Gov. Roosevelt, "desire to save more than $8,000,000 a year by repealing the provision for its contribution to old age pensions?"

The governor invited the people of New York to answer these questions.

Visited by Gore and Fisher.

Gov. Roosevelt was visited today by the blind senator from Oklahoma, Thomas Gore, who assured him that Oklahoma would be overwhelmingly in the Democratic column.

Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale spent a couple of hours with the Democratic candidate, during which they discussed the financial plight of the nation and possible remedies.

HUNT BANK RUN FOMENTER AS REDS PLAN FOR MEETING

Police, federal agents, and bank detectives were still searching for George Rowland, alias Max Salzman, communist fomenter of bank runs, yesterday while Chicago communists were planning a meeting for next Sunday at which bank depositors will be harangued.

A "demonstration" is also announced for this morning in South Chicago. The police have been assigned to watch it.

Seditious correspondence, detailing the ramifications of a nation-wide bank wrecking plot, was found in Rowland's deserted Pontiac, Mich., hotel room when it was raided by Capt. Ira Marmon of the Michigan state police late Thursday. Capt. Marmon said in Detroit yesterday that he had obtained a warrant charging Rowland, whose real name, he said, is Salzman, with inciting bank runs.

George E. Powers, communist candidate for chief judge of the Court of Appeals in New York City, denied at his Astoria, N. Y., home that he and Rowland are the same man. The American Vigilant Intelligence federation had expressed the belief that Rowland was, in reality, Powers.

The communist meeting scheduled for Sunday, to which all south side bank depositors will be invited, was announced by Herbert Newton, alias Gilmer Brady, Negro, who is running for congress on the communist ticket against Congressman Oscar De Priest.

SPAIN ADOPTS INCOME TAX; RICH HIT TWICE

[Copyright; 1932: By the New York Times.]

MADRID, July 28.—Spain is instituting a "light" income tax in the 1933 budget, according to Minister of Finance Juan Garner.

The republic, with a diminutive middle class, has received its income largely from the highest tariffs in Europe, land taxes, and wage taxes paid annually upon acquisition of identity cards.

Nearly all the wealthiest persons in Spain have most of their holdings in landed estates. In view of this the new tax is a serious blow to their class, since it means paying a double tax on lands and on the income from them.

Woman Dies After Heart Attack on Loop Street

A woman about 45 years old, identified by a paper in her purse as Mrs. Elizabeth Rieth, became suddenly ill last night at State and Madison streets and died soon afterward in the county hospital. Heart disease apparently was the cause of death. The paper was a medical prescription issued by Dr. James Reeder, 6 South Kedzie avenue, who said he believed Mrs. Rieth had resided near Homan avenue and Walnut street.

BY THE BEARD OF THE PROPHET! 'TIS CAPITOL ROW

Was Ezekiel a 'Beaver?' Nebraska Wonders.

Lincoln, Neb., July 28.—[Special.]—The whiskers of the prophet Ezekiel, who lived some 2,500 years ago, are holding up the finishing touches on the sculpture on Nebraska's new 10 million dollar state capitol.

Ezekiel had whiskers at one time and the Lord ordered him to cut them off, giving minute instructions as to what disposition to make of the shearing. But the record does not register that Ezekiel followed the instructions of the Lord and now sculptural work on the tower of the capitol is held up until the question of Ezekiel's beard is settled.

Who Said "Beaver."

Eight figures are being cut on the outside of the base of the tower. Seven are completed. The eighth represents Ezekiel. And the figure has a long beard. That's where the trouble rises. A controversy has arisen similar to that which arose when the bronze statue of Abraham Lincoln was designed by Daniel Chester French for a place on the capitol grounds. Lincoln is there shown to be wearing a beard, although some contended for a smooth face.

Ezekiel's face has a very long beard like the old Hebrew patriachs always are depicted as wearing. Before the figure was completed somebody discovered that in all probability Ezekiel didn't have a beard when he was doing his best prophesying.

Ezekiel's Instructions.

The authority quoted to uphold this opinion is to be found in the fifth chapter of the book of Ezekiel:

"And thou, son of man, take thee a sharp knife, take thee a barber's razor, and cause it to pass upon thine head and upon thy beard; then take the balances to weigh and divide the hair.

"Thou shalt burn with fire a third part in the midst of the city, when the days of the siege are fulfilled; and thou shalt take a third part, and smite about it with a knife; and a third part thou shalt scatter to the winds; and I will draw out a sword after them."

Critics are saying members of the commission didn't know their Bible or they would have caught the point before approving the model with the whiskers.

Defenders of the beard point out that while Ezekiel was undoubtedly ordered to shave, there is nothing in the Bible to show that he carried out this order. To which argument the "clean facers" reply that the Lord continued Ezekiel as his prophet for many years, and that if Ezekiel had disobeyed he would not have so continued.

The figure of the prophet is being carved on the west side of the tower. There are two figures on each of the four sides. Ezekiel, with his beard, stands beside Greek Socrates, who also is equipped with a fine flowing beard. On the south façade appear St. John and Marcus Aurelius. On another side are Newton and Louis IX. and on the last side are Pentaur, an Egyptian priest and poet of the times of Rameses II., and Abraham Lincoln without beard. All eight figures were modeled by Lee Lawrie.

AGAIN SUPPRESS SALES OF PAPER IN MINNEAPOLIS

Critic of Police Is Thrown Out When He Protests.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 28.—[Special.]—Police for the second time silenced the Public Press, a weekly newspaper, when they confiscated the 40,000 copies today as the paper made its reappearance on the streets for the first time since it was forced to cease publication more than a year ago.

Newsboys selling the paper on loop streets were taken to police headquarters, where their papers were taken away and they were told they would be jailed if they attempted to make further sales.

Arthur Kasherman, the publisher, informed of the seizure, went to headquarters to protest and was thrown bodily out of the station. He said he would bring action in Hennepin county District court to restrain police from interference with sales of the paper.

Comes from Superintendent.

The order which resulted in confiscation of the paper today came from William J. Meehan, superintendent of police, Kasherman said.

Objection to circulation of the paper was ostensibly based on the leading story, which aired the recent shooting of a man by a policeman in a row over a girl who accompanied them on a drinking party. This story had previously received wide publicity in the daily newspapers. The paper also gave a list of reputed vice resorts allegedly receiving police protection.

Kasherman charges that he is being made the victim of police persecution. He first won the police enmity, he says, when he appeared in an inquiry into police graft and vice protection over five years ago.

Confiscated Year Ago.

The Public Press was first ordered confiscated over a year ago by the then mayor, William Kunze. The edition confiscated at that time contained an attack on the policies of Kunze, who was a candidate for reëlection. Kunze was defeated and Kasherman appealed to the new mayor, William Anderson, who said that he had no objection to publication of the Public Press.

The paper, however, has not appeared since it was first confiscated until today, Kasherman having previously lacked funds to carry on its publication.

INN FIGHT OVER A FIRECRACKER BRINGS $5 FINE

George Stricker, 37 years old, 5953 North Paulina street, was fined $5 yesterday by Magistrate A. L. Sengstock of Morton Grove, before whom he was arraigned on a charge of assault and battery.

The complainants were Charles O. Swift, 838 Michigan avenue, Evanston, and Edward Walder, 827 Greenleaf street, Evanston, and their wives. They asserted that they had gone together to the Red Cabin, a roadhouse near Waukegan road and Dempster street, the evening of July 4 and that a firecracker had been exploded in Mrs. Swift's lap while there.

An altercation followed when Swift and Walder accused Stricker of tossing the cracker. Swift's glasses were broken and he suffered a cut over the right eye. Stricker denied having anything to do with the firecracker and added that he had only defended himself when attacked. Swift is a steward of the Hemenway Methodist church and Mrs. Walder is a sister of Mayor Charles H. Bartlett of Evanston.

ISSUE WARRANT FOR ARREST OF MISSING BANKER

A federal warrant was issued yesterday by United States Commissioner Walker for the arrest of Nicholas A. Schwall, former assistant cashier of the closed First National bank of Wilmette. Schwall, who has been missing since the bank was closed June 25, confessed in a letter that he had embezzled $43,000.

The confession letter, found at the time the institution was closed, was addressed to Robert Stoddard, vice president. In addition to confessing the embezzlement, Schwall listed the accounts he had manipulated. Since that time bank examiners under A. P. Leyburn have been inspecting the accounts listed. The warrant was obtained by Assistant United States Attorney Owen A. West.

At the time the letter was discovered bank officials stated the money was fully covered by insurance. At the Schwall home, Wilmette avenue and Hibbard road, Wilmette, it was said the cashier had left because depositors of the bank had worried him with demands for their money. He was said to be "on a vacation."

CITY PAVEMENT WEAK IN PLACES, TESTS DISCLOSE

Property Owners Cheated, Club Engineer Says.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., July 28.—[Special.]—An examination today of the state highway department's laboratory records here revealed structural weaknesses of Chicago pavements, deficiencies in design, materials and workmanship that make them unable to support traffic even were surfaces smooth. The laboratory is testing cores drilled from the 181 miles of the city's streets that were incorporated into the highway system by the Hunter bill passed by the general assembly last year.

"There is strong evidence that the property owners who paid for these pavements were cheated," said George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club. "The core tests indicate thta the property owners did not get the quantity or the quality of materials specified in the contracts on which special assessments were collected.

Evidence They're "Swindled."

"The property owners have long felt that they were cheated in having to pay for streets to be broken up by through traffic. Now there is evidence that they were also swindled in the construction of the pavements."

The state highway department, which has collected $86,000,000 in license fees and gasoline taxes from Chicago traffic, is now preparing to spend its first dollar on the city's streets. In taking over the 181 miles of streets for maintenance and possible reconstruction the property owners are not being compensated for their investment. And the state is testing the pavements, looking the gift horse in the mouth and finding the teeth defective, broken, and decayed.

"We have only one purpose in making these tests," said Chief Engineer Sheets in reply to questions. "We want to discover what sort of treatment is necessary on each section to make or to keep the pavement suitable for traffic."

"Have you noticed whether your tests show that the pavements were not laid in accordance with specifications?" he was asked.

Interested in Condition.

"We are not concerned with the specifications," he replied. "We're interested solely in what exists on the streets today."

In some places the state's motor driven hollow cylinder, which extracts a core of pavement four and a half inches in diameter, has been sunk where a concrete foundation was expected only to find cinders were supporting the asphalt surface. At other places the boring machine crumbled the concrete, indicating that only a fraction of the required cement had been used.

Where the concrete was solid enough to extract a core the cylinder was measured for the thickness of the pavement and then the cylinder was crushed in the state laboratory here to determine its compressive strength. The records show the results on thirteen Chicago streets, but for a layman to understand the figures some explanation is necessary.

Rural Pavements Tested.

As a basis for comparison the annual report of the highway department shows that the average compressive strength of cores taken on its rural highways was 4,003 pounds per square inch. Department engineers said the range is from 3,000 to 5,000 pounds. The rural pavement is sufficiently sound so that only once in 500 attempts were the drillers unable to extract a core.

There follows a table of the tests in Chicago. On pavements consisting of a surface material on a concrete base only the foundation was considered. Of particular significance, according to the engineers, is the fact that the drillers so frequently failed to extract a complete core due to the crumbling of defective concrete. The breaks, cracks, and roughness of the pavements are not reflected by these tests since the drillers sought sound pieces for the cores.

Results of Tests.

A few examples of tests on Chicago streets, with the number of drillings, variations in thickness, number of cores sufficiently strong to register on the compression machine, and the minimum and average compressive strengths in pounds per square inch follow:

STATE STREET—60th street to 63d street: Drillings, 16; thickness, 5.3 to 6.7 in.; cores tested, 6; min., 1,464 lbs., and aver., 2,302 lbs. 63d street to 64th street: Drillings, 6; thickness, 7.1 to 10.2 in.; cores tested, 2; min., 2,459 lbs., and aver., 3,089 lbs.

VINCENNES AVENUE TO 64TH STREET: Drillings, 18; thickness, 6 to 6.5 in.; cores tested, 2; min., 1,418 lbs., and aver., 1,919 lbs.

CICERO AVENUE—Chicago avenue to Washington boulevard: Drillings, 34; thickness, 4.3 to 6 in.; cores tested, 1; 3,250 lbs. [Some cinders unearthed.]

JACKSON BOULEVARD TO ROOSEVELT ROAD: Drillings, 39; thickness, 5.1 to 7 in.; cores tested, 5; min., 642 lbs., and aver., 1,378 lbs.

IRVING PARK BOULEVARD—Narragansett avenue to Central avenue: Drillings, 40; thickness, 4.2 to 7.7 in.; cores tested, 13; min., 978 lbs., and aver., 3,034 lbs.

City Traffic Heavier.

While a compressive strength of 3,500 pounds per square inch is considered as sufficient to carry the legal loads on Illinois' rural roads, greater strength is needed for the heavier city traffic. A slab pavement or a pavement base of less compressive strength than 2,500 pounds per square inch is considered too weak for resurfacing even if not broken or cracked. It may be noted that few of the Chicago pavements tested are without weak places, as shown by the minimum readings, too fragile even to support a resurfacing.

SEVEN REALTY EXPERTS AID IN BAIN DEFENSE

Seven real estate experts testified for the defense yesterday in the trial of John Bain, his sons, Robert and John A. Bain, and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher, before Judge John M. O'Connor on charges of conspiracy growing out of the failure of the Bain bank chain last year.

"I consider that John Bain was solvent on the day his banks closed," said Francis X. Busch, his attorney, before the court session opened. "I also consider that he is solvent today if given a chance to liquidate his holdings. The purpose of the witnesses is to prove that the state was wrong in the contention that his holdings were overvalued."

Although the testimony was of a technical nature, bristling with figures, the crowd of spectators which filled the benches in the courtroom did not relax its interest in the trial.

The testimony of Newton B. Lauren, 4534 Ellis avenue, was typical of that of the other witnesses. Piece by piece, he took various Bain real estate holdings and gave his appraisals at various periods from 1925 up to the closing of the banks. In cross-examination, Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber asserted that Lauren's appraisals were an average of 30 per cent higher than those fixed by the Chicago Real Estate board in its routine valuations of property throughout the city.

DENIES BANKERS WILL TAKE PART OF RELIEF LOAN

Ryerson Assails Lewis; Tells of Situation.

Edward L. Ryerson Jr. returned to Chicago from Washington yesterday and said he was "quite satisfied" with the $3,000,000 loan granted to Illinois for relief by the Reconstruction Finance corporation late Wednesday. Mr. Ryerson denied emphatically the intimation made by Senator J. Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.], that Chicago bankers will take any part of the loan to satisfy advances made in anticipation of the federal loan.

"There have been no such advances by Chicago bankers," Mr. Ryerson said. "The last block of state tax anticipation warrants was sold, not used as the basis for a loan. They will not be taken up by federal funds. I consider Senator Lewis' statement a reflection on the bankers, who have come to the city's aid when we were faced by emergency situations on numerous occasions.

Concession Made by R. F. C.

"As to the size of the loan, it was a concession on the part of the Reconstruction Finance corporation to make any allocation at all at this time. Legislation creating the federal relief fund and outlining the manner in which those funds are to be administered came to the corporation only a week ago. The officers of the corporation have not had time to study the legislation sufficiently to be sure of the proper manner of distribution. Their task is a tremendous one, involving not only relief funds but the federal works and self-liquidating projects as well.

"The corporation would have been perfectly justified in sending an expert to Illinois to study the conditions here before granting one cent in loans. That was not deemed necessary, however, because Chicago relief officials took the required information to Washington a week ago. If that had not been done, it is entirely likely that Illinois would have exhausted its relief funds before the corporation acted on a loan."

Will Last 25 Days.

Mr. Ryerson said the loan sets no precedent as to total, or as to period that it is to cover. The $3,000,000 will last about 25 days at the rate relief funds are now being spent. The date of Aug. 13 has been set for a new hearing before the board of directors of the corporation on additional funds for Illinois. Mr. Ryerson said the loan commitment will be in the hands of Gov. Emmerson for his disposal before present funds are exhausted.

Gov. Emmerson will have to designate the agency through which he wishes to have the federal loan funds distributed. The Illinois Emergency Relief commission is now empowered to do that.

The city council adopted a resolution yesterday urging the relief commission to allot as large a portion f the federal loan as possible for relief in the form of public work. The resolution, introduced by the committee on unemployment, pointed out that in the period from Oct. 1, 1930, to April, 1931, nearly 10,000 heads of needy families were employed and earned wages of more than $1,107,000, and that more than 3,000 were given work in the period from September, 1931, to February, 1932, earning $350,000 in wages.

KELLY TO HEAD "L" GROUP IN TRANSIT MERGER

D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair store, has accepted chairmanship of a committee to represent owners of various issues of elevated lines' securities in the consolidation of street car and "L" lines in the Chicago Local Transportation company, it was announced yesterday.

The announcement was made by Halsey, Stuart & Co., reorganization managers. Six other members of the committee will be announced soon. Each will represent holders of one issue of the mortgage bonds on the "L" system. The first activity of the committee will be to invite the security owners to deposit their holdings with the committee. It is provided that membership of the committee will be enlarged to represent specific liens if any conflict of interest arises between the different groups.

The original plan for consolidation of Chicago's local transportation system provided that the underlying securities of the elevated lines, which at that time was the only company involved in the merger not in receivership, should remain undisturbed in the reorganization. Recently, however, the "L" lines went into receivership.

This necessitated a revision of the financial plan for the reorganization.

FIND COMPOSER'S WIFE ENDED OWN LIFE WITH POISON

LONDON, July 28.—(AP)—A coroner's jury today returned a verdict of suicide while of unsound mind at an inquest in the death of Lady Ronald, wife of Sir Landon Ronald, the composer. She died last Monday.

Sir Bernard Stillsbury, noted physician, said there were signs of narcotic poisoning in the body when he made a post-mortem examination.

Sir Landon, who conducted an orchestra for Dame Nellie Melba many years ago in the United States, broke down at the inquest. He said he could imagine no reason for his wife's action.

HOOVER APPOINTS MILLER, BANKER, TO R. F. C. BOARD

Seventh Member Will Be President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 28.—[Special.]—President Hoover today completed the roster of the board of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, thus clearing the way for the board to arrange a permanent loan policy and begin disbursing the billions placed at its command for relief and construction loans.

Charles A. Miller, a Republican banker of Utica, N. Y., was named as the seventh member of the board. Mr. Miller will be elected president of the corporation, the post held by former Ambassador Charles G. Dawes until his retirement to resume private banking business in Chicago. Atlee Pomerene, Democrat and former senator, who was named to the board Tuesday, has taken the chairmanship of the board held by Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal reserve board.

As the board is now constituted it has a membership of four Democrats and three Republicans. The president of the board will be a Republican and the chairman a Democrat. Mr. Miller is expected to be the main contact man between President Hoover and the board.

Mr. Miller is now president of the Savings Bank of Utica. For some time he has been chairman of the regional committee of the Reconstruction Finance corporation of the Second federal reserve district.

Girl Leaps Into River to End Her Life; Rescued

Mary Reid, 18 years old, 146 East Kensington avenue, tried to end her life last evening by jumping into the river from the Wells street bridge. Firemen from the fireboat Graeme Stewart, who had been watching her as she walked to and fro on the bridge before leaping, put out in a rowboat and rescued her. She attempted suicide because she was ill, she said when she was turned over to police.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE SCHOOL BOARD SURRENDERS.

The stubborn resistance of the school board majority has at length been broken and $15,000,000 has been slashed from the school tax levy for 1932. It was a surrender and a particularly ignominious one, precisely because it was a surrender to common sense and rectitude. The school budget has been under consideration for six months and more. During all that time there was not a single competent and impartial analyst of school affairs who did not say, and prove, that the levy which the school board voted in March was greatly in excess of the income which the board will receive in taxes this year and, what is more important, greatly in excess of the amount which the school board can borrow this year.

The levy and the budget upon which it was based have been the principal obstacles to a more rapid discharge of the school board's obligation to its employés. The responsibility for that failure lies at the door of the holdover trustees. Trustees Myers and Caldwell of the holdover majority may take such satisfaction as they can from having finally voted as prudent business judgment would have dictated in the first place.

In one sense the reduction of the levy is unimportant. The chief purpose of the levy is to provide a basis for borrowing. A few years ago the school board had relatively little difficulty in obtaining credit up to three-fourths of the amount of a levy because investors had confidence in the ability of the tax collectors to get the money with which to repay the advances. This year the situation is utterly different. Credit is advanced not upon the basis of the levy but upon an examination of current tax collections. Under these conditions the levy might have been twice as large and no more money would have been put at the disposition of the board than it will now obtain. In that sense the previous levy was a dishonest one. It was a draft on the taxpayers for more revenue for 1932 than the school board could possibly spend in 1932.

In another sense, however, the reduced levy is genuinely important. In Chicago, as in substantially every other important taxing unit in the United States, not excepting the federal government, the point of diminishing returns from higher tax rates has been reached and passed. That is to say, the higher the exactions, the less the government which imposes them receives in actual revenue. It follows that the only way to increase revenues is to lower the rates.

This may sound like a mathematical absurdity, but it is a human reality. A man who owns a home which was worth $10,000 a couple of years ago and today is worth, perhaps, $7,500, if that much, has seen his taxes doubled and trebled within less than ten years. His principal is dwindling, his income is dwindling, but his interest payments remain what they always were and his taxes have been rising. He has seen his tax bill rise from around $125 to around $250. Many taxpayers have already given up the effort to pay as hopeless. Others are ready to break under the strain. The only way that cash revenues can be increased is to lower taxes to the point where property owners, large and small, will be encouraged to make the effort to meet their tax bills.

Precisely because the last tax bills sent out in Chicago were the highest on record, the collections have been poorest. The reduction in the school levy is therefore a step in the right direction. It will tend to reduce the amount billed to each taxpayer and therefore it will tend to get the tax bills within the possibilities of payment.

COMPLETING THE PICTURE.

Dr. Evans' article of Sunday on hours of sunshine contained some interesting statistics. For example, we find that, on the basis of observations and records, Chicago has slightly greater expectation of sunshine than New York. The figures in hours of sunshine for Chicago are 2,632 to New York's 2,557. The total number of possible hours of sunshine in a year are 4,282. The statistics omitted the well known facts that our winters are warmer, our summers are cooler, our air drier and our rain wetter than New York's. Our girls are prettier and our men tougher, while New York's are the reverse.

Dr. Evans didn't tell the half of it.

SOON NOTHING BUT THE DICTATORSHIP.

A new decree by the soviet government permits the Artisans' Coöperative associations to procure raw material of certain kinds on their initiative, from other than the state supply, and to sell the manufactured product for whatever price they can get. This concession follows one which permitted peasants to sell with fewer restrictions in the open market. The purpose, of course, is to revive the impulse of the son of Anak sometimes known as cupidity, the gainful instinct, the work motive which has to do with private profit.

These concessions to cardinal sin are noted from time to time in the soviet management, which allows it to be understood that human nature is not yet perfect. The proletariat still inclines to error and at times some slack must be given it. The thought of profit has attractions for persons who should resist it but do not. The American experiment with prohibition relied upon a new generation which had never heard of intoxicating beverages. The Russian experiment relies upon a new generation to which profits are unknown. If the Russians at their game have no better luck than the Americans had at their own there'll be nothing left of communism in Russia but the dictatorship, but the soviet government may be satisfied with that as salvage. If a government can dictate it does not so much matter what.

DESTRUCTION BY TAXATION.

Bankruptcy of the state and the destruction of its citizens is the inevitable consequence of the autocratic demand for greater and still greater expenditures for government. This year's income tax levy in Wisconsin is example and proof of the deadening hand of the overfunctioning of government.

The closest scrutiny by the state of the private affairs of both corporations and individuals reveals not enough taxable income to produce revenue equal to a year ago, although the income tax rate was exactly doubled in the name of unemployment relief.

Even with this doubled collection from those called "able to pay" and the loss in the total levy there is a delinquency in payments estimated at about $4,000,000, or nearly 25 per cent.

In Wisconsin the destruction of the people by the tax barons has progressed far.

It is a condition which exists in some degree in nearly all states and not less in the national government. The unwillingness of the tax masters to recognize and to remove the blight they have imposed on productive business and through business down to every citizen is the great obstacle in the way of recovery from the present economic catastrophe.

Reverting to the example of Wisconsin, the total cost of state government has grown from $114.35 per family of five in 1912 to $440.55 for the same family in 1930, an increase of $326.20 for each family. The growth has been continuous since 1930, but that is the latest year for which complete figures are available.

Will any one question that were this $326.20 released to each family every year it would be spent for manufactured goods and farm products and would effect the employment of labor that would make insignificant the politically inspired grade crossing scheme for which additional millions of tax money were exacted last year?

There has been no change in the average family, well and sufficiently governed in 1912 at a cost of $114.35, that it must have $440.55 worth of government today.

Government in Wisconsin as elsewhere no longer exists to protect its citizens in their rights to life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. The citizen exists to sustain a government octopus and the job has become too big for him.

Those responsible for the conduct of government, practically alone in America, have not felt the loss of income, the insecurity and the dread of the last three years. There has been in official circles no sincere attempt to reduce drastically public expenditures. Cold, autocratic and bureaucratic, the rulers have sought a cure for conditions only in further taxation and in the extension of public fingers into private affairs.

The mass of the people do not and never have demanded or even suggested a tenth of the public service, public improvements or extra governmental functions that have come to be accepted as commonplace necessities. They have been enacted one by one after the clamor and noise of overzealous idealists or ambitious political place seekers.

In Wisconsin it was estimated that $30,000,000 of property taxes could not be paid this year when due. The delinquency on 1931 incomes collected this year was around 25 per cent. Business and agriculture have suffered progressively in 1932. There will be less income to be taxed next year than at present. The need for relief is constantly greater.

Unless every unessential expense is stopped at once, where will next year's public revenue come from except from outright confiscation?

SPEED TRAPS MUST GO.

The state's attorney owes it to the motorists using the highways of Cook county to stamp out the speed trap. He can end this nuisance if he will use his power, and its continuance will be a reflection upon his administration.

The speed trap is not a minor offense in its general consequences. It may represent a small loss of money and time to many of its victims, though in the aggregate it is by no means small. But as a notorious and flagrant graft it is a demoralizing influence on all police administration and upon the public morale. It breeds irresponsibility and disrespect for law and its agencies. Its petty graft is no test of its gravity as a public offense. Its effects are serious enough to make its rigorous suppression a first rate duty of the authorities in Cook and in the state.

Editorial of the Day

PUBLICITY AND CREDIT.

[Illinois State Journal.]

Publicity for loans made by the Reconstruction Finance corporation, a policy advocated by Speaker Garner, Democratic vice presidential nominee, would have the effect of defeating the very purpose for which the R. F. C. was set up—the maintenance of credit and confidence.

Suppose that as soon as a bank applies for and receives a loan the news is broadcast in the community in which that bank is doing business. Depositors and business men dealing with that particular bank are likely to infer that the bank is hard pressed. Given time, the institution can surmount the temporary emergency, pay off the loan and proceed in order. If nervous depositors demand their money and business men go elsewhere to transact their financial business, the bank is doomed. Fearing such publicity, a bank may postpone an application for aid until it is too late.

Proponents of the publicity provision mouth warnings of the favors granted "big business," "vested interests," "powers of predatory privilege," and kindred mythical monsters. Such frightening phrases are voter bait, appeals that hint of class prejudice. Unfortunately for our economic welfare, there is an election in November. Demagogues cannot forget the ballot box when considering legislation that affects the economic life of a nation.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

AND HE MIGHT BE TOLD SOMETHING LIKE THIS.

(Vice President Curtis will be notified of his renomination at Topeka Aug. 18.—News item.)

Mr. Curtis, when you were asked to come out to your old home state and stand here on the steps of the capitol on this eighteenth day of August you probably, with your native shrewdness, suspected something. But you could not possibly have guessed the real reason why we are all gathered around you this beautiful afternoon. For four years you have not been much in touch with the world, as during that time you have been Vice President of the United States. As Vice President you are permitted to wear a dignified long tailed coat and a silk hat and attend dinners, but that is about as far as the United States permits its Vice Presidents to go.

There was once a Vice President, Mr. Marshall, who is remembered by name, but that is not because he was Vice President but because of his famous remark: "What this country needs is a good five cent cigar." You never made a wise crack like that, Mr. Curtis, and so, unfortunately, your name is not as well known. But you have been a good Vice President, because the less a Vice President says and the quieter he moves about the more the country is pleased.

Just why the United States wanted a Vice President to begin with is hard to say, since it could find so little for him to do. But, anyhow, it offers another political job, and in this land of the free and home of the brave another political job is a grand thing and prized by one and all. But while the position of Vice President is a somewhat dismal and inconspicuous one, it has its compensations. The Vice President doesn't have to shake hands with perspiring thousands of his fellow countrymen at White House receptions and he isn't asked to kiss babies. Nobody is going around waving his hand and shouting, "This is the hand that shook the hand of the Vice President," and no fond mother would any more brag that her baby was kissed by the Vice President than she would boast about his being bit by a June bug.

But, sir, while the vice presidency is not a job that everybody craves, yet the constitution provides we have a Vice President, some citizen must hold that position, and you, sir, are again the goat. That is, I mean, the great honor of the nomination for the vice presidency has again been conferred upon you by the Republican party. It is yours and here it is and do not slam the door as you go out.

OTHER DAYS.

Rare days, when every wind blew warm,
And summer birds sang loud and sweet,
When shower of rain and cloud of storm
Came but to part the summer heat;
Young days, when you and I together,
Sweet, in the warmth of summer skies,
Lay side by side among the heather
And read our love in dreamy eyes.

Darkling we stand in moonless night,
And winter birds sing sad and low;
Trembling with strange and dim affright,
Fearful, we whisper, "Let us go."
We cannot go. The night of stillness
Is not in earth, or sky, or air,
But in our hearts. The deathlike chillness
Is with us here and everywhere.

Sweet, when the night is dark and cold,
The night of God that falls apace,
Take you my hand, keep steadfast hold,
Albeit I cannot see your face;
So, when night breaks, as it shall break,
In tremulous gleams of light new-born,
Hand fast in hand we two may wake
And see each other's face at morn.

LORNA DOONE.

"I'M SORRY NOW," a lady who had just shot her husband told the police. "Oh, how I shall miss him!" Too late; she should have missed him the first time.

AND THE NONCHALANT WAY in which this same lady called up the police to inform them of the incident illustrates the poise and bearing which the girls have developed since they won equal rights with men. "I have just killed my husband; come on over," said the lady in the same tone of voice in which a few years ago a woman would remark, "I have just made a new dolly," or "I have just baked a chocolate cake." It isn't that we men are shocked or frightened at the calm indifference of the modern women, but, doggone it, if they shoot us they might at least take a little interest in the thing.

VACATION INVITATION TO THE BAR NONE RANCH.

Why not come out to the West this year?
Out to the old Bar None,
Where, before breakfast, we bulldog a steer,
Or gentle a mustang for fun.

Come out to the ranch where the dudes are few,
And we holster our smoke-poles low—
Oh! The Bar None boys are a six-gun crew
Feared by the "rustler" foe.

Burn the yearling calves with the Bar None brand,
Ride a few wild horses for practice—
When they meet—the mountains, the sun, and the sand—
Smile—as you sit in the cactus!

Come—ride fence at the breaking of day—
Eat—should the chuck-wagon find you—
(Cook's an ex-outlaw, the old timers say,
And still rides when he's a mind to.)

JAYHAWKER.

THEY HAD to call on the regular army yesterday to make the bonus marchers behave. And if the regular army can't do anything about it, then they ought to order out the bureaucrats and jobholders in Washington and send 'em to the front. Now, there's an army as is an army. R. H. L.

PROTECTING THE TEETH.

THE dentists appreciate the importance of a drinking water that is not too rich in fluorine, but many of them have yet to learn of another danger that confronts their patients. Floyd De Eds informs them, through their official dental journal, that one of their best bleaching agents contains ammonium fluoride. When they are asked to whiten teeth stained by tobacco or discolored by any other agent they are apt to use a powder containing this chemical. The action in whitening a tooth may be somewhat similar to the formation of the soft white spots in the teeth of persons who get too much fluorine. Since the teeth of adults are more resistant the use of an ammonium fluoride powder on them may not do material harm, but its use to bleach the teeth of children is distinctly risky.

De Eds warns dentists against the use of abrasives, powders, and pastes which contain ammonium fluoride as an ingredient. They will do well to inquire as to whether any tooth paste or preparation of any kind, especially those that tend to whiten the teeth, contains any fluoride before they use it themselves or recommend that their patients use it. An infrequent use, as, for instance, for the purpose of bleaching, may be harmless, but not so if a powder containing fluorides is used daily.

Fluorine is one of those substances—of which there are several—which foods and drugs used by man must contain in a minute trace, but in which an excess is harmful. Copper is one of these. We appear to need an exceedingly small daily dose of it, yet let the quantity pass even a trace and harm results. Iodine is another. We need a little "awful bad," but slightly too much is even worse for us. We need a trace of iron, but an excess of it would be poisonous except for the fact that any excess eaten would pass through unabsorbed. We need a little zinc, but it is not far to the too-much field. The need of salt even the lower animals appreciate, yet too much is harmful.

We get some fluorine in milk, and other foods tend to contribute toward supplying our needs. Probably all potable water has some. But the limits are quickly reached and, after that, the picture is reversed. What was just now classed as a need becomes a source of harm.

Perhaps an even more important source of danger lies in eating fruits and vegetables that have been sprayed with insecticides that contain fluorides. In order to grow fruit profitably it is usually necessary to use sprays. Some of these contain fluorides. In all probability the department of agriculture will issue a bulletin on the advantages and disadvantages of insect sprays that contain fluorides. They may have done so already. This bulletin may tell us which sprays contain these salts and also give instructions for washing them similar to those they advise for apples that have been sprayed with arsenic solutions.

It has been claimed that the teeth of children can be protected when there is an excess of fluorides in their water and food by giving them a diet that is rich in lime and by treating them with ultra-violet light.

MAY BE DERANGED.

M. D. J. writes: I am one of five girls. Four of us are of average weight, but the eldest is about 60 pounds overweight. Since this sister was 5 years of age she has displayed a peculiar nature. She is married and apparently healthy, yet she is always laboring under the impression that we are plotting against her. Recently she has complained of receiving horrible, insulting letters, supposedly sent by her sister. Yet she cannot produce any evidence and we are certain she must be the victim of hallucinations.

1. Do you think the surplus flesh she is carrying would have a morbid effect on her mind?

2. Is it a form of dementia precox or merely a sour disposition? Religious fanaticism seems to be a part of her troubles also.

REPLY.

1. It may be this sister has some lack of endocrine balance and this contributes both to her obesity and to her mental trouble. However, on the evidence given, no one could say this is the case.

2. She appears to have delusions of persecution. Almost any mental disturbance, including dementia precox, can be accompanied by such delusions. Probably she has had a disordered personality since childhood. She may or may not be deranged now.

HEALTH OF ALIENS.

M. D. W. writes: I cannot understand why the medical department of this country did not stop immigration years ago, or take a special interest in the alien.

REPLY.

By "medical department of this country" I presume you mean the United States public health service and the state and local health departments. The immigration laws are passed by congress. The various health departments are administrative bodies and cannot go further than carry out laws. For several years the laws have called for health inspection of immigrants at various foreign ports. The public health service has been doing this work.

PROBABLY ARTHRITIS.

S. S. writes: What causes the hands of a person, apparently well at the age of 50, to become lame? They do not ache, but are hard to close. The knees feel lame when rising. She works in the house part of the time and in the garden also.

REPLY.

The probability is that there is a mild arthritis affecting especially the hands and knees.

FLAT WHEELS NOISY.

Chicago, July 23.—[Friend of the People.]—Is there an ordinance on the books of Chicago which prohibits the running of flat wheel cars by the street car lines? Almost every car which is run on the 51st street line has a flat wheel and the noise is terrific. I counted seven cars with such defects in the space of a half hour between 7 and 8 in a single morning. H. H. P.

An inspector assigned to investigate this complaint reports that some of the wheels on the cars operating on this line have developed slight flat spots. We have the assurance of the surface lines that this condition will be rectified in the immediate future. JEFFERY A. O'CONNOR, Commissioner of Public Service.

FARM MORTGAGES.

Aurora, Ill., July 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Mr. A had a first mortgage on 40 acres of Missouri farm land in the amount of $1,300. Mr. B had a mortgage on the same farm [second mortgage] for the amount of $65. Later Mr. A purchased the 40 acres and turned his mortgage for the amount of $1,300 over to the state bank as collateral. A's mortgage was purchased from the bank by C. The abstract was left in possession of the cashier of this bank for safety. The cashier wrote on the abstract "This belongs to Mr. C." The bank failed. The cashier was convicted of unlawful use of funds and is now serving a three year sentence. C tried to gain possession of the abstract after the bank failure, but it could not be found. C was told that he would be notified by the party in charge as soon as it was found. A was unable to meet payments. The farm was advertised to be sold at auction. The State bank of X was named in this advertisement as the holder of the $1,300 mortgage instead of the name of the real owner. 1. The second mortgage of $65 was recorded as the first mortgage. 2. Why? 3. The buyer at the auction paid $65 for the 40 acres. C knew nothing of the foreclosure nor of the sheriff's sale. 4. Can a first mortgage in the above case lawfully become a second mortgage? 5. Is A liable to C for not imparting to C information in regard to his inability to meet payments; or, to the pending foreclosure, or the sheriff's sale? 6. What grounds, if any, can C use to recover his loss? W. L. J.

1. We do not understand what you mean by this statement. Do you mean merely that it failed to bear the express recital that it was a second mortgage? If so this would be relatively unimportant since priority would depend upon the order of recording.

2. See No. 1.

3. Presumably it was a foreclosure only of the second mortgage.

4. No, to the question that you ask, but we cannot give you advice of any value without knowing the facts.

5. His liability on the note depends on the facts as to indorsement, etc. His liability would not be increased by failure to give notice.

6. The first step would be to go over all of the facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SECURE DIVORCE FIRST.

Chicago, July 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I have heard that after seven years of separation in Illinois it is considered legal and [2] a divorce is not necessary. If so, what steps should I take to get necessary papers? G. W.

1. It is true that after seven years a person is presumed dead, but if the missing person turned up he would still be your legal husband.

2. We do not agree with this statement. We strongly advise securing a divorce before contracting another marriage.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 29, 1916.

LONDON.—A Turkish army, estimated at 70,000 strong, is now concentrating in the Hungarian plains for the defense of Hungary, says a dispatch from Lausanne, Switzerland. The dispatch adds that the Austrian emperor has gone to Budapest, where intense excitement prevails.

LONDON.—The Russians delivered three great blows against the Teutonic forces on the east front. The czar's troops captured the important railroad town of Brody on the northern Galician border, the chief obstacle to their advance on Lemberg, capital of Galicia; smashed the entire Teuton first line west of Lutsk, and swept the forces of Gen. von Linsingen from the line of the rivers Slonevka and Buldurovka, in southern Volhynia.

LONDON.—Delville wood and the last German strongholds in Longueval in the Somme sector are now completely controlled by the British, official war office statements report. These two points comprise the key to the German base at Bapaume.

LONDON.—Indignation is widespread in Great Britain at the execution of Capt. Fryatt by the Germans. In official circles feeling is so strong that it would not be surprising if reprisals should be resorted to. Capt. Fryatt commanded the British steamer Brussels and he was executed because his vessel attempted to ram a German submarine. According to dispatches from Berlin, the Brussels was captured last month and taken into Zeebrugge, where Capt. Fryatt was tried before a German naval court-martial, convicted of the charges against him, and executed by a shooting squad.

WASHINGTON.—The United States government accepted in full the Carranza proposal for the appointment of a joint commission to consider the causes of difference between the two republics and make recommendations on which the governments in turn shall act. The series of conferences between Acting Secretary of State Polk and Eliseo Arredondo, Carranza's ambassador designate, has thus ended exactly as Carranza asked.

NEW YORK.—Official figures show a gross total of $78,149,024 as the value of the estate of J. P. Morgan. Deductions for debts, administration, commissions, and other adjustments reduce that sum to $69,499,782.

CHICAGO.—A disturbance in the far northwest that may or may not develop sufficient strength to blow the heat out of the furnace pot formed by the section between the Rocky and Allegheny mountains was charted last night by the local government forecaster. Seventy-two deaths and 125 prostrations was the day's toll taken by the torrid wave in Chicago. Thursday's record was eighteen deaths, bringing the total for the two days to 90. The maximum temperature yesterday was 97 at 2 o'clock, three degrees cooler than the day before.

NEW YORK.—With a payment of $865,000 outside of court, the White Star line stands absolved of all liability for the sinking of the steamship Titanic with a loss of 1,600 lives and the four years of litigation of claimants is brought to an end in a final decree handed down by Federal Judge Mayer. Claims totaling $18,000,000 had been recorded in the federal court by hundreds of claimants, alleging that the ship was lost through the negligence of its navigators.

HOW TO PICK 'EM.

Chicago, July 24.—It is my opinion that if the people of our country would concern themselves as much with our political outcomes as they do with the outcomes of baseball and football games, boxing and wrestling bouts, or any other sporting events we would not have to search for panaceas for depressions such as we have now.

We should pick our candidates as we pick a certain horse to win a race. We do not choose that horse because he belongs to a certain stable or that he is of color which we like; no, we pick him by his past performance. We do not choose a fighter to win a fight just because he associates with a former champion or with a man whom we like; no, we pick him for what he is capable of doing. We do not choose a certain team to win a football game because it possessed a good team several years ago; no, we pick that team because it possesses the ability to win that game now with its own power and not with the prestige set up by its predecessor. Thus we should not vote for a man because he belongs to that party, or that we like his looks, or that he associates with great characters, or that his ancestors were good people; no, we should vote for him because he has proven to possess the ability of great leadership and knows how to concern himself with the people's wants and their and his governments.

If we apply those principles to our elections I'm positive of getting better results and at least getting men for our leaders who have the ability of administering good will towards all the people. ROMAN B. KELLAR.

EDITORIAL SUGGESTION.

Chicago, July 23.—Could THE TRIBUNE inform some of its curious readers to what extent the lack of wealthy people in the United States at present is going to be remedied by the flow of billions now on tap in Washington? There are some pessimists who have lost faith even in the undoubted ability of the politicians to get hold of things, but an authoritative word from THE TRIBUNE might reassure them at least on that one point. N. WOLMAN.

MRS. SABIN.

Independence, Ia., July 23.—C. W. Lawrence's letter in this morning's issue in regard to Mrs. Charles H. Sabin raises an interesting question of heredity.

I had not the pleasure of knowing her father, Paul Morton, personally, as had Mr. Lawrence, but much reading of newspapers during his active life gave me the impression that he was a good fighter. I remember, too, that he was, I think I am safe in saying, a close friend of that other good fighter, the late President Roosevelt.

As a humble co-worker with Mrs. Sabin in the effort to overthrow the two abominations, I have come to have a profound admiration not only for her dignity, poise and charm of manner, but also for her intellectual and executive ability.

Her fighting spirit is, I am sure, an inheritance, and if I might venture as Mr. Lawrence has done to speak in her father's behalf, I should say that if he were alive today he would probably, instead of spanking her, pat her on the back and say, "That's my own girl! Keep up the good fight!" CELIA A. M. CURRIER.

EMPLOYMENT BUREAUS.

Chicago, July 21.—Are some of the employment bureaus racketeering? An agency got me a restaurant job which I held only two days, and they collected from me just twice what I had earned. Their printed form, approved by our government, seemed above argument, but I went to the inspector's office and found that I was considered a sucker, as the authorities do not enforce the exorbitant fees and make the agency settle for a reasonable amount.

May I humbly suggest that the government should publish the information necessary for the protection of the thousands of unemployed? E. F. PALMER.

HIRAM JOHNSON'S MEMORY.

Chicago, July 23.—The other day Mr. Hiram Johnson passed through this city. Mr. Hiram Johnson also condescended very graciously to enlighten the citizens of this city on the last session of congress. Among other things the illustrious son of California mentioned that for the first time in history congress acted without knowing what it was doing or whither it was going. That congress knew nothing of its purpose or destination is not news to us. But the remark that this is the first time in history the blind had attempted to lead the blind should not be permitted to pass by without apologies from Mr. Johnson. What about the 18th amendment? What about the Volstead act? What about the Jones 5 and 10—mentioning only three of hundreds? Did congress know what it was doing or saying in those wild and woozy sessions that are still within our memory? I ask you now, did it? Well, let history provide the answer; and in the meantime we thank Mr. Johnson for calling. MARTHA BUCKLER.

MORE POWER FOR CROOKS.

Chicago, July 22.—In Wednesday's issue you editorialized against government in business, yet on page four you brought the news that Ponca City, Okla., is to be free of taxes in 1933 because the profits of the municipal water and light plants will take care of the needs of Ponca City. How little logic there is in your editorial reasoning. Why don't you rather tell Chicagoans that there is a chance to get out of the present mess by taking over the light and power plants and let the profits go to the city instead of going to the superrich.

Now, if Ponca City, with a population of 16,136, can own, operate and distribute power and light it seems to me Chicago with three and one-half million inhabitants can do the same. Also, if Ponca City can make enough money through light and water plants to completely discontinue taxation, do you dare deny that Chicago can't do the same?

There is only one trouble with Chicagoans. They don't think for themselves. They only listen to you agitate for crooks and corrupt and selfish politicians who always make Chicago safe for the La Salle and Wall street interests. Ever since I can remember we have had thieves and corrupt and selfish politicians in the city hall who took all they could lay their hands on while the getting was good—and THE TRIBUNE still agitates for these same crooks. Why don't you agitate for a party with a platform for government ownership to honestly lighten the burdens of the taxpayers? We know why—because as soon as you do that you'd really agitate for the good of all Chicago citizens and the crooks would disown you. Who was it that said "business is even more crooked than the politicians"?

DONALD J. LOTRICH.

THE SUBSIDIZED SISTERS.

Waukesha, Wis., July 23.—Your editorial, "Move Over, Sisters," interested me greatly. However, I want to know more definitely about the subsidized sisters. What aid do they get to mount up to these enormous sums? And by the term "federal taxes" do you mean federal income taxes only?

It would help me and I believe many others if you would elucidate in another editorial.

Outside of the prohibition issue THE TRIBUNE is, to me, the epitome of sound Americanism. You say what I think.

MRS. HENRY M. YOUMANS.

PARADOXES.

Chicago, July 22.—Please reconcile the following statements constantly being made by repealists:

Repeal of the eighteenth amendment would bring:

1. Temperance; less liquor would be used.

2. Employment; more men would be employed in making liquor.

3. Farm relief; more grain would be used in the production of liquor.

4. Tax relief; money would be spent in buying highly taxed liquor instead of in paying taxes. A. E. RIGBY.

DuPage County Land Sales Under Investigation.

Complaints of real estate racketeering were heard yesterday by the Du Page county grand jury. The concern under investigation is the National Building and Development organziation, which also uses the name of R. D. Marmon & Co., and has offices at 209 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago. State's Attorney Chauncey W. Reed said last night that he expects indictments to be voted.

The investigation yesterday concerned a plot of ground known as Wheaton Park Manor, on Roosevelt road in Wheaton. Prosecutor Reed and G. W. MacDonald, manager of the real estate department of the Chicago Better Business bureau, said they had received many complaints regarding sales of portions of this property by the National Building and Development organization.

Accepts "Free Lot."

One phase of the investigation, Reed and MacDonald explained, concerns an alleged free lot lure. The two concerns mentioned, of which William Rosenthal and Charles Weiss are owners, and Daniel Marmon and Albert Rosenthal, brother of William, are star salesmen, had promised to quit "free lotting," Mr. MacDonald said, but have not done so.

One story reported to have been told the grand jury was that of Mrs. Emma Crawford, 4512 Fulton street.

"I work in a factory for $12 a week but I am out of work now," she said, "and so is my husband who is an upholsterer. In 1925 my father, J. W. Heatter, was told he had won a free lot. It finally cost him $80 for the papers and it was near Wheaton. My husband and I thought we would buy a lot next to it and we were taken there by the agent, Edward Fisher, who works for Rosenthal and Weiss.

"We bought two lots next to the one my father had. In addition to the original cost we were charged $700 a lot for 'improvements.' So was my father. This was supposed to be for water, gas, electricity, and a gravel pavement, none of which ever was put in.

Buy Another Lot.

"Then we bought another lot from this firm, through S. F. Bartnick an agent. This was in Arlington Heights. It was supposed to cost $1,320 but we were given an 'allowance' of $320. We were told if we paid the $1,000 we owed the firm could sell the lot for us for $1,900. We paid it by means of a mortgage on the three Wheaton Manor lots, but there wasn't any purchaser for the Arlington Heights lot.

"Then the Rosenthals told us they had a wonderful bargain for us. We had paid them $3,865 in all for the four lots we owned [my father had given us his]. William Rosenthal showed us a lot on Roosevelt road which he said was zoned for business and the price of it was $5,000. We bought it through turning over our contracts on the other lots, and gave notes for the additional $1,135.

"We have now paid $4,172. Then we found that we didn't own the lot we thought we bought, but the property next to it. This is a useless lot with a deep gully running through it. We also discovered that the lot we bought is restricted to residences and we cannot put a gasoline station on it as we had planned."

Council Orders I. C. to Depress S. Chicago Tracks

The city council yesterday passed an ordinance prepared by the track elevation committee, of which Ald. Harry Sonnenschein [22d] is chairman, ordering depression of the tracks on the South Chicago suburban branch of the Illinois Central railroad. Actual power to order the track depression rests with the Illinois commerce commission, before which a hearing is now pending. In connection with the ordinance, the council adopted the resolution of Ald. B. A. Cronson [4th] opposing any increase of suburban fares in connection with the track depression.

Confesses Robbing Fifteen Victims with Toy Pistol

John Carroll, 35 years old, 641 West Madison street, confessed yesterday to police that he had held up fifteen cab drivers recently with a toy pistol. He was identified by one victim. Alfred Ratkow, 644 York place. Carroll was arrested by Detectives Peter Hansen and John Lagatutte early yesterday at Clark street and Diversey parkway.

Cuba Puts 50 Cent Tax on Phone; Also on Radios

HAVANA, July 28.—(AP)—The house of representatives today approved the senate tax on salt, sugar and flour, voting also a fifty cent tax on telephones and a new tax on radio sets. The senate amusement tax was amended to provide a one cent levy on admissions costing ten cents or less, and a ten cent levy on admissions over ten cents.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste, and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Insist! A substitute. 25c at all stores. ©1932 C. M. Co.

KITCHEN CAN BE MADE PLAYHOUSE FOR CHILD CHEF

Youngsters Prepare Meal While Mother Shops.

BY PHYLLIS HAMMOND.

All little girls and some little boys like to play house. Both boys and girls of certain ages love to get into your kitchen, roll the leftover biscuit dough until it is grimy, scrape the bowl you mixed the cake frosting in, and are especially delighted when they are allowed to cook a batch of fudge that usually never hardens or else is of the type a bricklayer might successfully make use of.

But how about indulging in their whims long enough to give them a little real education on the subject? After a few preliminary bouts, which might consist mainly of letting the children watch your daily struggles with the menu, let them cook for you, and the rest of the family, a meal some evening. They will get a great thrill from the accomplishment of an adult task, and mother will appreciate the change in her hum drum routine.

Start on Something Simple.

Start them out on something simple. There are really lots of dishes a child ten years and upwards can prepare without spoiling in the least. For example, let's take two imaginary and, of course, model children, David, aged 12, and Barbara, aged 10.

Mother has gone downtown to do some shopping, leaving them with complete written instructions as to the preparation of the meal. The bill of fare consists of spaghetti with ground round steak and tomatoes, iced tea, biscuits, and for dessert, a fruit jello.

While the spaghetti is boiling, the can of tomatoes heating, and the round steak frying, David may set the table, being careful to see that napkins are provided at each place and a fresh cloth is laid. Barbara, during this interval, has made a very strong pot of black tea, which she later dilutes with cold water and adds ice to. Mixing the spaghetti, tomatoes, and round steak into a large baking dish or glass pyrex dish is a simple matter. The little girl sprinkles it with grated cheese and sets it aside until the biscuits are ready for the oven.

Biscuits Easy to Make.

It is wise to supply the children with these canned biscuits or perhaps the ready mixed biscuit flour, two new and convenient items in the bread line, which you may appreciate yourself. The first may be placed in the oven without delay; the second needs only mixing with milk or water, rolling and cutting.

In the event of Barbara's biscuit cutting, David is found busy slicing fruit into a bowl, to which he adds jello powder and boiling water and then sets it in the refrigerator to be removed and served after dinner. Biscuits and spaghetti are placed in the oven, mother arrives home and within ten minutes the complete meal is served.

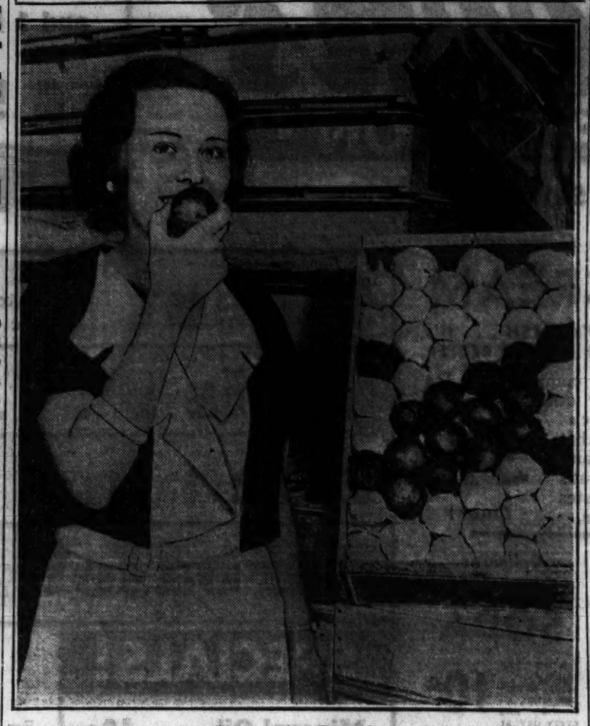
Another easy to prepare meal is a baked dinner, consisting of baked lamb chops, baked potatoes, and rice pudding. Here the oven does all the work, necessitating only a little watching and basting of the chops. For warmer evenings, a meal requiring very little preparation is composed of cold sliced meats, toasted cheese sandwiches, potato chips, lemonade, and fresh fruit and cookies.

REGULAR MEALS AND REST BASIS OF GOOD VACATION

Regularity in meals and rest are the substance of the best of vacations. This is the deduction of Miss Inez Hobart, extension nutritionist of Minnesota state college of agriculture. In the case of children out of school for the summer, this is particularly true, she reports.

Late sleep in the morning means late breakfast, no appetite at noon, lunches in the afternoon and a fussy attitude for the evening meal, according to Miss Hobarts' diagnosis. She places no blame on the child or the food but rather on the irregularity.

BLUSH BEFITS A NECTARINE



Not from pride but from praise does the nectarine get its ruddy blush, if one takes the word of Miss Mary Sutton, 2509 West 64th street. The best season for the nectarine is at hand, according to South Water market dealers. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Cold Watermelon! It Takes Your Mind Off Hot Weather

BY FLORA MARTIN.

With the weather man turning the hot weather faucet on every few days and sometimes forgetting to turn it off for a spell of 48 hours or more, most housewives and cooks are frantically searching for "warm weather" dishes to take their families' minds off the heat. Now that the cantaloupe, honey dew melon and watermelon season is at its height, it would be well to pay court to those fruits. They are all excellent subjects for 90 degree and over meals.

A breakfast or two a week with either cantaloupe or honey dew melon halves served cold should not be missed. As for watermelon, there is no need to go into the description of the yells of delight that a generous icy slice of the refreshing meat of that melon will bring when it occupies the dessert position one, two and even three times in a row.

Those are the simplest ways of serving melons, but the ingenious cook need not stop there. For instance, she might follow in the footsteps of my hostess at a Fourth of July weekend in Iowa, who started one of her dinners with appetizers of watermelon and cantaloupe, meat, shaped into balls with one of those special kitchen utensils. They were served on grape leaves [washed clean, of course], which she had "borrowed" from a neighbor's yard, and attractive rose colored dishes.

Another Suggestion.

THE TRIBUNE cooking department recommends a cocktail of all three melons, honey dew, cantaloupe and water melon. Make balls out of all three and let them stand in a thin sugar sirup for half an hour, then drop into chilled cocktail glasses and add to each a tablespoon of sweetened grape juice. There's another suggestion for a large buffet supper which should be particularly good for a children's party. That's to cut the watermelon in the shape of a basket with a handle. Wash the outside of the melon and scoop the meat all out in ball shapes. Then fill the watermelon basket with the balls and perhaps some made of cantaloupe and let the guests help themselves.

Pickled Watermelon Rind.

Honey dew melon halves served with red raspberries in the hollow centers or halves of cantaloupes, filled with fresh pineapple, will make good dessert fare. Of course, there is cantaloupe a la mode, too, but that needs no recommendation.

And if you are feeling particularly ambitious on one of the few temperate days during the watermelon season, you might follow these directions and pickle some watermelon rind:

Cut up watermelon rind into strips and remove all the green rind and pink pulp. Then cut into cubes and soak in weak brine overnight, allowing ½ cup salt to a gallon of water. To each 7 pounds of fruit use 4 pounds of granulated sugar, 1 pint of vinegar, 1 pint of water, several sticks of cinnamon, a bit of ginger root or lemon rind or both if desired. Place the sugar, water, and spices together in a kettle and add the melon thoroughly drained of the brine.

Simmer until rind is just tender. Remove from fire and let stand several hours in the sirup. Skim out watermelon and place in clean sterile jars. Put sirup over the fire again and add the vinegar. Boil rapidly to a thick sirup and pour over the melon. Seal in glass jars.

Peach Crop Approaches Peak of Marketing Season

The peach crop comes closer to reaching the height of marketing for the 1932 season. Shipments into Chicago at present are largely from Texas, Arkansas, and Georgia.

A BALDHEADED PEACH TO SOME IS A NECTARINE

It Has Skin and Part of Plum Flavor.

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

If you've never eaten a "baldheaded" peach, then maybe you have tried a nectarine, which is the same thing. Athough the fruit as such has been known and produced to some degree for more than 2,000 years, many Chicagoans are unacquainted with this combination of plum and peach.

From the plum the nectarine inherited its comparatively thin skin and part of the flavor, while the peach added flavor, texture of the flesh around the stone and texture and shape of the stone itself. Within the next two weeks the season will pass for most of the nectarine shipments into Chicago, so delicate and perishable is the commodity.

Grow in Hilly Regions.

From 35 to 50 cents a dozen is considered a fair retail price based on wholesale and distribution costs. Nearly all of the present supply is of the clingstone Quette variety, grown largely in the mountainous regions of California. A little later will come the Stanwick and Victoria nectarines, both freestone and with possibly less color and flavor.

Although cultivation of the trees has been of long standing, commercial popularity in the United States is but two or three years of age. Groves started first were directed at producing fruit for drying, but recently consumers have evinced greater interest in the fresh fruit.

Its Skin Is Mottled.

The size ranges between that of a large plum and a medium sized peach. The color of the mottled skin is yellow and red, streaked as if painted by some orchard sprite who took delight in seeing a ruddy blush cover this fruit devised by man and Dame Nature.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Meat loaf bakes quickly in individual muffin or patty tins.

Sage, mint, and thyme in pots or in a window box make an attractive and thrifty kitchen window garden.

To keep preserves from burning, place the preserving kettle over a large pie tin covered one-fourth inch deep with salt.

IT'S GREAT TO SEE THEM EAT!

IT GIVES you a real thrill, doesn't it, to see your youngster enjoying his food? To watch him dip lustily into the cereal bowl and cram his little mouth full? For it's a cheery sign that he's well—and that he's doing his part toward building strength and growth and health.

So tomorrow, set the stage and give your son or daughter a bowl of Kellogg's Rice Krispies and milk. Makes no difference whether it's breakfast, lunch or supper—watch him eat!

Rice Krispies fascinate children. Delicious, toasted rice bubbles that actually crackle in milk or cream. One of the best cereals for young folks ever made.

Rice Krispies are such good, nourishing food. So easy to digest they don't overtax. So much better than many heavy dishes—particularly at supper. For Rice Krispies invite restful sleep. Splendid to serve with the after-school glass of milk.

You'd be interested to see the care with which Kellogg's Rice Krispies are made. No hands ever touch this cereal. Gleaming machinery. Spotless ovens. Sunlit kitchens. And Rice Krispies are sealed in a WAXTITE bag which is placed inside the red-and-green package and keeps every kernel oven-fresh. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Quality guaranteed.

TURTLE CHOICE SOUP ON MANY VACATION MENUS

Favorite Old Fashioned Recipe Given Today.

BY MARY MEADE.

This morning I'm thinking in terms of turtle soup.

The inspiration arrived recently in the form of a letter from Mr. J. B. who has a real turtle problem.

"I'm wondering," says Mr. B., "if you could print a few recipes on how to clean and cook turtles and how to make a genuine turtle soup—not mock turtle or any imitation?"

We could—and will. For while a real bubbling hot turtle soup is not a frequent visitor in most homes, there are times and places—especially this summer when we are cooling off in odd corners of the country—where turtles will be available, either already prepared by professional turtle mongers, or in quite their natural state, tempting us to spirit them into "beautiful soups of the evening."

Cleaning Not Difficult.

While to the uninitiated, the armored appearance of a turtle is a little nonplusing, once the knack is learned, the job of cleaning and dressing him is no more of a trick than that of preparing a chicken for service.

Though the snapper is the great soup turtle, soft shells and terrapins also may be used successfully. Or the meat of any of these three is delicious served in various other dishes quite apart from soup.

To kill a turtle, get it to stretch out its head. With a snapper this may be done simply by presenting it with a stick, which it will immediately seize, allowing its neck to be stretched out. Other turtles will put out their heads at the pressure of the foot on the top of the shell. Once the heads are out, the turtles may easily be decapitated and ready for cleaning.

Now slide a sharp knife around the outer edge of the turtle where the skin joins the shell and draw down the skin over the legs to the feet. Disjoint the feet and discard with the skin. Separate the lower shell from the upper by cutting through the bridges which connect the lower and upper plates. In some varieties, a sharp knife will be sufficient. In others it will be necessary to use a hatchet or a saw.

Entrails Easily Removed.

Next pry off the lower shell by slipping a sharp knife under it and exerting pressure. At this point the entrails may be easily removed and discarded. Cut out the four quarters from the top shell and wash clean. If desired, the tender strip of meat lying in the top of the shell may be reached by cracking the ribs with a hatchet and lifting it out.

There are various ways by which turtle soup may be made. One delicious old time recipe follows, though many changes may be made in the seasoning to suit individual tastes.

TURTLE SOUP.

- Meat of one turtle
- Salt and pepper
- 1-3 cup flour
- 1 quart soup stock
- Soup bone or veal joint
- 2 tbsps. minced parsley
- 2 slices minced bacon
- 2 tbsps. finely chopped onions
- 1 bay leaf
- Dash of thyme
- 2 tbsps lemon juice

Cut the raw turtle meat from the bones and turn into a heavy iron kettle. Brown in a little fat, season with salt and pepper, and dredge with the flour. Pour over this the soup stock, add the soup bone and bacon and simmer, covered, about one hour. Add the bay leaf, parsley, thyme, and onions and cook ten minutes. Just before serving stir in the lemon juice. Serve with toasted bread.

Another turtle favorite is simply patterned after an old time vegetable stew, with cut up turtle meat taking the place of the usual beef. Your choice of vegetables, of course. Or for more of the turtle flavor omit the vegetables, making a clear turtle meat stock and just before serving beating in an egg—either raw or a finely sieved hard cooked one. Noodles may be served successfully with turtle soup, or cooked rice may be added in small quantities.

TAKING JARS OUT OF JELLY MAKING A FRUITFUL TRICK

BY JEAN GUTHRIE.

We long for shimmering, quivering jellies to add zest to roasts and glorify hot biscuits and puddings in December, but how we rebel at the thought of boiling ourselves over a hot stove along with the jelly these sweltering dog days.

But give cheer! The newest wrinkle in jelly making turns thumbs down on the old house heating and cook broiling methods. The slogan now is, "Jelly as you need it." No more battalions of jelly glasses to store for the fruit season. No more fizzy bubbles and overflows next spring among the jelly surplus which wasn't eaten.

The efficient lady of the house now extracts fruit juice when the fruit is in season, cans it, and then bides her time for some nice cool days to jell it.

Juice canning is only half of the new wrinkle. It's running mate is a new way of extracting the juices—by pressure cooking. That same cooker which you use for canning nonacid vegetables will extract juices from berries, grapes, apples or you-name-it.

To extract the juice in the pressure cooker, pick over, wash, and prepare the fruit as you would for any jelly. Place it in the inset pans of the cooker, adding the usual amount of water for the fruit used. Place one cup of water in the bottom of the cooker, stack the pans on the rack, and adjust the cover, screwing it down carefully. Now place the cooker over a flame and let steam escape for seven minutes before closing the petcock.

Cook grapes, berries, and other soft fruits for exactly ten minutes at five pounds pressure. Firm fruits, such as apples, crabapples, and quinces require ten pounds pressure for ten minutes.

At the end of the cooking time, turn off the heat and let the pressure die of its own accord without opening the petcock. This is important. When the pressure gauge registers zero, slowly open the petcock and remove the cover after all the steam has escaped.

Turn the fruit into a heavy canton flannel jelly bag and strain out the juice. Don't squeeze—unless you prefer more jelly at the expense of clearness. The juice now goes into clean glass jars and is processed in the pressure cooker for the same period of time as one would use in canning that same fruit. Label and date the jars and store in a dry place until the arrival of a cool day and an urge for jellying. Then make up—adding sugar and boiling down with the usual procedure and proportions.

Now IVORY SOAP Prices are Lowest in 17 Years

Yes—it has been a national sensation—and Ivory Soap sales are beating all records.

Your neighbors have read the news in their daily papers. They have seen the new prices on grocery-store displays. They are buying Ivory by the dozen cakes.

Day after day, the unending stream of gleaming white Ivory cakes is flowing into millions of American homes from coast to coast. Homes that used to use three or four cakes a month are now using six or eight or a dozen.

"Why?" we've asked grocers.

"Because my customers find Ivory so economical at these new prices that they can use it for all soap purposes."

"Yes," say the women themselves, "that's right. We used to use Ivory only for toilet purposes and fine laundry. But now we can save our hands and all our family clothes and our nice painted surfaces by using Ivory wherever we need soap at all."

Now you can make Ivory your only soap, too. It's the same pure, mild Ivory you've always known—but today it costs almost as little as ordinary laundry soaps.

COSMIC RAYS GET STRONGER AT HIGH LEVELS: COMPTON

Studies in Peru Confirm Piccard's Report.

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, July 28.—Cosmic rays increase in intensity with the altitude, contrary to measurements of Robert Millikan, but confirming those of Prof. Auguste Piccard, according to Prof. Arthur Holly Compton of the University of Chicago, who has spent a fortnight in the Peruvian Andes mountains. The rays are slightly more intense in daytime than at night and are electrical in character rather than being similar to light, he said.

PROF. A. H. COMPTON.

The Nobel physics prize winner of 1927, Mrs. Compton, and their 11 year old son, Arthur, sailed today on the Santa Clara for Havana, whence they will proceed to Mexico and northern Canada to continue the study. They left Chicago May 18 and observations already have been made in Hawaii, New Zealand and Panama.

Take Readings at 19,000 Feet.

Prof. Compton's fortnight in Peru produced a rich harvest of cosmic ray observations at altitudes varying from sea level to over 19,000 feet on the summit of the volcanic El Misti, near Arequipa. The first week here he spent traversing the central Andes by the private Central railway, making a systematic series of readings to an elevation of over 15,000 feet.

Last week Prof. Compton, in company with Paul Ledig, head of the Carnegie magnetic observatory near Huancayo, flew from Lima to Arequipa, then, ascending El Misti, made a series of readings for seven hours at the highest land elevation Compton has used.

Prof. Compton, in a statement regarding his observations among the Andes in central and southern Peru, said:

"Both series of measurements agreed, showing increasingly rapid increase in intensity with the altitude. This is contrary to some of the balloon measurements made eight years ago by Prof. Robert Millikan, but confirms the results obtained by Prof. Auguste Piccarde on his recent balloon flight into the stratosphere.

"These measurements support the theory that cosmic rays are electrical in character. Prof. Millikan's balloon experiments have been considered to give strong evidence favoring the alternative view that cosmic rays are not electrical, but similar to light.

Stronger in Daytime.

The series of measurements made in the central Andes, extending over a week, showed that the cosmic rays were slightly more intense during the daytime than the night. This has long been a disputed point. The present work confirms the observations in the Rockies last September. The difference between day and night density is very small at sea level, but becomes increasingly prevalent at high altitudes.

"The Peruvian measurements also confirmed the Hawaiian measurements showing the cosmic ray intensity to be less near the magnetic equator than near the magnetic poles."

HE THREATENS SUICIDE TO GET INSURANCE LOAN

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—An anonymous policy holder, threatening suicide, has placed the officers of the Travelers Insurance company of Hartford, Conn., in suspense by demanding a loan of one-third of the face value of his policy to tide him through his present emergency. If they do not grant the loan which he asks without security, he warns them as a business proposition that they will have to pay the full benefit, which may amount to $200,000.

GRAND JURY REPROVES BOTH SIDES FOR RAID AT ALEXANDRIA BAY

Malone, N. Y., July 28.—(AP)—The grand jury considering the disorders growing out of prohibition raids at Alexandria Bay today reported to Federal Judge Frederick H. Bryant that they had returned no indictments and "forcibly condemned the action on the part of certain citizens of Alexandria Bay for their flagrant interference with federal prohibition officers in the execution of their duty."

The report indicated an end to a charge of reckless driving brought against Bourke Borneman of Syracuse, one of the prohibition agents concerned in the trouble.

While condemning citizens of Alexandria Bay for their "interference," the grand jury had a word of caution for the agents concerned. Their report said:

"We also find that while the officers were operating on entirely legal grounds there was some evidence that certain members of the raiding party were overzealous in the execution of their duty and do therefore caution them against unjustified destruction of private property in the further execution of their duties."

Jos. C. Lincoln Writes a New Cape Cod Tale

"Head Tide" Is a "Good, Man-Sized Story."

BY FANNY BUTCHER

"Head Tide," by Joseph C. Lincoln. [Appleton.] Published today.

CAPE COD is practically the private fictional preserve of Joseph C. Lincoln. Not that other authors have not "poached" or did not have squatter rights before Mr. Lincoln staked out his claim. But Joseph C. Lincoln's name has become synonymous with Cape Cod. He has never written about anything else, so far as I know. He started his literary life writing verses in Cape Cod dialect to help sell sketches which he drew. And he knew that dialect because he was born on Cape Cod and spent his childhood there, and has gone back practically every summer of his life to his native dunes and salt air.

JOSEPH C. LINCOLN.

"Head Tide" is, like the thirty-one volumes which have preceded it in the twenty-eight years since his first novel, "Cap'n Eri," was published [1904], about a Cape Cod community, and it is, like most of the later novels, the story of the conflict between an "import" and the natives.

The imported character in "Head Tide" is the nephew of the owner and editor of the local paper of Wellmouth Four Corners, a young man whom the elderly native had never known but to whom he left his "fortune," consisting of the small local paper, the Wellmouth Eagle, a small job printing business in connection with the paper, and a few stocks and bonds. The paper was a country weekly, and by 1870—the period of the novel—the Wellmouth Eagle had been controlled for the lifetime of its former editor by a small group of influential Wellmouthians, with the owner of the paper a mere yes-man to them.

When the young nephew out of the west [Cleveland and Chicago, and a figure of wonder because he actually had ridden in a "sleeper"] arrived in Wellmouth the "group" which had always controlled his uncle offered to buy the paper and the printing business. Something about their eagerness to own the paper, as well as the fact that he hadn't any job and running a country newspaper looked as good as anything to him, combined with the presence in the town of a very pretty and alluring girl, caused Franklin Cobb to decide to settle down in his uncle's home town and try his hand at the great business of being a newspaper owner.

He was a stubborn young men as well as one with something of the hard, uncompromising righteousness of his New England ancestors in his blood. When the question of feathering his own nest by going against his principles faced him, he stuck out for the principles and let the down fall where it would.

One thing that one can always count on in Mr. Lincoln's novels is that the down will always fall on the right spots and happiness will eventually fall on the just. Everything always comes out for the best in the best of all possible worlds in Mr. Lincoln's yarns. Not mawkishly. Just naturally.

"Head Tide" is a good, man sized story of a good man sized job faced with courage. By this time readers are not so completely bedazzled by the quaintness of Mr. Lincoln's characters as they were at first, for they have become accustomed after thirty-one volumes to the local dialect which drove the readers of "Cap'n Eri" into spasms of glee. But the fundamental qualities of the native Cape Codders still delight the author's ever increasing circle of admiring readers.

Also published today is "Boyhood and Youth," by Hans Carossa [Brewer, Warren & Putnam], the continuance of the story of the boy in "A Childhood," which won for Herr Carossa plaudits not only in his native land [Germany] but in the countries in which it appeared in translation. "Boyhood and Youth" records the adolescent awakening of that boy during the nine years he spent at a Catholic school in the historic and picturesque town of Landschut. The awakening of a youth to poetry, sex, love, temptation, responsibility, religion is described sympathetically by a keen observer and an artist. The translation from the German is made by Agnes Neill Scott.

Also published today is J. B. Priestley's "Faraway," which is the first novel by the author of "The Good Companions" since "Angel Pavement," published in 1930. It will be reviewed by this person tomorrow for the regular Saturday Book Page.

New Ideas in 'Sheers' Seem Without End

Pale Gray and Ice Green Vie with Black and White.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Every one seems to be shopping for new "Sheers" for these last heated hours of the season, and evidently they do not shop vainly, for each day a few noticeably different models appear. Just when you think you have seen them all, that the designers simply can't have any more inspirations, two or three knockout affairs are unpacked and fairly scream for applause and appreciative buyers!

Nobody argues with you when you insist that black and white combinations, or possibly pale gray and ice green are the coolest colors for street and daytime wear. A model made of diagonally criss-crossed chiffon is as cool and airy as only black and white stripes can make it, and a deep cross-over vest effect of sparkling white chiffon tied with a bow is the only contrast.

A black chiffon voile is charming with rows and rows of narrow old fashioned flutings around the edge of the ankle flaring skirt. The bodice is very simple with short sleeves also edged with double flutings. The short bolero jacket has the fluted trimmings around the sleeves and neckline. This particular ensemble is designed for late afternoon and evening wear!

Another black and white outfit is of printed chiffon which looks like hand blocked linen; the tiny, precise pattern is spattered over the dull black background, while tucked sheer chiffon is used for bow and neckline as well as cuffs of the long sleeved hip length jacket.

You can be as chilled as well crisped, cool green lettuce in a printed georgette two piece suit of white patterned ice green color. White organdy is used lavishly for trimmings. A wide white patent leather belt adds smartness by the inches to this costume.

Next to nothing at all is a ravishing dance dress of filmy black net. The skirt is circular and made of yards and yards of this utterly feminine material. Rows of contrasting stitchings accentuate the slender waist and hipline, and the deep oval yoke is as rounded in front as it curves in back. The most interesting short coat of the season is part of this ensemble; a brief but beguiling bolero with wide, short sleeves that are almost long slits, outlined with perky wide double fluted ruffles of black net. Wear this and watch the male contingent flutter with interest.

You have been seeing a lot of cool eyelet organdy on most of the well dressed shoppers that know cool and comfortable things when they find them, frocks of this airy stuff in every imaginable color and color combination, but until you have seen this wide open material in printed black on white eyelet, you haven't realized just how cool, and clean, and crisp, black and white can be.

Triangle shaped cap sleeves are bound with narrow black edging to match the outline of the V neckline and the skirt is rather long and flares around the ankle. All of these sensonable and incomparably cool frocks and costumes are priced low enough to assure painless invasions of your budgets.

Hindu Bearing Gem Is Trailing James Simpson

Chicagoan Reveals An Experience in India.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

CHICAGO'S new utility magnate, James Simpson, knows that there is a Hindu on his trail. He met the dark skinned native not so many months ago in India and ever since he's been quite certain that the man will cross his path again some day—in Chicago, perhaps, or even while he's hunting pheasants and grouse in the Scottish moors.

Mr. Simpson told the story on himself shortly before he left town this week for Scotland. Since then it has been making the rounds of the polite world.

The Hindu in question, the tale goes, accosted Mr. Simpson one day while he was traveling in India and showed him an oriental ruby of rare beauty. Immediately Mr. Simpson admired the gem and was asked to purchase it. The price was stated. Mr. Simpson declined. The matter was closed, at least as far as he was concerned.

It wasn't closed, however, for the Hindu. Weeks later he intercepted Mr. Simpson again in a town some distance hence, just as he was entering his car to go to the station. The Hindu opened the conversation, offering fruits and spices for the approaching journey.

"But," insisted Mr. Simpson, "what is it that you really want?" Whereupon the newly acquired friend produced the ruby Mr. Simpson had seen some weeks before. In true native fashion he tried to sell it, but to no avail.

At last, without a semblance of dismay, he insisted: "Offer me what you will. If I accept the gem is yours; if not, I will leave you immediately."

A moment's thought and Mr. Simpson granted the request, stating an amount, it is told, that was a sixth of that offered by an Englishman the year before. Immediately the Hindu vanished, repeating, however, as he went: "Some day Mrs. Simpson will have the jewel."

This is the reason, it goes without saying, that Mr. Simpson expects to see the Hindu gentleman again some time, somewhere. They are that way, many of the natives of India—persistent, fearless, determined to accomplish what they set out to do.

As for the gem, it is without doubt all that the Hindu claims, for in the far off mines of upper Burma, a province of British India, there are found the finest and costliest of all rubies, the much coveted "pigeon blood." India, in fact, is uncommonly rich in jewels, sending to the noted lapidaries of Europe for cutting and polishing precious consignments of amethysts, sapphires, garnets, and bloodstones. It plays an important rôle in the British empire's reputation as "the jewel box of the world."

Almost from the dawn of history, through the middle ages, and as late as the seventeenth century, men of all stations—prince and peasant, scholar and fool—have believed in the talismanic and therapeutic virtues of precious stones.

The ruby, costliest among them, when found in its purest form, has always been prized as the symbol of affection, power, and majesty. Ask any Hindu and he will tell you that the jewel is reputed to attract and retain material love, to remove obstacles, give victory, and reveal the hiding place of stolen treasure. But only, he will add, when it is a true stone that has never changed its color, and only, too, when it is worn on the left hand. Otherwise, he will warn, misfortune is in store!

Ice Fund Gifts Insufficient to Protect Babies

Need Persists Despite Cooler Weather.

A mother who formerly was a typist, and another, the mother of two infants under 14 months old, sought the aid of THE TRIBUNE free ice fund yesterday. Their letters of appeal were among many reaching the fund requesting ice so that their babies' milk might not sour during the hot weather.

"I am a typist and formerly earned a little money by doing typing at home, but now I cannot get any work to do," wrote the first mother. "My husband is sick and it will take some time before he will be able to work. The baby's milk gets sour during the hot weather, although I keep the milk in a pan of cool water. I thank you very much for any consideration you may show me."

And from the second mother: "I am a young mother with two small babies, one 13 months old and the other two months old. They are bottle babies, so there is a great need of keeping their milk sweet. My husband has not been working for a year. Numerous times the milk has soured and my babies have had to go without milk because I knew sour milk would make them sick. I would be very much obliged to you if you could send ice to me."

Unfortunately, readers, such appeals as these must go unheeded because there is not enough money in the ice fund to provide ice to all who ask. Little more than $1,400 has been received this season. Last year $7,000 was spent on ice for the most destitute families. The need is even greater this year. However deserving may be those who seek help from the ice fund little can be done for them unless friends rally in short order to boost the fund.

Yesterday the gifts fell again, to all appearances because the high temperatures moderated. The need for ice, however, remained as urgent.

Acknowledgement of gifts to the ice fund are as follows:

$2.50—Mrs. Bertha A. Colbrunn, Walter E. Lang.
$2—Irene Misura, From a Friend [E. S.], Mrs. M. S.
$1—C. P., Gerda Bloomquist.
Total—$23.
Previously acknowledged.....$1,410.50
Grand total.....$1,433.50

You may send your gifts to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower. Those seeking ice should bear in mind that THE TRIBUNE does not make the selection of families who are to receive ice. The fund is administered by the United Charities.

Women War on Sneeze Weed; Ask Aid of 1,500 Jobless Men

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The committee of the Chicago Woman's club that pledged two years ago to "make Chicago ragweed free by 1933," glanced at the calendar yesterday and hastily organized a campaign to eradicate the chief irritant of hay fever before the season of sneezes blows in with August.

At the close of a conference of medical men and representatives of the city departments of health and public works, held at the club, Mrs. A. S Park, chairman of the committee on the prevention of hay fever, signed a petition requesting the work relief committee of the Illinois Relief commission to provide 1,500 men to help pull weeds.

"We petition the work relief committee to allocate sufficient funds for the employment of 1,500 men daily for a period of twelve days beginning Aug. 8," the petition said. "We want the men for the purpose of pulling ragweed in vacant lots, parkways, and other open spaces."

Although the coöperation of suburbs in the campaign had been asked by the committee, only a few of the suburban health officers invited to the conference responded. A communication from Evanston said that city will have a ragweed pulling, probably using unemployed men.

Dr. Bernard Fantus of the University of Illinois pointed out that the success of a Chicago campaign will depend largely upon the support of the suburban communities where ragweed thrives, the pollen blowing into the city on high winds.

"By Aug. 10 we will discern an average pollen count of 40 per cubic yard of air," explained Dr. Siegfried Maurer of the University of Chicago. "By the 15th a goodly number of hay fever sufferers will be sneezing, and by the 20th all the sufferers will be hit. By then the count will be 60 to 100 per cubic yard. At the height of the season the maximum count in the loop will be 300 per cubic yard, while at the Chicago airport it will be around 1,800."

On certain days on a sailboat 70 miles out in Lake Michigan, Dr. Maurer added, enough pollen to make hay fever sufferers uncomfortable will be found when the wind is in the southwest. Tests made two years ago by the city health department revealed the presence of pollen 4,000 feet above the city.

"Close to 2 per cent of the population of Greater Chicago, or about 100,000 persons, is susceptible to hay fever and are sufferers in varying degrees," Dr. Maurer said.

The ragweed campaign, which the clubwomen hope will make the city ragweed free by the time the Century of Progress exposition comes to town, will also embrace the coöperation of the railroads, the health department to which ragweed infested areas may be reported, suburban civic organizations such as garden clubs, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, and others.

Among others attending the conference who will aid in the ragweed cutting campaign were William Gallegan, superintendent of the bureau of streets; William C. Loague, superintendent of the Goodwill Industries, who will direct the activities of the ragweed campaign; A. C. Wilson, chief seed analyst of the department of agriculture, and Joseph Connelley and Dr. Fred O. Tonney representing Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the city board of health.

G. Magnus Schutz' Enunciation Makes His Singing Delightful

G. Magnus Schutz is a veteran singer who has never permitted his art of singing to grow old. Appearing in the Punch and Judy theater yesterday morning in the summer artist series of the Chicago Musical college he presented a program that became a notable example of how to project songs.

His voice was warm, firm, and colored with expert skill, and his enunciation, whether of German or English texts, was a delight to the ear. He is exceptionally able in lieder as exemplified by a group of Schumann, Schubert, and Mendelssohn.

Later he paid a tribute to the late Max Heinrich by singing his "Who Knows," a graceful, persuasive work unheard by at least one member of the audience since the days when Mr. Heinrich himself used to sing it. The remainder of Mr. Schutz's program consisted of works by English speaking composers in which he made the most of his gift of making English words sound clear and beautiful.

Here's a new and quite entertaining treatment of the gangster-reporter theme.

It's the tale of one Molly Louvain, left at the age of seven to bring herself up by a mother who admonished her to be a lady, and forthwith skipped town with a handsome tenor.

At the opening of the picture Molly is deeply in love with a young man of wealth and position. When the young man's mama hears about it there's a sudden trip to Europe and Molly is left to console herself with a stocking salesman who buys cigarets at her counter in the local hotel. She finds solace for several years during which Nick, the salesman, supports her and the child of her first love.

When they arrive in Chicago and Nick's rackets change from silk stockings to purse snatchings and the sound of sirens makes Molly nervous, she decides she's had enough. She finds a home for the child and looks for work—a search that ends in a dance hall. There she encounters Jimmy, a former bellhop in the home town hotel, who has always adored her. Through Nick they become involved in a police killing. Nick is captured and spills thing other than blood. Molly goes blonde and into seclusion with young Jimmy.

And here enters Lee Tracy as the newspaper reporter who supplies the momentum necessary to carry the film through many unusual twists to the finish. He's one smart actor and has a rather difficult part to play in that of a movie version reporter—flip, know-it-all, and slightly disreputable.

I liked Miss Dvorak as Molly better than ever before. The cast includes a number of excellent workmen — Frank McHugh, Guy Kibee, Richard Cromwell, and Leslie Fenton predominating.

Direction, photography, and dialogue are all adequate.

The piece was written by Maurine Watkins, a former TRIBUNE reporter, who has done much successful work since her arrival in Hollywood, "Up the River" being one fine example.

126 Degrees to Be Awarded Wednesday at De Paul Exercises

De Paul university will mark the close of its 22d summer session next Wednesday, when degrees will be conferred upon 126 graduates of the university's liberal arts, law, and music colleges at exercises in the De Paul auditorium, Webster and Sheffield avenues. The Very Rev. Dr. Francis V. Corcoran, C. M., president of De Paul, will award the diplomas. A commencement address will be delivered by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, D. D.

The exercises will bring to completion one of the most successful summer sessions in the history of De Paul. More than 1,700 students—the majority of them teachers in Chicago's public and parochial schools—have been enrolled in the classes.

Society Finds Simple Picnic a Lot of Fun

Trend to Informality Has Its Compensations.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Chicago colonies at Harbor Point and Charlevoix, two of the northern Michigan resorts that are popular with Chicago society, are augmented each week-end by the men of the families who are able to join their wives and children almost every Friday when they are as near home as northern Michigan.

The summer colonists at these two fashionable resorts are finding life much the same from the standpoint of gayety as those who are staying at home are finding it, namely, more simple and informal than it has been for years but more fun, too.

The most simple and inexpensive sorts of entertaining are smart and the more informal the party the more it is enjoyed, apparently. Picnics are far more popular than dinner or even supper parties, and some of our most notable hostesses are finding that a picnic supper on the screened porch or the lawn is the ideal way to entertain one's friends in warm weather.

First Afternoon Bridge of Season at Charlevoix.

To get back to northern Michigan, a letter from Charlevoix yesterday brought news of the first afternoon bridge party of the season, given Wednesday by Mrs. Solomon A. Smith at her cottage on the Chicago club grounds. After the games tea was served in the spacious pine sheltered gardens of the cottage.

Mrs. Smith's guests were Mrs. Oscar W. Johnson, Mrs. Albert Keep, Mrs. Joseph H. King, Mrs. Charles I. Pierce, Mrs. Francis S. Rickcords and her sister, Miss Peggy Hambleton, Mrs. Frederick H. Scott, Mrs. Robert Stuart, Mrs. Eugene S. Talbot, Mrs. A. Harris Whiting, Mrs. John P. Wilson, Miss Cynthia Wilson, Miss Edith Cluett, Miss Barbara Douglas, and Miss Jane Macdonald.

Miss Cluett, who lives in Williamstown, Mass., and Gilbert H. Osgood of Kenilworth are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Keep at their cottage on the club grounds. The Keeps are living in Sheffield, Mass., in the winters, but she is a daughter of the Frederick H. Scotts, and he is Mrs. John P. Wilson's son, so both of them lived in Chicago before they were married and have spent their summers at Charlevoix for years.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter went up to Charlevoix this week to occupy the Edward D. Shumway cottage on the club grounds for the rest of the season. Mr. and Mrs. William B. McIlvaine Jr. are among those who recently arrived at the clubhouse for a visit.

Little Harbor Club Is Harbor Point Social Center.

Up at Harbor Point much of the social activity centers around the Little Harbor club, and one of the recent affairs there that was a great success was a clambake. Robert M. Curtise is just back from a long week-end visit with his wife and tiny daughter, Diane, and Mrs. Curtis' son, Teddy Russell, who are spending the summer with Mrs. Curtis' father, Edward P. Russell, at his cottage on the point. Also at the Russell cottage this season are Mrs. Russell Christie and Miss Virginia Parker. E. Cummings Parker and Vernon Shaw-Kennedy accompanied Mr. Curtis to Harbor Point, the trio making the trip by motor.

Among other well known Chicagoans who are occupying their cottages on the Harbor Point club grounds at Harbor Springs are Mrs. George A. Ranney and Dorothy, Cornelia, and George Jr.; Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes and Nelson Jr.; Frederick H. Haskell; Mrs. James B. Forgan; Mrs. Le Roy A. Kramer and her family; Mrs. Frank E. Pierce; Mrs. Robert W. Hyman and Miss Jean Hyman; Miss Marion Smith; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Herndon Smith and Miss Helen Smith; Mrs. Frank M. Gordon and the Misses Isabel and Marion Gordon; Mrs. William G. Smith and her daughter, Miss Charlotte Robertson; Mrs. O'Neill Ryan Jr.; Mrs. James R. Offield and her daughter and son, Miss Betty Offield and Wrigley Offield; Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler and Miss Winifred Wheeler and Robert Jr.; Mrs. Armour Morris and her children and Mrs. Chester F. Erickson and her daughter, Jean, and Mrs. William Waller Jr. and her four children.

James R. Offield Plans Sailboat Cruise with Son.

As I said before, most of the men of the family go up about every second week-end and tonight one of those who will leave Chicago for Harbor Point is Mr. Offield, who is planning to take Wrigley for a cruise on their sailboat while Mrs. Offield and Miss Offield take a motor trip east. They expect to return to the city early next week and to start off soon after that on their trip. Jarvis Hunt Jr. is a guest at the Offield cottage just now and probably will come back to town

Olympic Team Girls Guests at Studio Dinner

Will Rogers Declines Texan's Challenge.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., July 28.—[Special.]—Girl athletes in the Olympic games were guests at a mid-day dinner at the Fox studio yesterday, and the frauleins of the German team fussed Charlie Farrell greatly, but amused everybody else, by picking Charlie up intact, and carrying him on their shoulders to a corner of the room where a fair javelin thrower sat Charlie in a chair while the others held him there until he had autographed something for every one of them.

One hundred and seventeen were in the guest group. When John Boles sang "Sylvia" and "Blue Heaven" for them, a chaperone for the English squad said she felt like going out and burning her ticket back home.

Will Rogers shook hands personally with every girl. When he came to Babe Didrikson, the American team's amazon from Texas, Miss Didrikson said she would like to challenge Will to any kind of sport, "golf, tennis, horseback riding, hockey, or wrestling."

"Not me," said Will, "I've heard about you, and you're too tough, I'll take some one easy."

Babe shook hands with Frank Craven, the veteran actor, and ruined Frank's golf game by crushing the fingers on his right hand.

Jackie Cooper became a first cousin yesterday and it was all inside the movie profession, when a 6½ pound daughter was born to Mrs. Norman Taurog, the former Julia Leonard of vaudeville and screen. Mrs. Taurog is sister of Mrs. Mabel Cooper, Jackie's mother. Taurog is the director of a number of film hits, several of them films in which Jackie and other child actors appeared.

Phillips Holmes, whose bad luck it was to miss out on the part opposite Constance Bennett in "What Price Hollywood," when he suffered a knee injury, is now assigned for another effort with the gilt headed actress. In "Rockabye." Paul Lukas and Laura Hope Crews also are assigned for it and George Fitzmaurice puts it into direction at once.

H. B. Warner, with a score of 45, was single star of the cricket match between India's Field Hockey club, here for the Olympic games hockey test, and the Hollywood Cricket club, which the Hindus won, 94 to 37.

Norman Foster has received a letter from a friend in Indiana requesting him to come home and run for congress as a Democrat.

Mrs. Marion Baldestone, wife of John Balderstone, is acting as technical adviser on the English treatment for Radio RKO's "Bill of Divorcement."

One of the important questions that came up for settlement was: "How does one eat an egg in England?"

Will Rogers is host to the American Olympic games equestrian team during the period preliminary to and during the games. Rogers even has the Olympic team horses as his guests. Both animals and men are quartered at Rogers' vast ranch on a mesa overlooking the Pacific. When Grantland Rice, sports writer, came to Los Angeles to report the games, Rogers invited Rice to visit his ranch and make himself at home. Rice accepted gladly, for the Rogers ranch really is one of the showplaces in the district radiating from Hollywood. Three days later Rice had still been unable to get a message through to his wouldbe host, by phone, telegraph or by note. That's how hard it is to establish contact with a movie star when the star seeks isolation. In Rogers' case, right after he had invited Rice he was assigned to go through some important movie duties, and nobody at the Rogers' establishment is authorized to put inquirers in touch with the boss, even if the inquirer should be an old friend, and an invited guest.

Paris Adds Long Sleeve, High Neck to Evening Frock

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — "Let's not dress tonight" vogue in smart society is getting to be serious. More and more fashionable women go around in the evening wearing simple frocks or ensembles with hats. The day and evening outfit is a style that is here to stay for awhile, and the Paris dressmakers are encouraging it by continually coming out with new frocks which have this spirit. They may well be called Don't Dress fashions.

However, the don't dress evening outfit doesn't mean that the ladies do not pretty themselves for evening just as they did when they wore formal evening clothes every night. Change of clothes continues. The clothes look less like real evening clothes, that's all. Frocks with long sleeves and high necklines are quite as much evening dresses as those that had scarcely any bodice and trailing skirts.

The Schiaparelli frock sketched today is one of the smartest of these dresses, which are so much worn in Paris. It has a skirt of dark mahogany red crêpe, and a bodice of pale pink crêpe, one of the prettiest color schemes you can imagine. The skirt occupies about four-fifths of the territory allotted to the entire dress, rising in a point above the bust in front. It is one of those flowing skirts that fit to the hipline, and at the waistline is a design of diamonds and circles done in tucks. The blouse has long, fitted sleeves, and is draped up and tied at the neckline in front.

Walther League's 40th International Conference Closes

Los Angeles, Cal., July 28.—[Special.]—The fortieth international conference of Walther league closed here today with the league's yearly oratorical contest.

Winners were Miss Thelma Kruschke of Berkeley, Cal., with an oration titled "The Greatest Moment in My Life," referring to her baptism, and Miss Florence Jarmush of Cleveland, O., with an address on "The Spiritual Depression." Elmer Bruns of Havana, Ill., won third prize. His address was "The Prince of Peace," and Miss Florence Gast of Winona, Minn., was fourth with "My Brother's Keeper."

In the league's annual short story contest, first prize was won by Miss Thelle Groh for her story on "Silver Linings," which she wrote while a patient in the Lutheran sanitarium at Wheatbridge, Colo. The second, third, fourth and fifth prizes were awarded respectively to Ray T. Klein of Springfield, Ill.; Dorothy Burmeister of St. Louis, Mo.; Edith J. Backus of Laporte, Ind., and Edith Wenzel of Clinton, Ia. Next year's convention will be held in Chicago.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., July 28.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover had as her guests at luncheon today at the presidential camp on the Rapidan the wives of members of the "little cabinet," formed of the assistant secretaries, postmasters general and attorneys general. The ladies were taken to the camp in White House cars and will remain over night there. The wives of the "little cabinet" have entertained Mrs. Hoover during the seasons since she became first lady, and previous to that she was a member of the organization.

Senator and Mrs. James E. Watson of Indiana will start early tomorrow morning by motor for Wisconsin, where they will spend the greater part of the month of August. They will then go to their home in Rushville, Ind., to remain until December and the opening of congress.

Col. Edward Clifford of Washington and Chicago, and his younger son, Robert, left today for New York to sail tomorrow on the Westerland for England. They will join Mrs. Clifford and Miss Helen Clifford, who went abroad a month ago, and will tour England, the colonel hoping to enjoy some golf in that country.

I Like You So Much

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Gold Franklyn calls Dr. Elverton, who has a surgery in a poor district of London, to attend her indolent, dependent, young half brother. The doctor offers to give Barney Pierce, a well to do accident victim, a lift to his destination, and Pierce waits while the doctor makes his call. He catches a glimpse of the pretty creature who summoned the doctor. Both men determine to help the plucky young orphan girl. The doctor is to sail the next week to New York and Havana on a leave, taking the ship doctor's place. Mrs. Doria Hathaway, a widow friend of Pierce's, is to sail on the same boat. She wants a maid-companion for the Atlantic crossing. The doctor sends Gold to see Mrs. Hathaway and she gets the job. Pierce regrets putting Gold under the demoralising influence of Doria. He decides to sail himself. On the boat Doria meets David Dorrance, who wants to interest Pierce in a business deal. Doria asks Gold to dine with her. They are joined by Pierce and Dorrance. Gold is angered by Pierce's cynicism and distrust of women. Gip Alen, Gold's half brother, stows away on the boat and threatens to disclose his identity unless Gold does as he bids. Pierce, who overhears Gip's threats, unknown to Gold, arranges to get him third class passage on condition he doesn't bother Gold. Dorrance offers Gold a position as his secretary on the Havana trip, which she gladly accepts. Doria invites a good looking youth from steerage to dine with her and give an exhibition tango. The youth is Gip Alen.

INSTALLMENT XXIX.

A CONFIDENCE LONGED FOR.

Doria made a great exit, the silver gown covering up the beating of her heart, the melting of her heart; as her downcast eyelashes covered her wet eyes.

She went to the smokeroom where Dorrance was auctioneering the numbers; he made a persuasive and witty auctioneer and bidding was high. "I have three hundred pounds!" Doria reckoned, "above my Havana steamer passage and hotel expenses. Besides, I might win." She bid with a gayety that made men look at her and admire and wonder. All the time she felt on the backs of her hands, on her jeweled fingers, Elverton's lips.

It was his fault that she bid so high. His fault! She had to show him, if he came in—and he soon stood listening in the doorway—that not one of his words had reached her heart.

With the rather dramatic disappearance of Doria Hathaway and her partner Barney Pierce had turned back to the girl he had left. His arrangements for the near future of Gip Alen were finished; clear cut. The young man—all formalities through, and they would be assisted by the personal intervention of the captain and the doctor—would be off the docks at New York and on his way to a new mode of life before the dilatorinesses of Doria

"I want to know why you should suddenly cry like that out there."

Hathaway released her traveling companion to look for him. If she suffered on his account she must be reassured; comforted. But there was in Pierce's mind, at the moment when Doria and Gip were hastened off to an interview with the captain, a resolution as strong as any that he had ever made, to lift this burden for good and all from Gold Franklyn's shoulders. He was at once at his hardest as he turned back to rejoin her, and, curiously, at his softest—that soft side of him which he thought had calloused years ago. The night was again warm; it was divine. He would keep her dancing; walking out here in this magic that was again magic as he knew it in the days of extreme youth. If he could get her talking; if she would show him her heart—a heart that he could believe in—then he might dare to tell her: "I have done this for you."

"Dare." He would not dare, out of his manifold skepticisms, to let any woman again see into his soul unless her soul showed him its credentials, too. He knew clearly and forcibly that he had come to believe that a rich man can only enter very perilously into a heaven of woman's making. False heavens! False heavens!

Yet again, as years ago, he wanted to risk all?

Then he saw that the girl was crying terribly. She kept silent through the sheer will power she exercised over her trembling body, but it was terrible crying; heartbroken. He reached her and when his arm went around her was stirred by the way that slender body was racked by its noiseless sobbing.

"My dear!" he said, and checked himself at the same moment, as, realizing his arm, she drew herself clear from it.

It was as if she would have liked to turn and go from him, only that, for the moment, she had not the necessary control of herself. He knew it and thought again: "It is war. But I suppose I made it."

For he knew that many women all over the world had thought his mind and heart and soul at war with them; and many women were right.

Only, not all.

"I've made this war somehow," he said to himself. And a little grimly he put his two hands over the girl's hands and drew them from her face. He did not realize the roughness of his own gesture until he felt her involuntary flinching.

"I am sorry."

He looked into her face, white and wet under the lights set along the deck awning; but at the same moment, with a burst of talk and laughter, other promenaders came out from an exit forward of where they stood.

Again Gold flinched, but this time it was not because of himself. She was proud, this girl; she had her battle to fight with life and wanted only to be met with her armor on. He said swiftly: "I know. You can't stay here. Come in. This way."

She was for the moment obedient because blind with tears. He had her in through the nearest entrance, not oblivious himself of the fact that it gave onto the gateway where he had his corner suite. It was a few steps only to his door, and there was not even a steward visible. She hurried into hiding without knowing where she went. Pierce shut the door. For a moment he stood looking at her, and drove his teeth into his lip. Then he put a clean linen handkerchief from his pocket into her hand and turned away.

He walked the length of the commodious room and came slowly back.

"Sit down, Miss Franklyn," he said abruptly.

She had already dried her eyes. He stood and admired her—how humbly she would never have guessed, had she known of the admiration. But she did not know. She knew only the dilemma of Gip—the more than dilemma; the tragedy, the recklessness and the ruin. He was as he had always been, high handed, silly, impetuous, and cruel. And she—it had come to her with the clarity of a lightning flash—was inextricably bound up in his fortunes and misfortunes. If he were unlucky, stranded, helpless, she would never desert him. His repudiation of her a few minutes ago meant nothing but one of his usual torrents of temper and self-assurance.

She couldn't let him sink or swim. Alone, he would sink. The struggle together would have to continue.

She looked now at the room in which she found herself. The "drawing room" of Barney Pierce's suite, of course? These rich men! Her heart suddenly cried to her softly that he had been kind. Her reason said no. He had not wanted to be seen out with a hysterical girl on the deck. He did want—had wanted before—to patronize her. He liked power; it was his driving force, this will to power. He wanted to dragoon all humbler, little people. He was certainly a man she could never trust with the secret of Gip. Hard, ruthless would be his sledgehammer judgments.

Then a thing happened in spite of herself. The passion of grief and anxiety that only the young can know swamped her; beat her down. She was collapsed in the big chair, crying again in an agony of tears. She felt without resistance that some one knelt by her, took her in powerful arms. She fought herself and heard Pierce say in a wonderful voice: "Why do you struggle so?" She continued to fight herself, and, conquering herself, began weakly to fight him. In a moment the arms withdrew. She felt a scare of loneliness and braced up to it. When she looked for him again he was standing on the opposite side of the room.

She saw her own face, white as snow, in a mirror opposite.

"I want to know something," he said; but he saw that she guarded her secrets jealously.

"I want to know why you should suddenly cry like that out there."

"I've had a lot of worries," she said, striving to keep her voice cold and steady. "They're over now."

"How can they be over? Have they solved themselves while you have been in this room?"

She nodded again.

She looked down at the handkerchief she was holding. It was his. She put it aside on a low table, saying: "Thank you." She felt quiet now. The "worries" had indeed resolved themselves in her renewed determination to stand by Gip. He would need her—and badly. Dorrance's offer—she had taken it. Maybe she could still hold to it if Gip cleared the immigration difficulties; and she would send her salary to him until he found his feet as that doctor had said he must find them.

No doubt men were right about men, but—in need, Gip must have her purse.

Mutual Greeting.

"Dear Miss Blake: When a girl meets a fellow who should say 'Hello' first? CURLY."

The old rule was that the girl spoke first, but nowadays simultaneous greeting is more popular.

His actions show he likes you, which should be sincerity enough."

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Buck have leased the junior James M. Hopkins' house in Lake Forest and moved in last Saturday. Their young son, Charles, bent on investigating his new surroundings, went touring on his bicycle on Sunday, got lost on the winding roads, and caused his parents a great deal of worry and grief until they finally located him near Fort Sheridan.

Texas Polo Team to Play at Fort Sheridan Sunday.

An all-professional 18 goal team of Texas players is coming up to play against the Fort Sheridan team on Sunday afternoon at the fort. The Texans will be led by Carl Crawford, an international six goal man, and will be mounted on horses from the polo ranch of James Morton of Eden, Tex.

France Decrees New Restrictions on U. S. Talking Picture Films

PARIS, July 28.—(AP)—A decree made public tonight bars from France so called "dubbed talking films" unless the process of post synchronization into the French language is done in French territory. American film interests described the decree as a serious blow to the American film industry in France.

The decree also limits the English version of films to showings in five movie houses in the department of the Seine [Paris] and to five in the rest of France.

Under the decree there will be no restrictions on silent films, news reels and "shorts" of less than 900 meters length. The decree does not touch original French version films made in other countries.

The American interests claim this works a benefit for German producers, since they can transport French actors to Berlin within 24 hours.

The decree will be carefully studied when its text is made public tomorrow and protests are expected. The advance summary gave no indication of the contents.

The dubbing process referred to apparently is that process of stripping t American language from talkie films and substituting for it another language so that they would be intelligible in another country.

100 Are Guests at Century of Progress Party

Amusement Devices Thrill Boys and Girls.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

The Century of Progress Exposition on the lake front formed the setting for my party yesterday afternoon at which one hundred boys and girls were my guests. And it probably was one of the most impressive parties we've ever had.

Long, open, gaily decorated Greyhound buses took us to the scene of our frolic and that lovely ride down Leif Ericson drive was an excellent beginning for the marvelous afternoon that was in store for us. There were the imposing structures on either side of the road, the beginning of what will be the 1933 World's Fair. To the east of us stretched that broad expanse of Lake Michigan, which was bluer than we've ever seen it before, and in the harbor lay Admiral Byrd's ship, the City of New York, the one in which he made his daring expedition to the south pole.

Our first stop was the amusement park where rides, thrilling, exciting and new, awaited us. We bounced over the steel hills and valleys of the Bozo, whizzed through the air on the Cyclone, thought we'd lose our teeth on the Lindy Loop, and grew fairly hysterical on the Hey Dey. Then we wound our way through the mysterious darkness of the Funnies and decided that after so much excitement it might be a good idea to look in on the more serious side of the exposition.

There was a most interesting trip through Fort Dearborn, where we heard all about the Kinzies and the Whistlers and other early settlers who founded Chicago. We heard about their hardships and the constant danger that beset them because of the savage tribes of Indians who were ever on the alert to attack the white men.

There was an equally interesting journey through the group of Lincoln buildings—five of them in all—directly associated with the life of the martyred president. There the log cabin in which he was born stands beside his boyhood home in Indiana. And there's the store where he began his business career and the Wigwam, early Chicago convention hall, where he was nominated for the presidency in 1860.

The Florida Alligator farm was the next stop. Here is a replica of the Everglades. Palm trees swayed in the afternoon breeze, tropical plants and shrubbery cast their shade on the large arena which has been built within the walls of this spot on the fair grounds. Here we saw alligators of every age and size, ferocious, untamed reptiles whose huge jaws and lashing tails warn one of the danger of going too close. There was one there who didn't fear them, however. He dove into the tank where two of these huge beasts make their home, wrestled with one of them, actually subdued him and then put the reptile to sleep.

After this thrilling exhibition there was archery instruction by Maj. Phil James, world's champion, and we just had time for refreshments when the Greyhound buses made their appearance again and we knew it was time to go home. Of course, we were weary, for one just can't crowd so many things into one afternoon and not feel it, but we didn't mind it a bit for it had been a thrilling party and a glorious day.

Children Under No Obligation to Their Parents

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"There's one thing my wife has always impressed upon me," said a man of prominence in the business world in the course of a conversation we were having about children, "ever since our son was born. And that is the fact that he is under no obligation to us for anything we do for him.

"We hope to have two or three more children later and my wife says that they will always give us infinitely more pleasure and happiness than we can ever give them."

It is true, isn't it? If more parents felt so, it would make a change in their relationship with their children "Children are a comfort—good children," said an old nurse to me the other day, as she watched one she had tended for years.

Babies, children, can be a "song in the heart." Mothers, many mothers, feel this when their babies are new. Then often, later, the feeling fades. They could prevent this happening if they would stop sometimes and sense what their children mean to them in interest, in love, in keeping young—if they'd stop more often and think about how much they, themselves, got of conscious happiness from having children.

If parents got this slant we wouldn't have injured parents throwing the words "sacrifice" and "obligation" into their young people's faces, if such words as "after all I've done for you" rouse rebellion and resentment it's to be expected, though it never is by the parents who make the mistake. If those reproaches cause children to be chained or bowed down by a heavy sense of obligation, the parents don't mind that, either, but psychologically it is worse.

"I have no patience," said the man I quoted, "with those people who are always talking about how much they've done for their children, or with the mother whose son goes away to college and who complains that he doesn't write to her often enough after all she's done for him and the sacrifices she's made for him."

Even though I am only quoting today, I can already see the objecting, even violent letters being posted by the next mail. So let me answer them by saying that such a statement doesn't mean that a child owes a parent nothing. It only means that a child owes a parent nothing just because he is a parent. Of course, as a person, living in a family with other persons he loves and respects, he must learn what fine human relationships consist of. But not under compulsion.

A boy or girl must gradually learn these things for his own soul's good, if for nothing more. For no one can live happily or well who lives a selfish, or ruthless life.

Start Care of Skin Early and Avoid Troubles

Antoinette Offers an Acne Lotion.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Today I shall answer a few questions on skin because the answers cover a number of inquiries.

"Mae" asks about large pores, pits, and scars caused by acne. The reason acne should be taken in hand at the very first sign of development is to avoid the pits and scars and enlarging of the pores, which frequently accompanies the disorder or remains after it is cleared up. Again, I urge parents of young girls to watch for signs of acne. Consider blackhead formations as bearing the fruit of later acne trouble. They do not always develop into acne. But pimples develop from blackheads and if the face is kept thoroughly scrubbed with soap and water the danger is fairly well eliminated from blackhead formation.

True, acne is not always of this origin. Its treatment may involve both internal and external attention. The external treatment calls for the frequent cleansing with soap and water, followed by an acne lotion. If you want an excellent formula I have one given me by one of the best skin specialists in the country. Recently I gave it to the mother of a 15 year old and she reports an improvement after a couple of weeks' application.

Better send the required stamped addressed envelope for the acne lotion formula because in the pamphlet are instructions as to its use; also other valuable information in connection with acne treatment.

"My skin peels after a facial. And how can I prevent freckles? Is a skin peel recommended for removing stubborn freckles?—LITA."

Sensitive skins sometimes peel slightly after massage. There's always a certain amount of peeling going on as a natural course. Gentler massage probably is needed.

There are all kinds of good lotions today to protect the skin from the actinic rays that cause the freckling. A scientific skin peeling will remove freckles, but don't ask me to recommend any one for the peeling job. In peeling operations there is danger of infection unless done under the most scientific care.

Scheming Mama Blocks Course of Love Affair

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I'm going out with a young woman whose mother thinks I'm not good enough for her," George relates in his letter.

George enumerates his faults, bashfully admits certain qualities that would set him up in this judge's opinion as an all around, decent sort. But mother thinks he is not good enough for her girl, chiefly because he can't support her in the style mamma sets for the supporting! The girl is willing to take George on, poor but ambitious! Mamma wants to see the cash first.

The girl is an only child, 23, and mamma is widowed by law and hasn't anybody else to dominate. It looks like a bad session for George if he takes on the girl—and mama!

Mamma, it seems, thinks her girl a raving beauty. George, though in love, thinks the girl good looking—but not quite a Ziegfeld choice. And mamma has a price on that beauty! A cash price. Not character. Not any of the sterling qualities that make for happiness and see a marriage through.

It's plain that it's mamma's own nest that wants the feathering! When mothers hold out for the big money you can be sure they're hanging around waiting for their share of the loot! If George eventually wrests the girl out from under mamma's greedy fingers we'd suggest he put a long, long trail between his domicile and mamma's.

But about this business of parents thinking their girls too good for the men who come courting. True, it sometimes happens that parents are right. That men aren't good enough for their daughters. They're not good enough for any marriage. In which event parental suasion is urged. But there are many parents of girls with ordinary talent and charm who inflate the latter's stock away beyond its matrimonial market value. And they can't get "buyers," if I may use the market term.

There aren't enough rich men going around. But there are plenty of makings of tomorrow's big men in those youths who come begging for a chance.

SWANSON WARS ON ROAD TRAPS FOR MOTORISTS

Will Call Police Chiefs Into Conference.

State's Attorney Swanson last night announced that he would in the near future call together the newly formed regional police organization, which is composed of the police chiefs of nearly every town and village in the county, to take up motorists' complaints of numerous illegal arrests.

"The harassing of motorists by the small towns within this county has to be stopped," said the prosecutor. "I will call the police chiefs together and instruct them regarding the handling of motor traffic. If the complaints then continue to come in I will call for a grand jury inquiry of every town and village in this county."

Donigan to Head Inquiry.

Assistant State's Attorney Robert Donigan, who is familiar with conditions throughout the county as a result of his previous experience in prosecuting cases before village justices of the peace, will be placed in charge of the inquiry.

It was pointed out by the prosecutor's office that the police of some of the small villages which touch on the edge of main state highways, some of them four lane traffic arteries, attempt to enforce 25 mile per hour speed regulations. The assistant prosecutor said that where four lane traffic arteries exist and there is practically no pedestrian traffic, it is unjust to arrest motorists who are not driving recklessly.

Use Many "Stop" Signs.

Another practice of the small villages, according to the recent complaints, is for the village police to put up unnecessary stop signs on the main traffic lanes and then to arrest motorists who fail to see them.

Attorney Joseph H. Braun of the Chicago Motor club, who has assisted the state's attorney in previous speed trap investigations, said that his organization, which is now conducting a campaign against speed traps, would be glad to coöperate in the state's attorney's investigation.

GIDEONS SUE TO ENJOIN MICHIGAN VOTE ON DRY LAW

Lansing, Mich., July 28.—[Special.]—A long anticipated move by Michigan dry forces to block submission to the voters at the fall election of a proposal to repeal the state prohibition amendment materialized today when a writ of mandamus was asked of the state supreme court to prevent placing the issue on the ballot.

Verner W. Main, Battle Creek attorney and former state representative, filed the petition in behalf of O. C. Atkins of Battle Creek, president of the Christian Commercial Travelers' association, better known as the Gideons, dispensers of hotel Bibles.

The petition asks that the court restrain Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state, from certifying as eligible to a place on the ballot a proposed constitutional amendment embodied in petitions initiated by several anti-prohibition organizations and signed by more than 300,000 Michigan residents.

The Gideons contend that the proposed amendment is in conflict with the eighteenth amendment to the federal constitution and hence cannot be legally submitted to a vote. The petition asserts that the proposed liquor control commission "would be nothing less than a band of federal outlaws."

"Surely you will not permit," Secretary of State Fitzgerald was urged in the letter accompanying the petition, "the machinery and personnel of your office to promote such an affront to our federal government. If approved at the election, this proposed amendment can only declare to the world that Michigan has disavowed partnership in the sisterhood of states."

GRAIN TRADER SHOOTS HIMSELF; EXPECTED TO DIE

Otto Heine, 42 years old, 940 North Austin boulevard, an operator on the Open Board of Trade, shot himself twice in the head last evening in the basement of the Open Board of Trade building at 334 Sherman street. One bullet pierced his skull and another shattered his jaw, but he was conscious when Sergts. Guy Willoughby and Roy Kindt reached him. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where physicians said he probably would die.

"There was no domestic trouble; bad business made me do it," Heine gasped to the police. In his pocket was a note addressed to "My beloved family," in which Heine related his financial troubles.

Heine's wife, his two daughters, and his son went to St. Luke's hospital when informed of the attempted suicide.

Heine was formerly conected with a firm of grain traders, but lost his position there and had been trying to operate alone.

WARDS OFF BLOW

MAURICE T. WEINSHENK.

A near fist fight between two attorneys yesterday featured the meeting of the north shore park district, at which Thomas F. Myers Jr. made an unsuccessful effort to be seated as a member of the board. Attorney Louis B. David, representing Myers, was arrested by Rogers Park police on a charge of assault and battery after he had struck a blow at Maurice T. Weinshenk, board attorney.

The trouble started when David presented an order issued by Judge Craig Hood, which found legal the election of Myers as a board member and ordered that he be seated. Myers was elected in April, 1931. Other board members have refused to seat him because one precinct, legally a part of the district, was not included in the election. Ballots were not issued through an oversight.

"We'll put this on file," Weinshenk said when the order was handed him.

"Why, you ignorant ape," David burst out. He left the building with Myers when Weinshenk did not reply. Later, when Weinshenk left the meeting, David approached and launched the punch which landed him in jail. The board announced that the order of Judge Hood will be examined by a disinterested lawyer and considered at the next board meeting on Aug. 10. David will be arraigned today in the Town Hall court. He was released on his own recognizance.

NAMES BROTHER AS MURDERER IN SPEAKEASY DEAL

Lawrence Albertson, alias Canfield, owner of a speakeasy at 916 Oakwood boulevard, wanted by the police in connection with the murder of George Sanders, 55 years old, 538 North Dearborn street, surrendered last night at the state's attorney's office. Albertson at first denied any part in the murder, but finally confessed that his brother, Morris, an ex-convict, was the actual slayer and that he had driven the car in which Sanders was taken to a point on the Illinois-Michigan canal near Channahon, Will county, shot to death, and later thrown in the water. The murder occurred a week ago.

Clare Lyngen, 26 years old, has confessed that he was the third man in the death car. Morris Albertson has fled to Canada, his brother told Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan.

Sanders was slain for $206 he carried in his pockets, according to the confessions. He contracted to buy Lawrence Albertson's speakeasy and paid $250, disclosing that he still had $206 left.

PARK POLICEMAN IS ARRAIGNED ON CHARGE OF GIRL

Lincoln Park Policeman William Gruber, father of ten children, was arraigned yesterday in the Felony court on a charge of rape brought by Miss Evelyn Nolter, 14 years old, 2823 Warsaw avenue. Fellow policemen testified as to the good character of the policeman, while a social service worker reported unfavorably on the character of the complaining witness.

Miss Nolter was described as "having a bad reputation" by Susan M. Hough, the social service worker assigned to the case. Judge John Sbarbaro continued the case until Aug. 8 to consider the evidence.

ST. LOUIS VIEWS HEARD ON U. S. AS BUSINESS RIVAL

St. Louis, Mo., July 28.—[Special.]—The special committee of congress which is inquiring into governmental competition and interference with private business opened its two day hearing in St. Louis at the chamber of commerce today. The inquiry has been in session in Kansas City for some days.

At the hearing today Jacob M. Lashly of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce told the committee that the most important thing to determine is "whether the government is running the people or the people running the government."

The first witness was Col. A. T. Perkins, president of the Peoples Motorbus company, presented as a typical railroad stockholder and taxpayer.

Four Injurious Conditions.

"I appeal to you," Col. Perkins said, "to study certain governmental conditions, unsound economically, which are going far towards confiscating great property investments, impairing public efficiency, putting thousands of trained workers out of employment, and drying up the source of much governmental tax revenue. These conditions are:

"1. Failure of the Interstate commerce commission to carry out the transportation act.

"2. The providing by the federal government, at enormous cost, of free waterways on which government barge lines are operated.

"3. The construction by national and state governments, at enormous costs, of an extensive series of hard highways, over which great fleets of trucks and buses operate as common carriers.

"Railroad offices do not oppose and do not fear competition on any open basis. They do not need to. The public, lulled by excessive good roads and waterway propaganda, is slow to appreciate that it is paying dearly in increasing taxes for all these government aided projects."

T. M. Scott, president of Cornell Seed company, told the committee that his industry "is seriously feeling the unscrupulous competition made possible through loans obtained from the government through the farm board."

Written statements were presented to the committee from the Norwine Coffee company, the William J. Kennedy Stationery company, the Edward K. Love Realty company, and the Producers Live Stock Commission association.

One Farm Board Defender.

The livestock association group, however, defended the coöperative marketing of farm products by the government. J. R. Fulkerson, president of the association, said "the federal farm board is not competing with private firms or individuals in business." The federal marketing act, he said, gives the livestock and grain producer, a chance to place the selling of his product in the hands of experienced salesmen.

'SPOONER' FINED FOR BEATING GIRL IN PARKED AUTO

Miss Phyllis Pfeifer, 25 years old, 3791 Argyle street, testified yesterday in the Town Hall court that Edward Murphy, 25 years old, 1650 Juneway terrace, beat her and broke her arm when she resisted his advances as they sat in his parked automobile on the north shore. Murphy, an insurance salesman, was fined $100 by Judge Frank M. Padden on a charge of assault.

"I've learned that Murphy makes $35 a week and spends it on other women while his wife works to keep up their apartment," Miss Pfeifer told the court. She admitted knowing that he was married when she went riding with him, but said that she had understood he was to be divorced.

"I'd like to fine you $1,000 for letting your wife work while you chase other women," Judge Padden told Murphy in passing sentence.

GERMANS LEAVE FOR OLYMPICS; HAPPY WITH TIE

Chicagoland Squad Disbands.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The amateur boxing champions of Germany, who divided the International series of eight bouts with the Chicagoland Golden Gloves team at Soldiers' field Wednesday night, are on their way to compete in the Olympic boxing at Los Angeles. The entire team, in charge of Coach Leonhard Mandlar, left Chicago at 11:45 last night over the Santa Fe.

Wednesday night after the fights the German boys broke training. They dined at the Germania club and then saw a bit of Chicago's night life, winding up near daybreak at the Ambassador hotel. Yesterday morning, or rather at noon, the boys again were in circulation. Some loafed away their last hours in the city at the Germania club. Others visited the loop. Coach Mandlar paid a call to the sports department in Tribune Tower.

Result Pleases Germans.

The German boys were well pleased with the result of the bouts. While they had believed they would win, at least by five matches to three, none expressed disappointment. More important, all felt that they had been accorded splendid treatment by the judges and referees, particularly so since they had been apprehensive following Max Schmeling's defeat by Jack Sharkey in New York.

The fights also were approved by the public. The seating arrangements at Soldiers' field, laid out at a cost of more than $20,000, gave all the spectators a splendid view of the ring. The patrons in the 55 cent sections were surprised to find how close they were to the ring, while none of the crowd in the temporary structure could complain that their view was cut off.

The moving picture companies were accommodated on platforms farther back from ringside than at the French bouts a year ago when they were stationed on wooden stands at ringside, obstructing the view of many.

Show Is Financial Success.

Financially the show also was a success, exceeding the predictions of TRIBUNE officials. Forty-five thousand saw the bouts. This established a world's record for amateur boxing, surpassing the previous mark of 40,000 set at the French International fights. The gross receipts were $60,000.

The Chicagoland boxers, with the exception of Georgie Goodman, bantamweight, and Leo Rodak, featherweight, came through the bouts without injury. Duffy Dvonch, the sailor heavyweight, who was stopped in the second round of his match with Heinrich Kohlhaas, was full of pep yesterday, regretting only that he could not have a return bout with the German.

Goodman has a deep cut over his eye which will keep him out of the ring for three weeks. He reported for work, however, yesterday morning. Rodak is favoring a badly bruised arm, but otherwise was in condition.

Depart for Homes.

LEONARD SHOWS OLD SKILL; BEATS BILLY TOWNSEND

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, scored the most impressive victory of his comeback campaign when he outpointed Billy Townsend, welterweight from Vancouver, B. C., in ten rounds at the Queensboro stadium tonight. Leonard gave evidences of the same boxing skill that carried him to the front among the lightweights and he outgeneraled his younger rival throughout.

A crowd of 8,000 saw the contest in which Townsend was the aggressor.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

The sincere appreciation of the sport department of THE TRIBUNE is most emphatically due to its friends who assisted in the promotion of the International Golden Gloves match between the United States and Germany at Soldiers' field Wednesday night.

Their reward is the knowledge that they had a part in the staging of the greatest amateur boxing show the sport has known. It was the greatest in point of attendance, greatest in caliber of competition, greatest in receipts, greatest in sportsmanship.

To the judges and referees whose unbiased decisions satisfied the most exacting goes our heartfelt thanks. It was in their power to make or break the show. They had been instructed to see that there was no doubt about decisions awarded American fighters. They didn't fail. Not one verdict caused the spectators to cry aloud or make menacing motions.

Their work may best be summarized in the following telegram received yesterday from Frederich Burger, president of the German Amateur Boxing association, who left for Los Angeles immediately after the bouts:

"Please transmit to Gen. John V. Clinnin and the officials of the Illinois athletic commission my heartiest thanks for their absolutely fair and correct decisions. I also want to thank you and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE again for the wonderful treatment they have given the German team."

The smoothness with which the show was conducted was another demonstration of the efficiency of THE TRIBUNE Officials' association, the organization that works behind the scenes at all of this newspaper's promotional events. They have been carrying on with the same competency for 16 years.

Congratulations to Andy Frain and his corps of ushers for the orderly and courteous way they handled the huge throng, and to Capt. Tim Howard and his south parks policemen for maintaining perfect order inside and outside the stadium.

The Germania club, which extended its facilities to the German team; the German club, the Turner organizations, the singing societies, and the German consulate have our deep appreciation. Their hospitality helped to make the Germans' visit in Chicago a memory they will cherish always.

THE TRIBUNE is not forgetting the support the boxing fans of Chicago have given the Golden Gloves contests. Without their patronage events the magnitude of International Golden Gloves would be impossible.

The sportsmanship of the crowd deserves special comment. While it obviously was pulling for the Americans, it was quick to respond to the fine work of the boys who were fighting 4,000 miles from home. Officials of the German team and the boxers themselves agreed they could not have received better treatment had the bouts been held in Berlin.

Congratulations, indeed, to the bravest of the brave—Chicagoland's Golden Gloves standard bearers. Their showing exceeded expectations. Let's give a hand to the greatest amateur the tournament has produced—Johnny Phagan, who finished Erich Campe's hope of an international title in a minute and 32 seconds. And to Henry Rothier, Tony Sutton, and Adolph Wiater, whose victories enabled Chicago to break even with their skillful opponents.

Don't forget that Leo Rodak sacrificed a chance to compete in the Olympic games to fight with the Chicago team. Had his match with Josef Schleinkofer been fought in Berlin he might have been awarded the decision. It was that close. To all the other participants goes our appreciation for their hard work.

And to the German team—it is our hope that our next international opponents will be as brilliant fighters and as thorough sportsmen.

French Defend NetCupToday; Shields Is Out

PARIS, July 28.—(AP)—France begins its defense of the Davis cup against the United States tomorrow in Stade Roland Garros with the outcome more uncertain than in any of the previous six meetings between the two countries for the historic tennis trophy.

An intriguing draw reserved the meeting between the old master of tennis and the new—Henri Cochet and Ellsworth Vines—for the final match of the series, but success or defeat for the United States seems to rest squarely on the slender shoulders of Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex.

Not even considered for the United States team until George Lott withdrew, Allison tonight held the center of the stage as he prepared to attempt an iron-man stunt and play both singles and doubles against the French.

He was selected as a singles player at the last minute when it became apparent that Frank X. Shields was not in proper condition to play. He will meet Cochet in the second singles encounter tomorrow. Then he will pair with John Van Ryn against Cochet and Jacques Brugnon in the doubles Saturday.

Jean Borotra, French veteran who was drafted for the team against his will, was drawn to oppose Vines in the first match.

Bernon S. Prentice, American team captain, in a pre-battle statement, said the American youngsters were in top form and if they lost there would be no excuses.

WOOD, MANGIN REACH FINAL OF SEABRIGHT MEET

Seabright, N. J., July 28.—(AP)—Sidney B. Wood Jr. of New York and Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., today fought their way into the final round of the 45th Seabright lawn tennis tournament.

Wood defeated Lester Stoeffen of Los Angeles, 5—7, 6—3, 6—2, 6—4, while Mangin turned back Manuel Alonso of New York, 7-9, 7-9, 9-7, 6-2, 7-5, in the semi-finals.

Helen Jacobs and Josephine Cruickshank of Santa Ana, Cal., made it an all-Pacific coast final in the women's play. Caroline Babcock of Los Angeles forced Miss Jacobs to three sets before losing, 3—6, 6—0, 6—3. Miss Cruickshank eliminated Virginia Hilleary of Philadelphia, 6—1, 4—6, 6—2.

OLYMPIC BAN ON NURMI STANDS; 2,000 WAIT MEET

Vice President Opens Games Tomorrow.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 28.—(AP)—The International Amateur Athletic federation today voted to bar Paavo Nurmi of Finland from the Olympic games. The federation rejected his entry after a hearing.

The action was taken by the commission of the I. A. A. F., which possesses sole authority to accept or reject entries to the track and field events of the Olympics. It so happens that the personnel of the commission is identical with the executive council of the organization which previously suspended Nurmi last April on charges of accepting money in excess of his expenses.

The decision was announced by J. S. Edstrom, chairman, as unanimous, indicating the United States representative, Avery Brundage, cast his vote in favor of the rejection of the entry.

Case Is Closed.

Edstrom said the case is now closed and will not be presented before the meeting of the I. A. A. F. congress here tomorrow.

The question of declaring Nurmi a professional did not enter into the action. The commission merely rejected his entry on what it considered "good and sufficient" grounds and closed the case.

Representatives of the Finnish A. A. A. were heard in a review of the case before the action was taken.

Germany today was awarded the winter Olympic games of 1936 by the international Olympic committee. The town where the international contests will be held was not decided upon. The 1936 Olympic was awarded to Berlin at the last meeting of the committee.

The question of what country would be awarded the 1940 games was not discussed. It is understood a dozen nations have applied for the honor, with Finland, Japan and Italy the leaders.

Curtis Arrives Today.

Vice President Charles Curtis will arrive tomorrow to become the central figure of international activities Saturday afternoon when he officially opens the games. A near capacity gathering is expected for the Olympic stadium, which seats 105,000. The program opens at 5:30 p. m. [Chicago time].

The grand parade of the nations begins at 5:55 p. m., with all the athletes of the Olympic games—nearly 2,000 or them—in the line of march. At 6:32 p. m. Vice President Curtis will officially open the games.

The cannon will sound the Olympic salute. The Olympic torch, which will burn during the entire games, will be lighted. The choir will sing the Olympic hymn and then the official Olympic flag will be raised to the top of the standard.

First Competition Sunday.

The dedication address and benediction will be delivered by Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul, president of the University of California, and ten minutes later the athletes of the world will take the Olympic oath, paving the way for the opening of athletic competition on the following day.

BAT BATTALINO PUNCHES OUT HINES IN THIRD

New York, July 28.—(AP)—Chris (Bat) Battalino of Hartford, Conn., former featherweight champion, knocked out Wildcat Willie Hines of Chicago in the third round of a scheduled ten round bout at Fort Hamilton tonight. Battalino weighed 138; Hines, 135. Hines was on the floor three times in the third round before Battalino finished him.

Law, 1929 Irish Captain, to Run for Congress

New York, July 28.—(AP)—John Law, who led the great Notre Dame football team of 1929 through an undefeated season, has decided on a political career and will run as the Democratic candidate for congress from the district embracing Yonkers, N. Y., this fall. He plans an active campaign.

Lyons Can't Win Alone; Sox Drop Another to Boston, 2-1

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Ted Lyons did the best that he could yesterday in an effort to collect his sixth victory of the year and at the same time lead his White Sox teammates to an overdue triumph, but the effort availed nothing. Ted was thrown down by the very fellows he aimed to help, so succumbed before the Red Sox, 2 to 1, in the third of the series. It was the eleventh trimming in the last twelve starts for the south siders and their fifth jolt in a row.

The most grievous offense against Lyons was committed by Charley English, the young man who recently was promoted from a class C to a major league job. English conducted himself much after the style of a phenom who had been plucked before ripening. He made one bad toss that Lyons was able to hurdle without disastrous results. But when he injected a handsome boot into the battle in the fifth inning it was just too much. The visiting tail enders, who are rapidly closing in on the seventh place Chicagoans, made use of the blunder to send the winning run across the plate.

Second Misplay Hurts.

English's error would have been of no consequence if the south siders had been robust enough to produce a few timely hits against the pitching of one Ed Durham, who declares a holiday whenever he accomplishes a win. In three different innings the White Sox tuned in with two hits, twice with one out and once with none out, but the latter chance was the only one that netted a run. In this particular young English also was found wanting. He was up twice with two mates waiting and nothing happened. He was up in front of Durham again in the ninth after Kress had doubled with one out and on this occasion fanned.

The game began with the Red Sox uncorking a couple of hits that were good for a run. Olson led off with a hit over short and dashed to third on Oliver's single to center. Johnson grounded to Blue, who tossed to second to force Oliver and then received the return throw at first in time to double Johnson. Olson scored on the play. The home athletes retrieved this run in the second on a single by Fothergill and Appling's double to left.

Winning Run Comes In.

After the opening inning Lyons did pretty well, despite English's error to start the third, but the south side stalwart couldn't overcome the rookie's next blunder which started the fifth. English kicked Pickering's grounder. Warstler punched one toward short but at that moment Appling was on his way over to cover second, so the ball bounced through the vacated spot for a single, Pickering taking third. He scored on Connolly's hit. Durham tried to work a squeeze play, but Lyons picked up the bunt and shot it to the plate to nail Warstler. The next two men caused no trouble.

The Chicago entry had a chance to make some headway in the fourth, but passed it up. Appling and Kress singled with one out. English and Grube couldn't get the ball out of the infield. Another possibility arose in the fifth when Lyons led off with a walk. A double play put a halt to this. The seventh was another discouraging incident. With one gone English singled to right and Grube did the same. Lyons then grounded into forceout and Funk bounced meekly to Alexander.

Hit a Homer, Lu!

Blue did the best he could to get a run across in the eighth, but his mates failed to collaborate. After Hayes had been set down, Blue lined a triple into right center. Fothergill bounced to Durham and Blue figured he could sneak home, but was trapped and finally run down between the bases. Meanwhile Fothergill was puffing energetically toward second, but he still had quite a distance to cover when Blue was nailed. This made it easy for Pickering to toss to Olson and double Round Robert.

What! Again?

LON SCORES 9TH IN ROW; YIELDS ONLY 6 SINGLES

Charley Grimm Hits Home Run.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., July 28.—Lon Warneke, Arkansas' great squirrel hunter and master of the .35 caliber rifle, was superb again today, this time beating the Boston Braves, 4 to 1, to hang up his ninth straight victory and his No. 16 win of the year. To end the contest by a comforting margin Lon drove in two runs with the bases full and two out in the ninth.

Up till the time Lon socked out that ninth inning single there had been only one earned run scored in the game and that was a homer with which Charley Grimm broke a 0 to 0 deadlock to start the fifth. Each side scored a marker in the sixth but each was predicated on an error.

Six Hits, No Walks.

Lon allowed only six hits, all singles, and walked none. The incident which prevented him from scoring a shut out was Jurges' boot of a grounder which was so soft that Bill high hatted it.

There never was a time that the boys in the bull pen got off the seats of their bloomers. In going the full route Lon made it 18 complete games in 20 starts, this to remind you that unlike other pitchers with outstanding records, Warneke hasn't picked up a single win in a relief rôle.

Warneke had no pushover foe in the pitching department today. Manager McKechnie was bent on breaking Lon's string and sent forth his ace, Huck Betts, who went into the clash with a record of 10 wins and four defeats. It was the second time this year Lon has taken Huck's measure, the other occasion being a 2 to 1 edge.

The victory made it nine out of 13 in favor of the Cubs in the season series, three out of four in the current series which ends tomorrow, and five out of six for the Cubs at Braves' field.

Lose Half Game to Pirates.

This all would be very encouraging if the Giants had not continued to play cousins to the Pirates. The Pirates gained half a game by winning twice, making their lead over the Cubs 5½ games.

The Cubs made two doubles and a single in the first four innings, but the trouble seemed to be that each was made after two were out. Cuyler doubled after Herman and English had popped out in the first, but Stephenson flied to Leach. Herman singled in the third after Jurges and Warneke had supplied infield outs, but was caught stealing; and in the fourth, after English and Cuyler had been retired, Stephenson doubled, only to die when J. Moore flied to Berger.

One on Base in Four Innings.

In the first four innings Warneke allowed only one Brave to get on base, the same being Urbanski, who straight armed a single over second in the first inning.

The fifth broke up the double line of goose eggs, for Capt. Charley stepped right up and slapped that homer into the right field stands. Hemsley and Jurges flied out to Maranville and Warneke flied to Worthington.

Each team scored an unearned run in the sixth. Maranville juggled Herman's grounder just long enough to enable Herman to race to first. Bill went to second on English's sacrifice, paused while Cuyler fanned for the second time, and then came home on Stephenson's single to right. J. Moore singled to center, Stevie going to third. Grimm fouled to Hargrave.

Rabbit Gets a Run.

In the Boston half of the sixth, Maranville singled to right with one down and stopped at second on Urbanski's single to left. Berger popped to Jurges and then Warneke cast a wild pitch, Maranville going to third and Urbanski to second. Jurges fumbled Leach's grounder, Maranville scoring and Urbanski taking third. Worthington ended the inning with a foul to Herman.

And here's the detail of Lon's batting act in the ninth: Stephenson drew the first pass off Betts to start the session. J. Moore bunted and Stevie was safe at second and Johnny safe on first when Betts threw to second too late to get Stevie. The runners moved up on Grimm's sacrifice, after which Hemsley was given an intentional pass to fill the bases. Betts thought he had waded out when he fanned Jurges, but Warneke cracked a line single to left, scoring Stephenson and J. Moore. Herman fouled to Hargrave to end the Cub offensive.

EPITHET DROPS RABBIT'S FOOT; PAIRBYPAIR WINS

Hertz Horse's Rival Shut Off in Backstretch.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Pairbypair, the speedy 3 year old which races for Mrs. John Hertz, proved again yesterday that he can hold his own with the fleetest horses when the distance is not greater than a mile.

He did it when he captured the North Shore handicap, worth $3,410, at Arlington Park. His margin at the finish was a neck over the flying Epithet, and it was his third victory in five attempts since the Arlington season opened.

Lady Luck Helps Him.

He ran the mile in 1:36 4-5, which is scorching time on any race track, yet despite the way he flew over the mile course he was lucky to win. For he enjoyed all the good luck of the race, while Epithet, which was crowding him so stoutly in the late stages, had all the bad luck.

Going down the back stretch with Pairbypair in front by a length, Jockey Allen tried to squeeze Epithet through on the inside ..ext to the rail. He was shut off and had to take up, then start a new drive around on the outside of the small field. For an instant he dropped Epithet back into last place.

Hands Off Epithet.

When he found racing room on the turn Epithet moved forward with great speed, and by the time the stretch run was under way he was within a half length of Pairbypair. Then he tried to go on past Pairbypair. But this son of Noah-Frizeur is gamer than most people have suspected. He wouldn't let Epithet overtake him. He kept his neck in front as long as it lasted and seemed to be gaining right near the end.

Masked Knight, the extreme outsider in the race, was 2½ lengths back of Epithet in third place, while Morsel, the favorite, weighted down with 118 pounds, which is too much for the little horse, wound up last, thoroughly whipped before the actual battle started in the stretch.

With most of those in the crowd of 12,000 racing to buy tickets on Morsel and Epithet, the Hertz colt was neglected in the wagering. He paid $13.30 to win, $5.92 to place and $2.98 to show. Epithet was at $3.82 to place and $2.46 to show. Masked Knight's show price was $3.50.

My Dandy Awarded Victory.

My Dandy took down the long end of the purse in the Exmoor, a dash at six furlongs.

It was the first time in many months the famous old one-eyed sprinter had raced to victory. He finished second this time, but was moved up into first place when Cathop, which had led him home by a length, was disqualified.

Jockey Wayne Wright, aboard Cathop, brought the half brother of old Mike Hall over against My Dandy in a stirring stretch battle, knocking My Dandy sharply back. The finish came so soon afterwards. My Dandy didn't have time to recover, and finished second, with Sundot third. As a result of the disqualification Sundot was given second money and Minton moved into third place.

The stewards held Jockey Wright, one of the sensational youngsters of the meeting, responsible for the fouling. They handed him a suspension of 15 days. Cathop was a long shot in the race.

Hawthorne's Big 2 Year Old Race Aug. 20

With the announcement yesterday of the date for the $10,000 added Hawthorne Juvenile handicap, the stake program for the 29 day race meeting that opens Monday at the west side track was completed.

The 2 year olds will battle it out on Saturday, Aug. 20. A total of 79 nominations have been made.

Good Stables Represented.

The winner, or winners, of next year's rich three year old stakes, such as the Kentucky and American Derby, the Belmont and the Arlington Classic, may be found in this Hawthorne field.

The Audley farm, with Hilena, Trace Call, Royal Blunder, Seven Up, and Knight's Gal will make a strong bid for honors. William Woodward, chairman of the New York Jockey club, has named Flamborough and Dominue to carry his Belair Stud colors; E. R. Bradley has nominated five; the Dixiana Stud named three, while C. V. Whitney, Stuyvesant Peabody, the Nash brothers, James D. Norris Jr., and the Le Mar Stock farm are represented.

Four Big Races.

There will be $80,000 in added money given away at the Hawthorne meeting with the big stakes arranged as follows:

Hawthorne handicap, $25,000 added, Aug. 6.

Illinois Owners handicap, $10,000 added, Aug. 13.

Hawthorne Juvenile handicap, $10,000 added, Aug. 20.

Hawthorne Gold cup, $25,000 added, Aug. 27.

In addition to these there will be $10,000 more to be added to stake purses, the conditions for which will be announced later. This sum may be offered in two stakes of $5,000 each, or in four with $2,500 purses, depending upon the sentiment among the owners.

The Hawthorne program calls for eight races daily with post time for the first at 2:15 o'clock daylight saving time.

OUTBOARD STARS VIE SUNDAY FOR M'DONALD CUP

The first event of the sports program to be sponsored by a Century of Progress will be held Sunday afternoon on the south lagoon of the World's Fair grounds when speed boat drivers from fourteen states east of the Mississippi will compete in a motor boat regatta.

The feature event will be the race for the $10,000 Commander Eugene McDonald trophy. This will be the fourth annual race for the most valuable trophy offered to outboard racers and forty drivers have entered.

Races will be held for both amateurs and professionals in classes A, B, C, and F. The classes are determined by the piston displacement of the motors. Tom Estlick of Waukegan, Ill., holder of the world's speed record of 56.52 m. p. h., and six other record holders will be entered in the various races.

PIRATES SPEED ON; BEAT GIANTS TWICE: 10-7, 9-1

Increase Lead Over Cubs to 5½ Games.

New York, July 28.—(AP)—Pittsburgh's Pirates today gave another convincing demonstration of their strength by winning their second consecutive double header from the Giants to make it five victories in a row. The scores were 10 to 7 and 9 to 1. Henry Meine, who pitched the second game for the Bucs, was the first starting pitcher in the six game series to go the route.

Tony Piet, who made two hits in the opener, won the second game almost single handed. He hit a homer with two on base in the second inning and repeated with loaded sacks in the third. He continued with a pair of singles and scored the Pirates' eighth run on Lloyd Waner's single in the eighth. He also accepted 13 chances at second base without an error.

The victories put Pittsburgh 5½ games ahead of the second place Cubs. Scores:

BROWNS BEAT SENATORS.

St. Louis, Mo., July 28.—(AP)—Walter Stewart proved today he still retained his mastery over the Washington Senators when the St. Louis Browns won the third game of the series, 6 to 4. Stewart yielded only two hits in the first six frames, but the Senators scored a run in the seventh off West's homer and three in the eighth on a pair of doubles, a pass and a single. Campbell also knocked a home run. Score:

Babe Hits 2 Homers; Yanks Win, 10 to 1

Cleveland, O., July 28.—(AP)—They called on Babe Ruth in a pinch today and he answered by hitting his 27th and 28th home runs of the season, driving in seven runs and personally conducting the New York Yankees to a 10 to 1 victory over the Indians.

The Babe was hurried back into the starting lineup because Ben Chapman was ill, although his injured leg, which has kept him out except for a couple of appearances as a pinch batsman since July 18, still troubled him.

Wes Ferrell passed Ruth the first time up while the Yanks were staging their first three run rally. He grounded out the second time, but when he came up again in the fourth inning the Babe smacked one against the screen in center field, barely missing a homer, and drove home two runs.

His first homer came in the sixth after Joe Sewell had singled. In the same inning Earl Averill hit his 24th for Cleveland and deprived Charley Ruffing of a shutout. Ruth came back in the next inning after a walk and a single off Sarge Connally had put Combs and Sewell on base and lifted his second homer of the game far over the right field screen. Score:

In the Wake of the News

GOLDEN GLOVES.

THE WAKE was just far enough removed from minute details—the actual hard work—of the second international Golden Gloves bouts so that a few words of congratulation to THE TRIBUNE sports department should sound in no sense like self-praise.

It seems almost incredible that the greatest amateur boxing show ever held, attracting the greatest number of spectators who ever viewed such an event, with the greatest gate receipts, despite low admission fees, ever paid to view amateur mitt wielders, could be conducted without mishap of any kind.

Now, that show did not run itself. That 45,000 persons obtained the seats for which they had paid, that every seat commanded a good view of the ring, that the crowd was handled in orderly fashion, was the result of painstaking preparation. It was a duty to the public which we never have seen excelled.

All that, however, was just a part of the responsibility, perhaps the most important because the public was concerned, but still only part of the arrangements which were carried out without flaw by a corps of volunteer aids, experienced in such matters, all under the direction of the sports department head and one active associate. From them all others received instructions or advice.

Then there were the thousand and one little things concerning the bouts themselves—erection and safe padding of the ring, all the paraphernalia for the boxers, timing of the bouts so the show would last long enough and yet not too long. There were also the two national anthems and the flood of light upon the German and American flags, directed and timed by a system of intercommunicating phones which reached every part of Soldiers' field, even the two dressing rooms of the boxers.

Here's just one little detail as an example of the thought expended. Perhaps you noticed the glossy hard substance over the knots in what Mr. Pegler called the "milk-fed white pine" used in construction of the seats. Perhaps you wondered what it was. It was a fluid applied to absorb any rosin which might ooze from the knots and damage clothing. Now, who thought of that? We don't know, but some one did.

* *

Explanation, Not Excuse.

Not as an excuse or as an alibi, but in justice to Chicagoland's bantam, George Goodman, we think his knockdown by Ziglarski in the first round, which practically decided that bout, should be explained. Of course, the second knockdown was a direct aftermath of the first.

The blow was without the rules. Under the code adopted the boxers were to protect themselves in clinches. If ordered to "break" by the referee, each boy was to step back one pace. Goodman did so. Ziglarski did not step back, but swung a hook almost immediately which upset Goodman. Referee Tommy Thomas said afterward that if it had not been an international bout and the offender a visitor, he would have disqualified Ziglarski on a foul. Of course, prudence would have dictated Goodman's keeping his guard up despite the rule.

Whether Goodman could have beaten his rival otherwise cannot be told. After the first round he made a game stand against one of the best of the Germans, although he had practically no chance to win except by a knockout, so greatly was the first round against him.

This Wake Is Conducted by Harvey T. Woodruff Help! Help!

Decisions.

Decisions in the international bouts were pleasing, on the whole, to the immense crowd. Only once was there pronounced booing. That was when Leo Rodak's admirers thought officials erred in awarding Josef Schleinkofer the verdict over the Chicagoland captain in the featherweight class. Sponsors of the tourney were gratified that the only popular demonstration was over a decision against an American rather than over a decision against a German. We wanted no Sharkey-Schmeling decisions of the New York brand.

Sox Pitchers Today: Gaston and Who Else?

Milton Gaston probably will start the final for the White Sox against the Red Sox today. Who will relieve Gaston is being kept secret. Larry Boerner is expected to appear in behalf of the visitors.

The White Sox did their bit to relieve the unemployment situation yesterday. They signed Pitcher Phil Gallivan, who has been out of a job since the recent blowup of the Eastern league. Early this season the lad did a stretch with the Brooklyn club.

Manager Lew Fonseca vanished from the scene yesterday, but promised to return. He is going to visit a couple of American association cities in search of ball players. Coach Johnny Butler will function as manager until Fonseca gets back.

The women fans will be admitted free this afternoon. A free gate also will be available for them next Monday when the Washington team is the visiting attraction.

The foreign Sox came uncomfortably close to a run in the ninth. Warstler opened with a double and Connolly's bunt shoved him to third. He dashed for the plate on Durham's tap to Lyons and was nailed. Durham reached second while the play was going on but didn't get any assistance from a fly into Funk's hands by Olson.

Smith and Zachary Rival Pitchers in Cubs-Braves Final

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., July 28.—Bob Smith is scheduled to go against Tom Zachary in the final game here tomorrow between the Cubs and the Braves.

The Cubs didn't mind the news that they are to play a double header in Brooklyn Sunday. They rather fancy the notion of having Monday off in Greater New York.

The misery in the stomach of Burleigh Grimes, who joined up this morning, had abated to the point where he was able to work in this afternoon's batting practice.

Warneke was so tough that he did not give the fielders many chances to shine. But a diving catch by Stephenson on Shires' drive in the fifth was most spectacular.

The Boston papers today scolded the fans for razzing Shires and this afternoon they came out and cheered the hard working young man.

Boston printers are just like Chicago printers in that you have to threaten their lives to get them to spell Warneke without a "C."

Banks, Meike in Junior Golf Final Today

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Johnny Banks of La Grange and Willie Meike of Medinah, the two young men who tied for the medal Tuesday in the eighteenth annual junior tournament of the Western Golf association at Medinah, still are running neck and neck, but by sundown tonight one of them will be in front and western champion for a year.

Both won their quarter-final and semi-final matches yesterday and will meet today in the 36 hole championship match on the No. 1 course. They are the survivors of a field of 305, a record entry for the event, who started play Tuesday. Banks has been a public parks and daily fee course player of note, having played on the Chicago national public links team last year. Johnny will be at a slight disadvantage in meeting Meike, for when Willie isn't trying to win himself a championship, he toils as a caddy at Medinah, and knows all three of its courses forward and backward. In addition he has had the benefit of tutelage from Abe Espinosa, club professional, but he'll have to use all of it today to win from Banks, a comparative veteran of tournament play.

Banks won his way to the final by defeating Bill Flynn of Glen Oak, 6 and 4, in his morning round and then coming back to beat Laurie Ayton Jr., son of Evanston's professional, 4 and 3. On Wednesday Ayton had upset Robert Cochran of St. Louis, the defending champion.

Meike gained entrance to the championship battle by winning with little difficulty from Ralph Morgan of Chicago, 7 and 6, but encountered considerable opposition in the semi-final bracket before he finally conquered John Graw of Illinois, 2 and 1.

Ayton won his morning match from Chester Grosse of Ridgemoor, 2 and 1, while Graw had gone into the semi-final by eliminating Joe Zaranka of Chicago Heights, 4 and 2.

George O'Shea scored an 80 over the Evergreen Golf club course to win low gross in the Forty and Eight society golf tournament yesterday. Other low gross winners were Thomas Green, 81; Herbert Klein, 81; Judge W. E. Helander, 90, and Jack Morris, 91.

Milton Noble and Judge M. D. Hartigan led the low net winners, Noble turned in a card of 93—19—74, while Judge Hartigan had 99—25—74. Others were Harold Schrodski, 116—39—77, and Nate Felt, 110—22—88. The high gross prize went to Pat Felker, 148, while high net was won by Dr. H. J. Banks, 131—27—104.

GLEN VIEW CLUB GOLFERS TO PLAY FOR THREE TITLES

Club championships in golf at Glen View are going to be decided on a different basis this season. Instead of having just one championship, with all classes competing for honors, club officials have arranged for three distinct championships. These are the club championship and the class B and C titles.

All will be competed for at match play, eight members in each division to qualify. The qualifiers will be those members having the lowest handicaps in their respective classes on Aug. 29. Junior members are eligible for each class.

The first round is scheduled for Sept. 3, 18 holes at match play. The second round will be in the morning of Sept. 5, with the finals in the afternoon.

To avoid defaults, the qualifying members will be asked sometime after Aug. 29 if it is their intention to compete in the club championship. Any qualifiers who decide that they do not wish to play in the event will then be replaced by the new low handicap players who do care to compete.

Northwest Parks Track Meet Is Set for August 6

Californian Sets Course Record in City Golf Tourney

Douglas McKay, the Los Angeles golfer who won the Chicago city championship at Jackson park last year, is still marching along in defense of his title, but a fellow Californian, Irving Goddard of Pasadena, loomed up in the quarter final round yesterday as a real contender. In winning his match from Lee Creagan of the home club, the 20 year old Goddard shot a 65, four strokes under par, to establish a new course record. The former mark of 68 was held by Scotty White of Jackson park.

McKay will meet Bob Sawyer of Ridge in one of today's semi-finals, while Goddard will be matched against John Rolston of Techny Fields, so that a victory for both will result in an all-California final, as was the case last year, when McKay defeated Joe Nichols of Long Beach. Rolston advanced to the semi-finals by defeating Keith Morrison of Jackson park yesterday afternoon, 2 and 1, while Sawyer was winning from Dan Faith of Evergreen, the postoffice league champion, by a similar margin. McKay defeated James Woods Jr., 4 and 2, in his quarter final effort.

Goddard, who has come along fast in Pacific coast golf within the last year, competed in the recent national public links tournament at Louisville, where he qualified, but lost a 20 hole match to Pete Miller of Chicago, the ultimate runner-up. One of the largest galleries of the year followed him in his record breaking round, which included birdies on the 13th, 15th, and 18th, and an eagle on the 14th. His card follows:

Par—Out	444	443	434—34
Par—In	344	355	434—35—69
Goddard—Out	454	443	434—35
Goddard—In	344	234	433—30—65

Results of yesterday morning's matches follow:

McKay defeated Pick Weasant, Mid-City, 1 up, 19 holes; Goddard defeated Jack White, Chicago Meadows, 3 and 2; Woods defeated J. J. Judelson, Black Bear, 1 up, 19 holes; Creagan defeated William Fitzgerald, Jackson park, 3 and 2; Sawyer defeated J. E. Harris, Lincolnshire, 2 and 1; Morrison defeated Art Anderson, Casa del Mar, 5 and 4; Faith defeated Ted Behymer, Euclid Hills, 3 and 2; and Rolston defeated R. Daugherty, French Lick, Ind., 1 up, 19 holes.

Beebe to Play Armstrong in Tourney Final

June Beebe of Olympia Fields and Jean Armstrong of Indian Hill will play for the Chicago women's district golf championship today at Riverside Country club.

In the semi-finals yesterday, Miss Beebe defeated her club mate, Mrs. H. W. Tupper, 3 and 2, while Miss Armstrong eliminated Rena Nelson, club champion at Exmoor, 2 and 1.

In the consolation final, Jane Weller, last year's champion, will meet Virginia Ingram of Sunset Ridge. Miss Weller won, 4 and 3, from Jane Gage of La Grange, while Miss Ingram beat Mrs. A. E. Shelil, Glen Oak, 1 up.

The first flight finalists are Mrs. Pearl Indig of Mohawk and Mrs. A. R. Copeland of Calumet. Mrs. Indig won, 5 and 4, from Mrs. George Henneberry, Chicago Golf, and Mrs. Copeland beat Betty Burton, Tam o' Shanter, 1 up.

The semi-final round of golf was spotty. Miss Beebe had a lead of 3 up over Mrs. Tupper at the end of nine holes, the latter being out of bounds in the rough, and was hooking badly. Coming back, Mrs. Tupper reversed things, taking the 11th, 12th, and 13th in a row while June was getting out of bounds, into the river, and overshooting the green. However, Miss Beebe braced and Mrs. Tupper slipped, the latter losing the next two holes. Their cards:

Miss Beebe, out	445	554	354—39
Mrs. Tupper, out	447	754	356—45
Miss Beebe, in	565	457	4
Mrs. Tupper, in	654	368	4

The match between Miss Armstrong and Miss Nelson was all square at the eleventh. Then the Indian Hill girl sank a 20 footer at the 12th for a birdie and took the 15th when Miss Nelson overdrove the green. They traded the 16th and 18th, enabling Miss Armstrong to retain a 2 up lead.

Blackhawks Quit Stadium for Coliseum

The Chicago Blackhawks, members of the National Hockey league, who for the last two years have played all their contests in the Chicago Stadium, will hold all games in the Coliseum next season. Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the club, announced this yesterday.

The announcement of the change in site of the games came after Maj. McLaughlin and Sidney Strotz, president of the Chicago Stadium, disagreed on the dates of the 1932-'33 schedule. The Blackhawks have a contract with the Stadium which runs for one more year.

Strotz said the Blackhawks' announcement is a bluff to get lower rent. It is believed that the Blackhawks paid $5,000 nightly last season.

"Our contract calls for us to pick dates from the Stadium's open list by June 1, and the Stadium is supposed to ratify them by then," William Tobin, manager of the Blackhawks, said. "This year they sent back our list and said we would have to get together in a conference and straighten them out, that there were conflicts [presumably with the Shamrocks]. As our schedule must be turned in to the National league early in June, we had to act immediately. We signed with the Coliseum."

Anglers, It's Time to Buy Latest Guide

BY BOB BECKER.

Fishermen who want a compact, well illustrated handbook on game fish, and the tackle and tricks used to get the big ones are advised this morning that the second edition of THE TRIBUNE'S "Fisherman's Guide" is now on sale. This 72 page guide is being distributed through the public service offices of THE TRIBUNE. The price is 15 cents over the counter and 20 cents by mail.

Anglers will find in this handbook practical information on the common game fish in the middle west as well as innumerable tips on rods, lines, lures and other equipment used by fishermen. The black bass, northern pike, muskalonge, wall eyed pike, trouts and the minor basses like the crappie and rock bass are covered in this 72 page book.

Illustrations for Beginners.

One of the most handy features that the beginning fisherman will find in this pocket guide is the series of full page illustrations of some of the more common game fish with a list of local names under which each species masquerades. This series of illustrations will enable the anglers to tell quickly the difference between the white and black crappie and the various species of muskalonge as well as the trouts. Under each portrait is a short description of the chief characteristics of the species.

The new "Fisherman's Guide" also has a chapter on frying fish and keeping fish until the angler gets home with his catch, how to mix up mosquito dopes which sometimes are a necessity on trips into the outdoors; food supplies, especially emergency rations, and a table showing how much fish shrink after being kept out of the water for a certain length of time.

Five Cents Postage.

Readers who wish to purchase this handbook by mail should send 20 cents to THE TRIBUNE'S public service office, 1 South Dearborn street, Chicago, five cents of this amount being required for postage.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 1,500; hogs, 16,000; sheep, 7,000.

Buyers played the waiting game yesterday and averted another rise in costs of live stock. Anticipating a stronger tone all interests held back at the opening, venturing out only after the trend had turned lower.

Fully 5@10c was erased from the recent gain in hogs. The market started out on a steady to strong basis, but prices soon commenced to ebb when support failed to appear and at the finish some buyers managed to shave their costs as much as 10@15c in weighty butchers.

The general average for the whole day receded 10c to $4.45, while the peak price at $5.05 showed 5c loss. Bottom grades were slashed, resulting in the widest spread in ten months. The top and average prices were 60c apart. Buying on eastern account has increased the last few days. Shippers bought 16 per cent of arrivals during the first four days of this week against 8 per cent a week ago.

Receipts Below Average.

Supplies at all points are still below average. The total at Chicago for July, estimating Saturday's receipts, is expected to land around 425,000, the smallest for July since 1910. A year ago the July run was also light at 456,306 and two years ago 566,579 arrived during July.

Cattle receipts were short yesterday, but choice grades were scarce and buyers showed little interest in the class of cattle on the market. Trading dragged slowly throughout the session and some transactions of medium quality steers were established at slightly lower price level.

There was nothing here good enough to put the top quotations to a test. The bulk of beef steers got over the scales with a range of $7.50@8.90, but several lots of plain quality cattle of beef merit ranged down to $6, while occasional lots of thin ill bred southwesterns were sold as low as $4.

Armour paid $9.25 for the top load of 1,102 lb long yearlings, nothing heavier of stickout quality being in the run. Best grades of butcher stock held steady, but weakness was noted in sales of grassy kinds. A few head of 904 lb yearling heifers reached $8.10. Calves ruled strong to 25c higher.

Lamb Trade Erratic.

Lambs turned erratic yesterday, with western range stock headed upward and native lambs downward. Stock from the range country sold at steady to slightly higher prices, while natives ruled steady to 25c lower for the day. Ten carloads of western lambs were sorted by packers at $6.25@6.30. A scattering of handpicked natives to city butchers topped the list at $6.50, but packers obtained the bulk of them sorted at $6. Matured stock was unable to equal Wednesday's high sales in old ewes. Yearlings were firm, with the tops up to $5. Sheep receipts have been running light all month. The total at Chicago for July is expected to be about 240,000, the smallest for this month since 1917.

CHICAGO TRADE GAINS SPEED AS PRICES MOVE UP

Trading picked up some speed on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, with the result that the turnover for the day was considerably in excess of that of any session in weeks. However, it is still below the point which permits brokers here to add much to their bankrolls.

While the prices of stocks on the whole were higher at the close yesterday, advances were mostly fractional, with none of the bold moves forward found on the big board. Commonwealth Edison closed at 61¾, up 1⅝, on a turnover of 2,250 shares. Public Service no par gained ½ point to close at 30½. Central Illinois Public Service preferred gained 2½ points at 35. Cities Service was the most active issue on the board, gaining ⅝ to close at 3⅞.

In the general list the advances were mostly fractional. Quaker Oats moved forward a point to close at 81, while the preferred was up ½ point at 102. Swift held even again and Swift International gained a fraction. Transactions were moderate. Montgomery Ward A was among the few to make substantial gains, moving up 2¾ to close at 40¾. Great Lakes Dredge resumed its forward march to gain ⅝ after holding even for a few days.

Gains in the automotive [illegible] were fractional.

ILLINOIS THIRD IN PAYMENTS ON LIFE POLICIES

Total for Year Put at $202,000,000.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Illinois residents as policyholders and beneficiaries during 1931 received $202,000,000 in payments from life insurance companies, according to the special "Life Payments Localized" number of the National Underwriter, weekly insurance journal, released yesterday.

Illinois ranked third among the states in such payments last year. For the entire United States and Canada policyholders and beneficiaries in 1931 received $3,548,949,338 in life insurance payments and loans.

Of this amount, death claims, matured endowments, annuities, and additional accidental death benefits totaled $1,316,337,731. Payments on premium savings and cash surrender values totaled $1,589,515,345, making a total of $2,905,853,076.

This represented an increase of 10 per cent over the 1930 total, and was 66 per cent higher than five years before.

Lend Millions on Policies.

In addition, policyholders in all states received $643,096,262 in policy loans during 1931, bringing the total of payments and loans up over the three and a half billion mark.

The tabulation shows that the largest individual life insurance policies paid in Illinois in 1931 were on the lives of Walter A. Strong, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, and Knowlton L. Ames Sr., both having $1,100,000.

Henry C. Kahl, Chicago	$1,045,000
Charles Phelan, Chicago	415,000
Frank E. White, Chicago	367,000
James H. Douglas, Chicago	350,000
Ernest C. Pratt, Glencoe	270,000
Peter S. Theurer, Chicago	245,000
Martin J. Isaacs, Chicago	195,000
Robert H. Ripley, Winnetka	188,000
Harvey J. Kable, Mount Morris	105,000
George K. Washabaugh, Oak Park	105,000
A. J. Dumont, Wilmette	85,000
V. Stuart Evans, Chicago	76,423
John Fuhrman, Chicago	75,000
Frederick M. Farwell, Chicago	70,000

Some Comparative Figures.

The large death payments, however, accounted for only a small proportion of the total. For the entire nation last year there were only eight claims for more than $1,000,000, totaling $9,167,000. Nine claims from $500,000 to $1,000,000 totaled $6,063,000.

Death claims amounting to $30,000 or more totaled 437 and accounted for only $46,453,909 of the nearly $3,000,000,000 total, or a little more than 15 per cent.

The largest individual death claim in 1931 was paid on the life of Lawrence R. Ach of Cincinnati, who carried $1,516,500 in life insurance. E. A. Simmons, Brooklyn, head of the Simmons-Boardman Publishing company, left $1,300,000.

Philip A. Koehring, Milwaukee; Frank H. Reed, Kansas City, Mo., and Eleanor F. Miniger, Perrysburg, O., were other million dollar policyholders who died last year.

'ACTION BY COURT MAY AID SALE OF RICHFIELD OIL

Los Angeles, Cal., July 28.—(AP)—Action to foreclose on properties covered by a $24,000,000 mortgage and trust indenture of May 1, 1929, issued by the Richfield Oil company of California, was filed in federal court today by the Security First National bank of Los Angeles, acting as trustee.

In an order granting the bank the right to act, United States District Judge William P. James held the proceedings "may be of use, if not indispensable, to the proper adjustment of interests" in concluding the sale of Richfield assets to the Consolidated Oil corporation, a Harry F. Sinclair organization.

Dismiss Receiver Actions Against Container Corp.

Dismissal of all receivership proceedings pending against the Container Corporation of America was announced yesterday. Two suits had been filed, that in the federal court at Chicago having been dismissed July 13the one filed in Chancery court at Wilmington, Del., being dismissed Wednesday. Allegations set forth in the bills of complaint were found in error.

BETHLEHEM STEEL CORPORATION OMITS PREFERRED DIVIDEND

Directors of the Bethlehem Steel corporation yesterday omitted the $1.75 quarterly dividend on the preferred stock of the big steel company which was due at this time. The $1.75 rate on the preferred has been in effect since 1923. The dividend on the common stock was omitted in May of this year.

The company reported a deficit for the June quarterly of $4,671,260, after interest, depreciation, depletion, etc., against a net loss of $3,685,769 in the preceding quarter and net income of $1,452,743, equal to $1.45 a share on 1,000,000 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock, in the June quarter of 1931.

The six months' net loss was $8,857,035, after charges and taxes, against a net income of $3,394,685, or $3.39 a share on the preferred stock, in the first half of 1931.

Orders on hand on June 30, 1932, totaled $28,724,004, against $55,372,318 on March 30, 1932, and $57,334,794 on June 30 last year.

'Frisco' Road Still Busy on Finance Plan

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 28.—Directors of the St. Louis-San Francisco railway met this week to discuss the progress on the recently announced plan of the company for cutting interest charges pending more encouraging earnings. They were informed that deposits of securities were being received in satisfactory manner in support of the plan. That was revealed today.

No opposition worthy of comment has developed in connection with the proposed suspension of interest payments, he added, and the management is reasonably confident of the eventual consummation of the plan. It recently it was reported that deposits had lagged to such an extent that early receivership loomed for the road.

Seek Small Holders.

It is difficult, however, to round up the small individual holders of securities. Some of such holders, of course, are withholding deposits in the belief that if a small minority fails to consent to the plan that more advantageous terms may be offered the small group in order to avoid receivership. The plan will, however, succeed or fail on the basis of the present terms, it was said.

The majority of the security holders of the company appears to be adopting the attitude that compliance with the company's suggestions for temporarily relieving the company's burden of charges is preferable to the receivership that must ensue unless the holders agree to the terms.

To Forego Bond Interest.

Under the proposed arrangement, bondholders will forego interest payments entirely for several years, after which a part of the interest requirements will be predicated on such earnings as develop. In lieu of interest these holders will receive script as well as a premium in the form of preferred and common stock.

A thorough reorganization of the capital structure at this time is almost out of the question, since under uncertain operating and earning conditions it would be impractical to attempt estimates of profits upon which a new capital setup could be based. If, on the other hand, the capitalization were scaled down to immediate earning power, it would mean the elimination of a very substantial portion of the company's junior issues.

NATIONAL STEEL EARNINGS AHEAD OF SHARE NEEDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 28.—Earnings in excess of the dividend requirement and more than 2¼ times fixed charges were disclosed by the National Steel corporation today when the company reported $1,153,799 earned in the first half of 1932 after all charges and federal tax.

These results were equal to 53 cents a share on 2,156,832 no par capital shares outstanding and compare with net earnings of $3,459,376 for the corresponding 1931 period, or $1.60 a share on the same outstanding capitalization.

For the June quarter net was $560,999, after all charges and federal tax, equal to 26 cents a share, compared with 27 cents a share earned in the first quarter and 71 cents a share in the same 1931 quarter.

"The company is in strong condition, with ample cash and no bank loans," Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the board, informed directors when presenting the earnings results.

PERE MARQUETTE WOULD ABANDON 3 BRANCH LINES

Washington, D. C., July 28.—(AP)—The Pere Marquette Railroad company today asked the interstate commerce commission to authorize it to abandon three of its Michigan branch lines totaling approximately 17 miles. The company would abandon the seven mile line from Mears Junction to Pentwater in Oceana county, the five mile branch from Otter Lake in Lapeer county to Fostoria in Tuscola county, and the five mile branch from Port Austin to Grindstone City in Huron county. The application said the lines were losing money.

Butler Brothers Sales 13.2 Per Cent Behind '31

Butler Brothers' sales for the first six months of 1932 were 13.2 per cent less than in 1931. The percentage of loss, said President Frank S. Cunningham, was "substantially less than reported by department stores and most other merchandising concerns."

Net loss for the six months was about $200,000 less than in the same period of 1931. Prices averaged about 18 per cent lower, but "for the moment are at a standstill," Cunningham said. "It is impossible to say whether the downward trend has ceased or will resume."

Caterpillar Tractor Votes Its Regular Dividend

YALE RAIL EXPERT MAY BECOME 'CZAR' OF WESTERN LINES

New York, July 28.—[Special.]—Winthrop Daniels, who was made a member of the interstate commerce commission by the late Woodrow Wilson and who now is professor of transportation at Yale, will be offered the position of commissioner over the western railroads, according to reports in railroad circles today. In that position his duties would be to preside over a board, formed by the roads themselves to eliminate certain forms of wasteful competition. The appointment of such an official was approved by the western railroads recently.

WINTHROP DANIELS.

Rail officials questioned today declined to affirm or deny the story of Daniels' selection and one called the report "premature." It was pointed out that the committee of presidents empowered to select the commissioner hardly had begun to function.

Mr. Daniels is the first to hold the chair of professor of transportation at Yale, established by a $125,000 endowment subscribed by the Association of Railway Executives in memory of the late T. De Witt Cuyler, former chairman of the association. Prof. Daniels was professor of political economy at Princeton and has been a member of the New Jersey public utilities commission.

ILLINOIS TAKES OVER WAR UPON THE CORN BORER

Springfield, Ill., July 28.—(AP)—A proclamation barring the importation into Illinois of all plants that might carry the European corn borer was issued today by Gov. Emmerson.

Plant products, also listed subject to restrictions, are celery, green beans in the pod, beets with tops, rhubarb, cut flowers, or the entire plants of chrysanthemums, asters, zinnias, hollyhocks, cosmos, cut flowers or the entire plant of gladiolous, or dahlia, except the corms and tubers thereof without stems which have been grown in whole or in part in any of the states listed.

Protective Group Formed for Seaboard Public Service

Announcement is made today of the formation in New York of a protective committee to represent the holders of the $6 cumulative preferred and the $3.25 cumulative preferred stocks of the Seaboard Public Service company, now in receivership. Paul W. Fisher is secretary of the committee, and other members include Edward L. McBride, Dudley F. King, Gerald W. Peck, Douglas G. Wagner, and Huntington P. Faxon. The Bank of New York and Trust Company of New York has been named depositary and Chapman, Snider, Duke & Radebaugh will represent the committee as counsel.

Seaboard Public Service company is part of the Middle West Utilities company, now in receivership.

Abitibi Paper Faces Interest on 50 Million

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., July 28.—Interest amounting to $1,500,000 is due Monday on the $50,000,000 6 per cent bonds of the Abitibi Power and Paper company. Directors of the company have been here since yesterday morning, and after their meeting today made no announcement as to whether arrangements had been made to meet that interest.

The payment was due on June 1, but the company availed itself of sixty days of grace as provided under the trust deed back of the bonds. That period ends Monday.

With the question open as to whether the interest wil be paid, the bonds were at 23 to 24 in the market today, about the level they have maintained for some time.

The Montreal Trust company is named in the trust deed underlying the bonds. Under its terms, in case of default of interest or principal, holders of 25 per cent of the bonds can instruct the trustee to take over the company and operate it for the benefit of the bondholders. There already is a protective committee of bondholders, presumed to represent 25 per cent, and it is predicted here that if the interest goes unpaid they will give instructions to the trustee, thus avoiding foreclosure and the difficulties of selling the properties under the present conditions of business.

C. & O. REPORTS LARGER TRAFFIC; SO DOES N. & W.

Chesapeake and Ohio and the Norfolk and Western, coal roads of the east, report an average increase of 8 per cent in freight traffic last week.

The Norfolk line hauled 16,221 cars of revenue shipments, an increase of 1,127 cars, or about 7.5 per cent, over the June 16 week. Chesapeake and Ohio's 21,963 cars were 1,870, or 9 per cent, over the preceding week.

Gains of over 2,000 cars were shown by each carrier in the July 16 week, so that the increase for the last two weeks exceeds 3,000 cars on each system.

The Alleghany corporation, top company in the Van Sweringen railroad holding system, suffered a loss of $11,940,000 from the sale of securities between Jan. 1 and June 30, according to a report issued today. This represented the sale of 46,200 shares of Pere Marquette railway common stock to the Chesapeake and Ohio railway and also probably some of the 215,000 Erie common shares and 167,300 Nickel Plate common shares optioned to the C. & O. The Alleghany corporation controls the C. & O. through its holdings in the Chesapeake corporation, so the transfer is in part a bookkeeping transaction.

U. S. COPPER IMPORTS SHOW GAIN FOR JUNE; HOLD PRICE AT 5⅜ CTS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 28.—Copper imports of the United States in June aggregated 25,858 short tons against 14,751 in May and 14,975 in April, while exports were 9,487 tons in June against 14,130 in May and 12,835 in April, according to the American bureau of metal statistics.

Great Britain's imports in June were 9,994 tons against 9,409 in May and 8,621 in April, while exports were 545 tons in June against 897 in May and 1,019 in April.

Germany imported 7,217 tons in May, against 10,959 in April, while exports were 2,845 in May against 2,116 in April. Canada exported 389 tons of blister and 7,655 tons of refined in May against 310 tons of blister and 5,693 tons of refined in April.

Buying continues very small in the copper markets here and abroad. In the domestic market producers continue to hold the price at 5⅜c delivered Connecticut valley, but custom smelters are willing to sell at 5¼c. Prices abroad range between 4.50@4.60c c. i. f. Hamburg, Havre, and London, with most producers quoting the 4.60c figure.

Copper Exporters, Inc., continues to hold at 4.70c c. i. f. for special offering of limited tonnage.

COURT TIES UP KREUGER & TOLL BANK ACCOUNT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 28.—On behalf of American creditors of Kreuger & Toll, notice was served today on the New York Trust company to withhold payment on a balance of $21,455 in the account of Ivar Kreuger's Swedish-American Investment company, in accordance with an injunction granted to the creditors recently by Federal Judge Julian W. Mack in the United States District court.

Judge Mack is to hear the petition of the American creditors tomorrow for the appointment of a federal receiver to coöperate with the liquidators who are handling the affairs of Kreuger & Toll in Sweden where it is bankrupt.

Federal Reserve Maintains Its Old Rediscount Rate

Although declines in open market money rates had led some financial experts to believe that a reduction in the New York Federal Reserve bank's 2½ per cent rediscount rate was to be expected, no change was announced yesterday at either New York or Chicago. The 2½ per cent rate has been in effect in New York since June 24 when the rate was reduced from 3 per cent.

Cheapening money in New York is looked upon as a means of forcing idle money into interior districts where it could earn a higher rate of interest.

S. S. Kresge.

Will you kindly advise me regarding Kresge [S. S.] common stock?—M. E.

S. S. Kresge company was incorporated in 1897. It has expanded steadily, especially in the last seven years. On June 30, 1932, there were 677 stores in the United States and 41 Canadian stores. The year before the company was operating 694 stores.

The company operates two types of outlets, 25 cents to $1 stores and 5-10-25 cent stores. Because of the greater risk of inventory losses in dealing in higher priced products, the company has endeavored to keep inventories at a minimum. In 1924 inventories per store were $46,700, in 1930 $24,500, and in 1931 $22,900.

Increased competition and the necessity of choosing less desirable store sites as the field became more crowded cut down average sales per store from $350,000 in 1924 [the peak year] to $205,000 in 1931. Ratio of net income to sales was 6.5 per cent in 1931, 7.1 per cent in 1930, and 9.6 per cent in 1929.

Sales for the first half of 1932 were $58,746,000, a 12.63 per cent decrease from $67,239,000 for the first half of 1931. Sales in 1931 were $145,838,000, against $150,503,000 in 1930 and $156,457,000 in 1929.

Net income in 1931 was $9,462,000, or $1.69 per common share, against net of $10,621,000, or $1.90 per common share, for 1930. Net for 1929 was $14,952,000, against $15,643,000 for 1928.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $21,245,000 and current liabilities were $7,583,000. Cash was $3,850,000 and notes payable were $2,000,000. Working capital was $13,663,000, against $21,974,000 the year before.

Funded debt was $24,334,000.

There are outstanding 20,000 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred [par $100] and 5,517,930 shares of $10 par common.

Dividends on the preferred have been paid regularly since issuance, and on the common regularly since 1913. During the early years of the company's history the dividend policy was conservative. Only 21 per cent of net available for the common was paid out to 1924. The rest was plowed back into the business. In 1929 the ratio rose to 60 per cent. In 1930 it was 84 per cent and in 1931, 92 per cent. On June 30, 1932, a dividend of 25 cents per share was paid. The March 31, 1932, dividend was 40 cents per share.

The preferred is high grade. The common deserves a fairly good rating.

WOULD RAISE ROAD'S VALUE FOR RECAPTURE

U. S. Agent Favors Cut in '20 Surplus.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 28.—[Special.]—An effort to comply with the requirement of the Supreme court of the United States that reproduction costs must be considered in valuing railroad properties was indicated in recommendations made today to the interstate commerce commission by Examiner P. A. Conway as to revised findings in the case in which the commission is seeking to recover excess earnings from the St. Louis and O'Fallon railway.

As the result of a further hearing held after the Supreme court decided that the commission in valuing the O'Fallon in recapture proceedings had ignored cost of reproduction of the property and that therefore its recapture order was void, the examiner now proposes that the commission increase the valuations and reduce the amounts alleged to be recapturable as excess earnings.

Proposes Reductions.

The recommendation is made that for the last ten months of 1920 the commission increase the valuation of the O'Fallon from $356,065 to $1,200,000, and reduce the recapturable excess income from $53,377.98 to $45,189.27. For the years 1921 to 1923 inclusive, the period that was included in the decision rejected by the Supreme court, the examiner proposes increases in valuation ranging from $161,754 to $324,640 and reductions in recapture payments ranging from $4,852 to $9,739.

The amount saved by the O'Fallon through its having carried the case to the Supreme court, if the examiner's report is adopted by the commission, will be $28,814. The total called for by the commission before was $226,880 for the 1920-1923 period.

No Excess for 1927.

Four years, 1924 to 1927 inclusive, are covered in the examiner's report in addition to the preceding years that were involved in the case that went to the Supreme court. Valuations for the later years are recommended as follows: 1924, $1,160,000; 1925, $1,120,000; 1926, $1,090,000, and 1927, $1,090,000. The excess income recapturable on those valuations, according to the examiner, is $29,779 for 1924, $16,874 for 1925, and $50,652 for 1926. The O'Fallon did not receive excess income in 1927, under the findings.

The commission is urged by the examiner to approve estimates of cost of reproduction based on so-called period prices that are obtained after a study of prices over a period of years rather than on "spot" prices. To reproduce the property of the O'Fallon in 1927 would have cost $1,725,453, according to the examiner. Deducting depreciation, the cost would be $1,075,662, he said. The final value recommended by him was substantially the reproduction cost less depreciation for 1927. In 1923, he said, reproduction cost new would have been $1,662,681, while the commission's estimate in its rejected report was $940,708.

Decisions Are Cited.

The O'Fallon road contended that for the year 1920 at least the commission should give dominant weight to reproduction costs in fixing the value for recapture purposes. Under the law and decisions of the Supreme court, said the examiner, the commission should accord to reproduction costs such weight as was in its judgment justified by the record in the case. He said the Supreme court in rejecting the O'Fallon decision had not said what weight had been accorded cost of reproduction.

The Manufacturers' railway, owned by the same interests that control the O'Fallon, was held not to have received excess earnings.

Under the transportation act the commission is required to collect from railroads one-half of net railway operating income in excess of 6 per cent on the value of the properties as found by the commission.

Dollar Higher on Bidding by Buyers Abroad

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 28.—The American dollar again advanced in a feverish exchange market today on large purchases of American currency by London, Paris and other European financial centers, with the result that the British pound fell more than two and a half cents and sold a little under $3.50. It then recovered but still showed a decline of more than two cents from last night's close.

French Francs Weaker.

French francs shared in the weakness and declined to 3.91½, or very close to the gold import point, which is computed as around 3.90¾. Most European currencies, including Belgian, Dutch and Swiss, fell substantial fractions.

The eagerness to obtain dollars is believed in exchange circles to be connected with the steady rise in security prices in New York and probably the result of buying of American stocks and bonds in considerable volume. This applies particularly to London and sterling exchange, and there were intimations in the exchange market that London had been buying here on a substantial scale for a month.

Would Stabilize Pound.

Other factors affecting sterling are believed to be continued liquidation of a long position, some short selling here and in London and, perhaps, manipulation by the British treasury, which certainly does not want the exchange value of the pound to advance, dealers say.

MORE SIGNS OF BUSINESS GAINS APPEAR IN DAY

Additional signs of business gains were reported yesterday outside of the action in the leading markets.

At Wilkesbarre, Pa., there was a revival of activity in the anthracite trade. Notices were posted for operation of collieries. The Lehigh Valley railroad recalled several crews. Approximately 2,000 men returned to work in the Prospect, Henry, Warrior Run and Maltby collieries of the Lehigh Valley Coal company, idle since May 4.

The Youngstown, [O.] Sheet and Tube company announced small orders will enable resumption today of one of its seamless tube mills, idle since June 11.

In New York there has been an increase of $2,500,000 in deposits in the Bowery Savings bank since July 1, bringing the total resources of the institution to $571,800,000. For the same time last year deposits decreased $1,000,000 and the resources were $504,900,000.

The Bellefonte [Pa.] silk mill, of Shamokin, has resumed operations after being closed a year.

The Darlington, S. C., cotton mill, closed for several weeks, is running four days a week. The Darlington veneer plant also has opened.

ROAD ATTACKS HIGHER RATE AS HELP TO TRUCKS

Springfield, Ill., July 28.—(AP)—The first stage of a legal battle to restrain the intersate commerce commission from putting new coal freight rates into effect in the Peoria-Pekin switching district Monday was fought today in the federal District court here.

Opposing the injunction plea of the Peoria and Pekin Union railway were the city of Springfield, the Chicago and Alton railroad and the Springfield Illinois Traffic bureau as interveners and the commerce commission and the federal government as co-defendants.

The P. & P. U., primarily a switching carrier with hauls averaging little more than four miles, asked a temporary restraining order on the grounds that the new 60 cent a ton tariff ordered by the commission for its switching district would drive business to the trucks. The present rate is 30 cents a ton.

Brokers' Loans Decrease in Federal Reserve Report

Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York federal reserve member banks for the week ended July 27 were $331,000,000, a decrease of $1,000,000 as compared with the preceding week, according to the federal reserve board's weekly report yesterday.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 28.—The new bull movement on the stock exchange was carried forward with fresh impetus today. Trading struck the liveliest pace of the year, with approximately 2,700,000 shares changing hands. At best levels prices were up from 1 to 5 points over the previous session, but realizing sales shaved the leaders down sharply in the later afternoon dealings. The net improvement averaged about 1 to 2 points for the active list.

While the trading range was the broadest since about the middle of last December, some fifteen issues accounted for approximately 30 per cent of the total turnover. That the pivotals were meeting with organized support was plainly evident from the character of the operations. At one time it would be the industrial leaders that would be stepping out in front. When these tired the utilities would be brought forward and then the rails. In the late afternoon the oils were taken in hand and whirled up in impressive fashion.

Strength of Dollar.

As on preceding days of the advance there was little in the news to support the display of bullish activity. The continued strength in commodity prices was a source of some inspiration and the strength of the dollar against foreign exchanges brought fresh cheer.

A number of industrial and utility companies of importance did their bits also by declaring regular dividends. But these developments were merely pointers in the growing chain of reasons that the financial community is piecing together to convince itself that the time has come to move forward. In other words, the street is playing on the prospect of an autumn revival of parts and going about it with an earnestness that bespeaks great possibilities.

Gains Well Distributed.

Gains of the day were well distributed, all groups sharing generously in the upswing. Brokers reported that outside buying was much heavier than usual, the accumulation of overnight orders attracted by yesterday's bulge having been the largest in months.

Short covering, of course, played a prominent part in the market's strength. Reports going the rounds had it that a number of big bear operators who had remained unshaken from their convictions that the bottoms of the bear movement had not been bumped, had overstayed their hands and been squeezed rather severely in the last two days. Demand for covering purposes was particularly urgent in some spots in the rail and utilities groups.

The issues on which the constructive forces concentrated their activity included American Can, American Telephone, Allied Chemical and Dye, General Motors, General Electric, Consolidated Gas, Case Threshing Machine, New York Central, Union Pacific, Union Carbide, United States Steel, and Atchison. Gains in these ranged from a fraction to about 3 points.

Coppers Come to Life.

Copper shares were prominent in the early trading. A report that leading copper interests were going to boost the price of the metal to 7 cents a pound from 4½ to 5 cents a pound brought the long dormant group to life and such issues as Anaconda, Kennecott, and Cerro de Pasco enjoyed the liveliest workout in months. Anaconda finished the day displaying a gain of more than a point.

The rails were given a whirl next with Union Pacific and Atchison enjoying unusually heavy demand. Each was up 4 points or so around the noon hour but realizing and later neglect by their sponsors cost each a point or two before the close.

United States Steel, up more than a point at one time, closed at 27⅝ up ¼ on the day.

A half dozen preferred stocks advanced as much as 4 or 5 points.

WHEAT RISES 7C FROM LOW OF LAST WEEK

Best Buying in Months Appears in Pit.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat prices were on the upgrade yesterday for the third straight day. Futures sold at the highest level in nearly two months. At the top they showed 6⅝@7¼c above the low of last week. There was a marked broadening in speculative interest and leading commission houses reported buying had been more general than for months.

This was regarded as reflecting the much more confident tone as to the future of general business, and especially regarding agricultural commodities which have been selling at record or near record low prices for some time past.

According to pit estimates the total business in wheat futures yesterday exceeded that of the previous day, when purchases were officially reported at 37,233,000 bu, and were almost double those of the previous week, as well as nearly 22,000,000 bu in excess of the corresponding period of a year ago.

Profit Taking on Bulge.

At no time Thursday were wheat futures more than a fractional under the finish of the previous day. There was a persistent run of buying orders in the hands of commission houses and in sufficient numbers to largely offset the effect of heavy realizing sales by recent buyers and also holders of daily and weekly offers. The latter in some instances were good for around 3c per bu. September touched 53¼c on the bulge, compared with 46⅝c on July 18. Toward the last selling pressure increased and a reaction from the best prices of the day followed, but the close was at net gains of ⅝@1c, with July finishing at 51c; September, 52¾@53⅜c, and December, 55½c.

There was free buying of wheat futures here against sales at Winnipeg which resulted in the September-October spread narrowing to 9¾c at the last, compared with 10c at one time on Wednesday. According to pit gossip a house with eastern connections which has recently been a good buyer of wheat futures went out of the last of a large line on the bulge. Winnipeg finished unchanged to ⅛c lower for the day, with October at 61⅝c in Canadian funds.

Talk Good Export Sales.

Reports from Winnipeg said houses with New York, seaboard and foreign connections had been free buyers of futures, and there were intimations of a good export business in Manitoba wheats. The trade also had reports suggesting that some business had been done at the gulf. Numerous rumors were current during the course of the day, but lacked confirmation, and those who should be in a position to know regarded them as a revival of the sensational talk which was current some days ago. The rumors appeared to originate in New York.

A break of around 3 points in sterling resulted in the Liverpool wheat market failing to make a full response to the late strength in North America on Wednesday, but the close was 1¾@1⅞c per bu higher, with October at 57½c, the best figure since early in June. It was said the break in sterling was due to heavy buying of American and Canadian securities.

Crop reports from the Canadian northwest continue to make a relatively unfavorable showing, and deterioration was claimed in southern and central Saskatchewan and in parts of Alberta. European buyers are said to be paying close attention to the damage reports on wheat from Canada. Wet weather prevailed in Europe and harvesting is being delayed over a considerable area with further damage indicated in Italy.

Corn Market Reacts.

Corn failed to show the pronounced strength so apparent in wheat, but managed to advance around ⅞c early in sympathy with the latter grain, only to weaken toward the last and close unchanged to ⅝c lower, July showing the most weakness. The nearby future finished at 31⅝c, while September was 32½@32⅝c, and December, 33¼. The country sold 200,000 bu old corn to arrive. Local elevators were loading out 500,000 bu cash grain for shipment to Buffalo yesterday, and charters were made for 230,000 bu. Damage reports were received from Nebraska during the day, and Omaha interests expressed the belief that the coming government report would show a much smaller corn crop for that state. No rain of consequence was received over the belt overnight, but the forecast indicated local showers.

More interest was taken in the oats market, reports that a local handler had sold 150,000 bu to exporters with charters made for the grain to Montreal having some effect on sentiment. Futures advanced fairly early but lost part of the upturn in sympathy with corn and closed ⅛@⅝c higher. July was 17¾c, September, 18⅜@18½c, and December, 21c at the last. The nearby future in Chicago is selling around 4c under the August delivery in Buenos Aires.

Short covering was strongly in evidence in rye, and this with the strength in wheat largely accounted for the upturn of ⅞@1c in that grain.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP)—Coffee was sharply lower today, following early firmness, on a little liquidation believed to be for speculative account coming into an empty market just before the close. The list during the morning moved steadily higher on a good trade demand brought out by continued unsettlement in the Brazilian political situation. Contracts were supplied by commission houses and other trade interests and were never in large supply. The late selling, however, depressed prices and final levels were at about the low points of the day. No. 7 contracts opened 2 points lower and closed 12@28 points lower. Sales, 4,000 bags. Santos opened 1 point higher and closed 2@17 points lower. Sales, 10,000 bags. Closing quotations: Santos—September, 9.82c; December, 8.97c; March, 8.71c; May, 8.64c. No. 7 prices follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.

December	5.93	5.96	5.86	5.86	6.32

Spot coffee quiet and unchanged. Rio 7s, 8¾c; Santos 4s, 11c. Cost and freight offers in small supply and higher and included Santos Bourbon 3s and 5s at 10.10@10.25c.
